All 52 Aboard K... As Flaming Airliner Falls Near Utah Field

Bodies, Wreckage Strewn Over Wide Area as Giant DC-6 Disintegrates

Bryce Canyon, Utah, Oct. 24 (AP).—A United Airlines transport plane carrying 52 persons smashed against a sloping hillside here today, scattering the shattered bodies and wreckage over a wide area.

The four-engined craft, trailing smoke and flame for at least 10 miles before it crashed, virtually disintegrated. A strip of sagebrush more than 100 yards long and 50 yards wide was burned.

The four engines, scorched and twisted, were thrown 200 to 300 feet beyond the burned area.

The largest piece of the plane was a section of the tail, only 15 or 20 feet long. It was near the forward portion of the burned area.

Pilot Reported Fire

All the bodies were mangled and burned. Most were unrecognizable.

The transport was en route from Los Angeles to New York City with only one stop—at Chicago—scheduled.

Shortly before the crash the pilot reported by radio that fire had broken out in the plane's baggage compartment. He said he was turning back and would land at the emergency landing field here, adjacent to Bryce Canyon National Park in southern Utah, about 275 miles south of Salt Lake City.

The craft barely cleared the precipitous wall of a branch of Bryce Canyon. Then it plowed into the sloping, sage-covered hillside, apparently exploded and burned.

The bodies were scattered throughout the burned-over area. Some — unexplainedly — were dropped in the canyon. They, too, were burned.

Ten miles to the eat, at Tropic, a service station operator said she saw the plane burning as it flew over that community.

J. A. Simpson of Puyallup, Wash., hunting deer in the area east of Tropic, said he saw a fire under the plane's left wing.

Two Infants Aboard

After the craft passed he said he saw some object fall from it, and a little farther along he saw something else drop. He said he had no idea what the objects might have been.

The plane carried 47 passengers —including two infants—and a crew of five. A dozen or more of the victims were women.

Jack Guenther, managing editor of Look magazine, was abroad. The 33-year-old executive was returning to New York City after three weeks on the West Coast.

Another passenger was Clement D. Ryan, president of Whitney's Department Store in San Diego and former president of Montgomery Ward.

New Fires Threaten Bar Harbor

Bar Harbor, Me., Oct. 24 (AP).—Like refugees of war, thousands of persons today fled this flame-wasted island colony of millionaire summer mansions.

They left to escape another night of the terror of raging forest fires which took 15 lives in the Nation, and caused a loss of upwards of 26 million dollars across New England.

Maine—With six communities wiped out in addition to this devastated section of Mount Desert Island—was still under attack by four firefronts which were out of control.

As the Army, Navy, Coast Guard and Red Cross rushed aid by plane, all available local agencies and persons were rallying to help 3500 evacuees who streamed out of Bar Harbor and other areas in swiftly gathered boats like a small-scale Dunkerque.

Nation Fighting Flames

Outbreaks of woodland blazes elsewhere in the Nation, in New York, New Jersey and Michigan and ranged up north of Maine into the Canadian province of New Brunswick. Closing of forests was ordered in parts of Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

Worn firefighters in the New England bad spots fought through their fifth day, counting chiefly on a drop in 20-mile an hour winds as their best aid. Rain still remained only a hope in the six-State area, drought-gripped for 24 days. The Weather Bureau said only a "sprinkle" was due Saturday night.

The hottest areas of Maine, Massachusetts and New Hampshire took on combat zone appearance. National Guardsmen and Legionnaires joined in aiding families fleeing the blackened ghost towns.

Survivors told of huge flame-bursts that flashed down upon them without warning. Others said they saw a lightning shift in the wind spare one house as flames roared through dwellings around it.

An evacuation center at Ellsworth estimated 2500 refugees were thronging there from Mount Desert Island. Winds held during the day and drove fresh threats and exacuation alarms to Jonesboro, Me.

Maine Death Toll Eight

Maine's death toll stood at eight, and its loss was officially estimated at 25 million dollars. Three fire-caused deaths were listed in Massachusetts, three in Michigan and one in Connecticut.

Richest target of the flames in Maine was the plush Bar Harbor expanse, where damage alone was set at eight million dollars in property, exclusive of costly furnishings and art treasures.

Show places destroyed included those of author Mary Roberts Rinehart, Lady Eunice Oakes, financier William Hamilton, soap manufacturer William Procter, steamship magnate George Munson. Also lost were the famed Memorial Laboratory and the buildings of Acadia National Park.

Associated Press Writer James Calogero from the height of the fire in Bar Harbor said the international summer colony looked "like a smoking dump" with telegraph poles blazing like torches and only a dozen of 50 once-palatial residences left.

Truman Says Voluntary Action Isn't Enough to Halt Inflation; Cites Totalitarian Peril Abroad

Tells Nation Plan To Be Ready When Congress Convenes; Hints at Controls

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

President Truman, listing "peace and prosperity" as the Nation's goals, said last night that voluntary action by American businessmen and other elements was not enough to hold down prices—that the Government had to go "beyond" this to curb inflation.

This, he explained, was one of the reasons he had called Congress back for a special session on November 17.

The other reason was, he said, to supply France and Italy with food and fuel and thus protect them from "totalitarian pressures" this winter.

Mr. Truman, in a broadcast to the Nation from the White House, gave first place to high prices and the danger to domestic prosperity.

"Inflation must be stopped before it is too late," he said.

Hints at Controls

He hinted at Government controls of some kind, but outlined no program. He said, however, that he would submit one when Congress convenes next month.

"In our free enterprise system," Mr. Truman said, "we place major reliance upon voluntary action by businessmen, farmers, workers and consumers. That is why I have repeatedly urged voluntary price reductions.

"But the responsibility of Government extends beyond aiding voluntary action. The Government must respond to the needs of the people. . . . The Government must assume a larger share of the responsibility for putting an end to excessive prices. . . .

"When it (Congress) meets, I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living . . ."

Scoffs at Russian Charges

In that section of his speech dealing with foreign policy, the Chief Executive scoffed at the charges of Vice Commissar Andrei Vishinsky and other Russian spokesmen that the United States is embarked on a program of imperialism.

"It is nonsense to say that we seek dominance over any other nation," Mr. Truman said. "We believe in freedom, and we are doing all we can to support free men and free governments throughout the world."

He said, in effect, that the long-range Marshall Plan for the rehabilitation of Europe might have to be scrapped unless countries like France and Italy can be helped through this winter.

Decisive Time in History

"A period of crisis is now at hand," Mr. Truman said. "The perils of hunger and cold make this winter a decisive time in history. . . .

"In advance of our decision on plan, we must help some nations the long-range European recovery through this immediate crisis. The most imminent danger exists in France and Italy. If the economies of these countries collapse and the people succumb to totalitarian pressures, there wil be no opportunity for them or for us to look forward to their recovery so essential to world peace."

He explained that their first need was food, since they had ex- in a hundred years. Fuel, he perienced the worst crop failures said, was their next greatest need.

He said France would need 375 million dollars to carry her until March 31 and Italy would need 285 milion dollars. Additional funds also would be needed, he said, in America's occupied areas — Germany, Japan and Korea.

Two Courses Open

"The two problems I have been discussing with you tonight—high prices at home and hunger and cold abroad—present a challenge to the American people," Mr. Truman said.

"We could choose the course of inaction. We could wait until depression caught up with us, until our living standards sank, and our people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice."

The other course, he said, was

Session Call Sends Prices Into Tailspin

Stocks Tumble $1-$3, Cotton Skids $4.50 a Bale, Grain Futures Decline

By John Ball
Post Reporter

President Truman's call for a special session of Congress to deal with high prices, sent commodity and securities markets into a tailspin yesterday.

Grains, cotton, soybeans, eggs, sugar, coffee, lard and cottonseed oil showed heavy losses. Livestock prices were virtually unchanged.

The New York Stock Exchange recorded losses of from $1 to $3 a share, although many issues bounced back a little before the close. Rumors of plans for restoration of the wartime excess profits tax figured in the market break.

Cotton in New Orleans tumbled almost a cent a pound—$4.50 for 500-pound bales. In New York cotton futures were off $2.70 to $4.65 a bale.

Steel scrap, which has skyrocketed steadily in recent weeks, and which is an important item in manufacture of steel, also tumbled sharply, as did rubber and hide futures.

On the Chicago Board of Trade futures prices dropped the full limit permitted for one day of trading—10 cents a bushel for wheat, eight cents for corn and soybeans, and six cents for oats.

Precipitating the drop were rumors that one proposal for controlling inflation would be for the Government to be sole grain purchaser, with powers to allocate supplies to milling, industrial and other users.

At the close of grain dealing, however, wheat was still above $3; with December delivery at above $3.02.

In Washington the National Turkey Federation again appealed to President Truman's Citizens Food Committee to exclude turkeys from the Poultryless Thursday program.

The Thursday ban on turkeys, the industry said, is unfair to turkey raisers because of their seasonal operations. Ninety per cent of all turkeys are marketed between October 1 and January 1, they pointed out—the period now set for the poultryless program.

Price, Aid Link Assailed

Republicans Charge 'Politics' In President's Congress Call

By The Associated Press

Two Republican lawmakers declared yesterday that President Truman is "playing politics" by linking rising living costs with foreign aid in his call for a special session of Congress November 17.

Mr. Truman was preparing meanwhile to broadcast his reasons (10 p. m., EST) for summoning the legislators back some eight weeks ahead of their scheduled regular January session.

Representative Halleck (R., Ind.) House majority leader, and Representativet Wolcott (R., Mich.), House Banking Committee chairman, were joined by Carroll Reece, GOP national chairman, in making the charge of "politics."

Haleck said in a statement that Mr. Truman made "no suggestion" about price legislation when he called congressional leaders to the White House in September, and that he "brushed off the skyrocketing grain prices, which incidently whirled other prices upward. It is now obvious that he is trying to shift the emphasis from foreign aid to prices."

Wolcott told reporters after he and Halleck had conferred with Speaker Martin (R., Mass.):

"I think I see a little political racket worked in there. Anybody knows that foreign purchasing cannot be done without some impact on domestic prices. If the President can bring down prices without consumer controls (rationing) back on, he is a genius—and we'll admit it."

Further, Halleck and Wolcott said Mr. Truman's plan to recommend inflation controls at home may have placed in jeopardy his hopes of obtaining more than a billion dollars for emergency relief, largely for western European countries, through the winter.

However, Chairman Eaton (R., N. J.), of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, said "Congress has to act and act promptly" in providing relief for France and Italy. He said he hopes to have a bill ready covering all relief needs, as well as money for occupied nations, when Congress convenes.

Mr. Truman, Eaton said, has asked $1,100,000,000 for emergency relief needs, of which 642 million dollars would be for France and Italy. He declined to commit himself on those figures.

However, Chairman Taber (R., N. Y.) of the House Appropriations Committee, said he is not so sure France and Italy will need the aid. Taber, whose committee will write any House bill providing funds, returned only yesterday from a study of conditions in Europe.

After a call at the White House, Taber told reporters he holds "an open mind" on the special session.

"I don't know enough about why he (Mr. Truman) has called it to

Reds Tried To Ruin Him, Disney Says

World-Wide Smear Campaign Followed Threat, Artist Testifies

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Communist parties all over the world joined in a "smear" campaign against Mickey Mouse cartoons when Herbert K. Sorrell, Hollywood labor leader, called a strike against his company, Walt Disney, famed movie cartoonist, testified yesterday.

Disney told the House Committee on Un-American Activities that he regarded Sorrell as "a Commie," and that Sorrell had threatened to make "a dust bowl" of Mickey Mouse's Hollywood birthplace.

The cartoonist said the campaign against his movie cartoons was launched in this country through the various "Commie front" organizations.

Can't Do Business With Reds

"Generally throughout the world Commie groups began to smear me and my pictures," Disney testified.

He told the committee that Sorrell had threatened to "smear" him and warned that the movie producer could never resist such a campaign.

The 46-year-old "father" of the movie cartoon characters beloved throughout the world told the committee he couldn't do business with the Russians, and inferentially accused the Soviets of some sharp practices, in a business way.

Disney said his cartoons with Mickey Mouse and Donald Duck were sold all over the world "except in Communist countries."

"Well, you can't do business with them," he added.

About three years ago the Russians bought "The Three Little Pigs," he testified.

Scheele Jailed As Jury Calls 11 Policemen

By Donald Olsen
Post Reporter

The Arlington County grand jury which is investigating gambling conditions in the county yesterday called 12 new witnesses, 11 of them Arlington policemen.

This newest turn in the gambling probe came as Russell (Peanuts) Scheele pleaded guilty to gambling charges in county court and was fined $750 and given a five-month jail sentence by Judge Hugh Reid.

The surprise announcement of new witnesses to appear before the grand jury was made shortly after the jury recessed at 6:30 p. m. yesterday. The jury will reconvene at 10 a. m. Monday.

The grand jury carried its probe into the second day yesterday while elsewhere in the courthouse Scheele was appearing in a packed courtroom. It was Scheele's arrest October 17 that set off the gambling investigation.

Although Scheele pleaded guilty to charges of operating a lottery and of accepting horse bets, Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence Douglas called Arlington Police Chief Harry L. Woodyard to the stand.

Woodyard, a member of the raiding party which surprised Scheele in his home, 2716 N. 19th st., Arlington, and confiscated more than $2500 in cash and checks and a quantity of numbers and horse bet slips, described the raid and what he had observed in the house.

Every seat in the courtroom was filled. Those who had been unable to press their way in peered through windows and doors. Judge Reid warned against a demonstration.

Scheele remained bland throughout. He chewed at a thumbnail but showed no other sign of nervousness.

Douglas told the court that persons engaged in gambling opera-

Significance Uncertain

London, Oct. 24 (AP).—Russia announced today a switch in its Ambassadors to the United States, a move which left diplomats both here and in Washington uncertain as to its possible significance.

The Moscow radio said Ambassador Nikolai Novikov, who took over Russia's top diplomatic post last year, had been relieved of his duties, and would be replaced by Alexander S. Panyushkin, former Ambassador to China and a military man.

Novikov, who became Ambassador when Andrei Gromyko was named Russian delegate to the United Nations, returned to Russia last July and is now in the Soviet Union. He was known as an advocate of Soviet American friendship and cooperation, because of some speeches he made.

Washington diplomats who know Panyushkin, described him as an agreeable individual.

A shift in Soviet diplomatic representatives very often is the herald, however, of a tougher or softer Soviet policy.

State Department officials said they had been advised by the Soviet government that Novikov was ill, and his replacement was necessary. Panyushkin was de-

Taft Says It, He's Officially A Candidate

Ohioan Won't Comment On Other Hopefuls Or GOP Running Mate

Columbus, Ohio, Oct. 24 (AP).—United States Senator Robert A. Taft today issued an announcement that he was a candidate for the Republican presidential nomination.

Most of his friends and a part of the public has suspected this for months.

The 58-year-old Cincinnati lawyer, son of the late President and Chief Justice William Howard Taft, was quickly assured the support of Ohio Republican leaders, and said he would leave to them most of the work of getting the nomination.

Business in the Senate, where he has represented Ohio for nine years, will demand most of his attention, Taft explained.

Checked Sentiment

The Ohio Republican organization asked him to run last July 31, but he deferred announcement of a decision until he had made "a check of public sentiment."

After Taft's candidacy was formally announced in Washington and Columbus, he held a news conference here but firmly declined to talk about other Republican aspirants to the Presidency.

In fact, he named no names and finally by acknowledging questions about Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota said that they too might want to be the party standard bearers in 1948. Dewey was the 1944 candidate and Stassen announced his candidacy last December.

Asked whether Stassen would be acceptable as the vice presidential candidate, Taft replied emphatically:

"I won't comment about candidates at any time during the campaign. That goes for presidential or vice presidential.

Speaking Frankly

Byrnes Says Russia Refused Joint Guaranty of Elections

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly"—six of fifteen chapters of the book published October 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by Donald S. Russell, trustee of the James F. Byrnes Foundation (A Charitable Trust).

By James F. Byrnes

ANOTHER of the proposals that President Truman had presented at the opening meeting of the conference—the implementation of the Yalta Declaration on Liberated Europe stated flatly that the obligations assumed in the Yalta Declaration had not been carried out. A continuation of this situation, it went on, would be regarded throughout the world as evidence of lack of unity and would undermine confidence in the sincerity of the jointly proclaimed aims. We proposed joint action in reorganizing the governments of Bulgaria and Romania to permit participation of all democratic groups as a prelude to establishing diplomatic relations and concluding peace treaties. We also suggested that our three states should help the interim governments in holding "free and unfettered elections."

The discussions that churned around this paper and the issues it raised are worthy of note. They form the background for many weary hours of negotiating.

Stalin's initial response to our paper was simply that the Soviet Union had a proposal of its own to present on the subject. Molotov presented it at the meeting of the Foreign Ministers the next morning. It was devoted largely to a severe attack on Greece. Eden angrily termed the attack a "travesty of fact," pointing out that international observers, including representatives of the Soviet Union had been invited to observe the Greek elections. Unfortunately, the same could not be said of Romania or Bulgaria, he added. And he concluded by saying that the British government "took the gravest exception" to the charges in the Soviet paper, and the matter could only be reported to the Prime Minister.

Reply to Molotov

Mr. Molotov replied that the charges were directed only against the Greek government. He asserted that the British had more representatives in Romania and Bulgaria than the Soviet Union, and, citing British and American press reports as evidence, he charged that there were greater excesses in Greece than in either Romania or Bulgaria.

My contribution to this exchange was to repeat a statement which I was to make many times. It is one which, I fear, Mr. Molotov never fully understood or believed. "The United States," I told him, "sincerely desires Russia to

Accused of 'Private Raid'

Policeman Arrested on Duty On Charge of Housebreaking

A Metropolitan policeman was arrested while on duty yesterday and charged with housebreaking.

At the same time, a warrant charging housebreaking was sworn out against a former auxiliary policeman here.

Pvt. Donald G. Drager, 34, of 1321 Anacostia rd. se., attached to the Thirteenth Precinct Station; Horace L. Thomas of Front Royal, Va.

The two men are accused of entering the residence of Jessie Morgan, 2026 Portner pl. nw., at 2 a. m. Sunday, September 7, according to Inspector Lloyd Kelly. Private Drager is further alleged to have broken a closet door, removed more than 30 bottles of whisky, and taken $140 in cash.

Drager, father of five children, was relieved of duty at the Thirteenth Precinct station house yesterday afternoon, suspended, arrested and booked at police headquarters. He was freed on $1000 bond pending arraignment in Municipal Court this morning.

Thomas, an auxiliary policeman here during the war, is expected to surrender voluntarily today, according to Inspector Kelly.

Drager would make no comment to newspapermen but told his superiors, according to Inspector Kelly, that he had tried to purchase liquor at the Portner place address, had broken the closet panel in order to search for whisky, and finding nothing there, had left without taking anything.

The case broke yesterday as the result of a police-initiated investigation, Inspector Kelly said. Kelly

As Crops Suffer

Fire Precautions Are Urgent In Drought, Park Police Warn

Crisp weather reached Washington yesterday, but to farmers studying parched crops and foresters worrying about dangerously dry woods it was another day without rain.

The forecast for today is rather cloudy and cool with the highest temperature about 60—but no rain. Nor is any rain in sight. The Weather Bureau's extended forecast covering the period to Wednesday predicted "little or no rain."

The prolonged drought posed a most serious problem to the man responsible for fighting forest fires.

Maryland reported 13 scattered forest fires yesterday, all of them brought under controy bi nightfall. More serious blazes were raging in Virginia and West Virginia.

Here in the District, officials of the National Capital Parks warned horseback riders that cigarette butts and lighted matches could cause serious damage on the dry, leafy trails.

Park police and cleanup men also were alerted to spot fire hazards, while the District Recreation Board began reminding applicants for picnic permits to give special care to banking their fires.

Farmers had worries in addition to the fires. Their pastures were burned dry and milk production throughout Maryland and Virginia might be affected. Flowing springs were drying up, and there was danger for fall seeding of small grains, wheat, barley and rye.

But the dust-dry wooded areas were where the greatest potential loss lay.

'Commies' Tried to Ruin Him With Smears, Disney Testifies

Wants Reds Smoked Out

Disney said that he believed all real Communists and Communist organizations should be smoked out so that liberal causes could exist without danger of being smeared.

Disney's testimony concluded a week of public hearings during which a parade of Hollywood stars, directors, writers and producers have sought to put a finger on Communist influence in Hollywood.

The witnesses, who included stars like Robert Taylor, Robert Montgomery, Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and Gary Cooper, were agreed that little, if any, Communist propaganda ever reached the American movie screen.

They said a small, active, militant and highly organized minority, particularly in the writing field, continually attempted to use the screen but that Hollywood was increasingly aware of and resistant to any such attempts.

In the morning session the committee heard a college professor and propaganda analyst testify that a top New York agent of the Communist Party was sent to Hollywood in 1938 to direct propaganda activities for the "Red Fascists" and disappeared when he tried to break with the Communist Party.

Member Quit, Then Disappeared

The witness was 48-year-old Oliver Carlson, who said that he had joined the Communist Party when he was "a kid," and had made an intensive study of it after he had left it.

Carlson said a number of people were sent out from New York to Hollywood at various times to head up Communist activities.

"Ely Jacobson was one I remember in particular," Carlson testified. "He was from New York. He was a charter member of the Communist Party in America and back in 1920 had been director of the 'Workers' School' in New York."

Jacobson, one-time instructor at the University of Moscow, called Carlson some time in 1938 and 1939 and asked for an interview, the witness declared.

"He told me he had decided to break with the Communist Party. He was terribly agitated and afraid he was going to be killed.

"Later he disappeared from Los Angeles and I don't know to this day whether he is dead or alive."

Hollywood a Red Gold Mine

Jacobson told him, Carlson testified, that an important part of his duties as a Red undercover agent was to "soften up" Hollywood personalities so he could get them to join Communist front organizations.

Hollywood is a target for the Reds, Carlson said, because the movies are a powerful medium for propaganda and because Hollywood, being "no sweat shop," is a fertile field in which to raise money.

Jacobson told him, Carlson testified, that "tens of thousands of dollars" had been collected in Hollywood.

"The Communist attitude is, 'Why worry about Moscow gold when you can get Hollywood greenbacks?'," Carlson commented.

Carlson ridiculed Communist claims that attacks upon their activities constitute attempts at "thought control."

"The thought control is all on the other side," said Carlson, "there's something sadly amusing about people who indorse the Soviet government's control of press and radio talking about thought control in this country."

First witness of the day was Mrs. Lela Rogers, attractive, graying blond mother of Ginger Rogers, the film star.

One of the founders of the Motion Picture Alliance for the Preservation of American Ideals, Mrs. Rogers called for the outlawing of the Communist Party.

Mrs. Rogers Cites Movie

"When a Communist secures a firm footing in a picture, he surrounds himself only with other Communists," Mrs. Rogers declared.

Mrs. Rogers said that the motion picture, "None But the Lonely Heart" is a splendid example of Communist propaganda.

She said she believed Clifford Odets, the playwright who did the script, is a Communist.

Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the committee, announced that Odets is on the list of 79 Hollywood personalities whose records the committee will make public.

Chairman J. Parnall Thomas (R., N. J.) announced that Eric Johnston, president of the Motion Picture Association of America, would testify Monday.

Johnston will be followed by Ray Brewer, international representative of the International Alliance, Theatrical and Stage Employes and Motion Picture Operators of America.

The committee will also start hearing some of the writers whose names have been mentioned in testimony. Among the first will be Emmett Lavery, president of the Screen Writers Guild; Dalton Trumba and John Howard Lawson.

McNutt Criticizes Committee

Paul V. McNutt, counsel for the Motion Picture Association, issued a statement yesterday charging that the committee was challenging free speech.

McNutt objected to the fact that Representative Richard B. Vail (R., Ill.) interrogated Carlson "as a propaganda expert" about a statement made in a newsreel by Johnston that the committee was attempting to control the output of the motion picture industry.

Vail also asked about newspaper editorials and columns attacking the committee.

"I wonder if you would give us your opinion with respect to the criticisms that have been directed against this committee by newspaper columnists and editorialists and by the attorney for the film producers and by the president or general manager (Eric Johnston) of the association?" Vail asked.

Carlson, who started to reply at length, was interupted by Thomas, with a peremtory.

"I think we have gone too far afield."

Fears Press Curbs Next

"We have been saying all along that one of the basic issues in this investigation is free speech," McNutt declared.

"The dangers to free speech inherent in this inquiry were sharply pointed up in the attacks on the press at the hearings this morning.

"We have said that when the free screen was singled out first for attacks on its rights of freedom of expression, then the press, the radio and other instruments of communication would not be immune.

"The press was challenged today. Will it be radio programs tomorrow? Books and magazines the next day? Where will it end."

McNutt said as an evidence of fairness of the newsreels, Chairman Thomas and Mr. Johnston appeared in the same newsreel on the hearings.

Bogart, Wife to Testify

Robert Kenny, vice president of the National Lawyers Guild, and counsel for 19 of the subpenaed witnesses, who call themselves "unfriendly witnesses," held a luncheon yesterday to announce that committees from Hollywood and Broadway would be here next week to attend the hearings.

Kenny said the group would hold cocktail parties and receptions and would "voice protests."

Among those coming from Hollywood for the defense of the so-called unfriendly witnesses—mostly script writers — will be actresses Lauren Bacall and Ava Gardner.

Among the actors will be Van Heflin and Humphrey Bogart. Others in the group named are: John Ford, Larry Adler, Leonardo Bercovici, Richard Conte, Sheridan Gibney, Philip Dunne, John Houston, Evelyn Keyes, Danny Kaye, Betty Garrett and Jean Kelly.

The group from Broadway is being led by Lillian Hellman, George Kaufman and Moss Hart.

One of the speakers yesterday was Edward Bmytryke, who has been summoned as a witness next week.

Kenny made it clear that the witnesses he represents will be advised not to answer any questions as to whether or not they are communits.

He said that the right of a secret ballot is guaranteed in the United States.

Taft Confirms His Candidacy

State Republican chairman, said there had been no discussion of a running "mate for him in the Ohio primary election next May."

Taft defined possible issues of the 1948 election campaign as:

1. "The general issue between people who want more Federal power and action and the people who want less."

2. Foreign questions, such as the Marshall Plan for European relief.

3. High prices.

He expressed hope that some plan of "help to go with self-help" would be worked out for foreign relief but added:

"There will be violent differences of opinion. There will be people who want everything and people who want nothing. Whether they will line up according to parties, I don't know."

No State Primaries

Although his acceptance of the Ohio Republican organization's plan to offer his name was drafted before President Truman called a special session of Congress to start November 17, Taft indicated that he would have to abandon much of a planned Southwestern speaking tour. He said he hoped to be able to keep some engagements in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Taft, who made a 12,000-mile trip through the West and Northwest in September and October in an effort to "learn the public pulse" before announcing his candidacy, told reporters he would enter no State primaries to get national convention delegates pledged to his candidacy. His support, he said, will come on the convention floor.

"It takes time and money which are not available to make a personal campaign in each State," he said. "If I want to go into a campaign, I campaign, but I have not the time for it.

"Delegates in the bulk of the States represent the Republicans of that State and not any particular candidate anyway."

Acceptance Letter

In his letter to Johnson, accepting the latter's offer of the support of the key Ohio delegation of 53 men to the party's national convention, Taft said:

"I shall be glad to permit my name to be submitted as a candidate for the Presidency. . . . From observations made on my Western trip and information from many States, the situation with regard to the nomination is wide open, and I have been much encouraged by numerous offers of support from all parts of the country.

"Many able and competent Republicans will be under consideration for nomination by that convention. The selection will be made by the delegates to the convention, who are still to be chosen, acting as a free deliberative body in the best interest of the Republican Party and the Nation."

Appoints Representative Brown

Turning the actual work over to Johnson and the Ohio Republican central and executive committees, Taft designated Representative Clarence J. Brown, Blanchester publisher and Republican national committeeman, and Mrs. Katharine Kenney Brown (no relation) of Dayton, national committeewoman, "to represent me."

At his news conference Taft made a point of saying Representative Brown was "really not my campaign manager yet," although he has been accepted as such almost from the start of the activity on behalf of the senior Senator from Ohio.

Taft has been Ohio's favorite son candidate for the nomination twice before, in 1936 before his election to the Senate and when he was known mainly as a Cincinnati attorney who had built up a reputation as a tax expert in the Ohio Legislature as a representative and senator in the '20s and early '30s; and in 1940, when the late Wendell Willkie beat him for the nomination in a bitter fight on the convention floor.

cleared acceptable by the American Government.

The Washington officials said so far as they knew Novikov was in good health when he left Washington July 26 for Moscow, to consult with his government shortly after Secretary of State George C. Marshall had offered the "Marshall Plan."

Vague on Way Home

At Stockholm, on his way home, Novikov told reporters who asked why he was returning to Moscow, "I cannot help you, even if I knew how long I would be there."

The new Ambassador, Panayushkin, was born in 1905 and was graduated from Frunze Military Academy, Soviet "West Point," in 1938.

From 1939 to 1944 he was Ambassador to China. He returned to the Soviet Union because of his health, and in 1945 was assigned to the Ministry of Foreign Affairs.

He has been decorated with the Order of Lenin, Russia's highest decoration. He is married and has two children.

Explosion Kills 13

Pilsen, Czechoslovakia, Oct. 24 (AP).—A woman in burning clothes ran into a room of the Tryle Chemical Co. where workmen were making Christmas firecrackers, causing an explosion which killed her and 12 other persons. The plant was destroyed. Authorities said her clothing blazed up while she huddled near a small open fire.

have friendly countries on her borders, but we believe they should seek the friendship of the people rather than of any particular government. We, therefore, want the governments to be representative of the people. If elections are held while there are restrictions not only on newspaper and radio correspondents but upon our own governmental representatives as well, the American people will distrust any government established as a result of such an election. We do not wish to become involved in the elections of any country, but, because of the post-war situation, we would join with others in observing elections in Italy, Greece, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria."

THIS discussion contains arguments heard scores of times during ensuing months. Whenever the Soviets were faced with an issue that annoyed them or placed them on the defensive it was standard operating procedure for them to gather up a sheaf of British and American press reports from Greece and launch a counterattack. Mr. Molotov always seemed ready to enjoy the blessings of other nations' free press.

A few days later our paper came up for discussion again, providing an interesting demonstration of the Soviet bargaining technique.

"The Soviet Union," Molotov said, "cannot agree to the supervision of elections. I can understand, though, that other Allies want better facilities for their representatives in these countries. Now that the war is at an end, there is every reason to give greater freedom both to these representatives and to the press. They will have every opportunity to be informed fully regarding the elections."

Soviet Complaint

Having stated an opposition and a promise, he then lodged a complaint that the Soviet representative on the Allied Control Council in Italy was not receiving proper attention. He followed these parries and thrusts with an offer to discuss our proposal regarding elections if we could agree to accord diplomatic recognition to Romania and Bulgaria.

Eden explained that formal recognition was constitutionally impossible for Britain until peace was concluded. I told him that our recognition of a country had to be based on our own estimate of it rather than on its value as a bargaining point. But Mr. Molotov is a difficult man to discourage and the effort to effect a trade of diplomatic recognition in return for the ends we desired went on and on.

BOTH Generalissimo Stalin and Mr. Molotov were determined that no favor should be granted to Italy that was not also granted to Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. One essential difference was pointed out to them constantly: all foreign representatives were free to travel about in Italy and report their observations. During one of these exchanges, Mr. Churchill was stating that the British mission in Bucharest had been "penned up with a closeness approaching internment," when Stalin broke in to ask him how he could make such unverified statements.

Mr. Churchill reddened slightly; he said that the Generalissimo would be astonished at the catalogue of difficulties encountered by the British mission. "An iron fence has come down around them."

"All fairy tales," Stalin exclaimed.

Finally Accepted

Not until the end of the conference, when we linked this question to that of reparations, did we secure Soviet acceptance of Section 10 of the protocol. This stated, first, the desirability of concluding peace treaties and resuming normal relations with all five countries. It then stated that the three powers "have included the preparation of a peace treaty with Italy as the first among the immediate important tasks to be undertaken by the new Council of Foreign Ministers." It then referred to the other four countries, in a way that permitted concurrent preparation of peace treaties with them if this were found feasible. We met the problem of recognition with the statement that "the three governments agree to examine each separately in the near future, in the light of conditions then pervailing, the establishment of diplomatic relations with Finland, Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary to the extent possible prior to the conclusion of peace treaties with those countries.

THE problem of the press was met by this statement: "The three governments have no doubt that in view of the changed conditions resulting from the termination of the war in Europe, representatives of the Allied press will enjoy full freedom to report to the world upon developments in Romania, Bulgaria, Hungary and Finland."

In the meantime, the Soviet Union had placed on the table a second series of charges against Greece in obvious retaliation for a British paper directed against Yugoslavia. When agreement was finally reached on the foregoing section of the protocol, Mr Bevin pointed out that the agenda carried two papers against Greece and one against Yugoslavia. He proposed that all three be dropped. Stalin quickly replied "Yes, welcome." It was a good demonstration of the seriousness with which some of the charges and countercharges were made.

The future of Germany was the chief subject of the Potsdam Conference in July, 1945. Mr. Byrnes describes the agreements which were then reached, but which never have been carried out, in the twelfth installment of "Speaking Frankly," which will be published tomorrow.

tions should be "actually confined in prison" and not let off with a fine.

"It has been our policy upon conviction of such men," he said, "to ask for a jail sentence."

Defense Attorney Homer Thomas declared that "certain citizens have attempted to direct the decision of this court" in statements to the press. He asked Judge Reid to administer a sentence in line with those given other offenders.

"There were too many amateur judges sitting in judgment before this trial began," commented the judge.

Judge Reid said this fact had not "bothered" him too much. Before passing sentence he observed that there had been "evidence of rather substantial violation of the law" on the part of Scheele.

(The "certain citizens" may include Arlington County Board Member Daniel A. Dugan, one of the most insistent advocates of a grand jury investigation of county gambling.

(Dugan said Wednesday that he had been threatened with a contempt of court citation by Judge Reid for stating for publication that if Scheele did not receive the maximum sentence "the citizens of Arlington are going to want to know why."—Editor's note.)

Judge Reid gave Scheele the maximum sentence on the horse bet count—a $500 fine and 90-day jail sentence.

On the charge of operating a lottery (where the maximum sentence is a $500 fine and a year in jail), he fined Scheele $250 and gave him 60 days.

Judge Reid decreed that the sentences will run consecutively. He agreed to give Scheele until November 7 to begin serving the jail sentences so that the defendant will have time to wind up business and personal affairs.

When Defense Attorney Thomas said Scheele would need about two weeks in which to terminate his business and personal affairs, Judge Reid asked jokingly:

"Are those private affairs likely to involve any infraction of the law?"

Mrs. Roosevelt Hits Red News Slanting

Accuses Russians of Carrying on Propaganda Campaign Against U. S.

Lake Success, N. Y., Oct. 24 (U.P.).—Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt today attacked the Russian press for distorting American statements and conducting "a systematic campaign for propaganda" against the United States.

Mrs. Roosevelt protested to United Nations delegates that the whole problem of government-controlled newspapers had become "serious" as they seek to "poison the wells of international friendship."

Mrs. Roosevelt, addressing the U. N. Social Committee, said that Russian newspapers printed the full text of statements by Soviet spokesmen, while they ignored or "slanted" the U. N. speech of United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

"In this way, the people of the countries in which the controlled press functions are being sealed off from the outside world, kept in the darkness of governmental and semi-governmental propaganda, and systematically shielded from the light of full truth," Mrs. Roosevelt said.

The former First Lady's address was a counter-attack on Russia's broad offensive against the American press and American "warmongers." She spoke specifically, however, against a Yugoslav resolution to throttle newspapers which print untruths.

He spoke in the 57-nation political committee of the Assembly in answer to charges made by Andrei Y. Gromyko, Soviet deptuty Foreign Minister, that "warmongering" and "criminal war propaganda" are being carried on in the United States, Turkey and Greece.

The committee is considering a Russian anti-"warmonger" resolution.

The Soviet Ukrainian delegate, Foreign Minister Dmitri Z. Manuilsky, carried on the Soviet Campaign with an accusation that the United States is conduction "an economic and political war for capitalistic domination." Manuilsky asol attacked Secretary of Defense James Forrestal, who was listed by Vishinnsky yesterday as a "warmonger."

Sarper charged that the Russians attempted early in 1947 to "incite" the Turkish people against the United States by printing "misleading" reports that the Americans were trying to take over military bases in Turkey.

Sarper made these complaints against the Soviet press and radios "in the name of the Turkish people:"

"I complain that they have tried to incite Turkish citizens against one another.

"I complain that they have tried to instigate the Turkish army and the Turkish soldiers to rebel against the state.

"I complain that they have tried to intervene in the internal affairs of Turkey.

"I complain that they have propagated aggressive intensions against the territorial integrity of Turkey.

"I complain that they have attempted to incite the Turkish people against its neighbors and to incite Turkey's neighbors against her.

"I complain that they have tried to incite the Soviet people against Turkey."

Turks Accuse Soviet Of Psychological War

Lake Success, Oct. 24 (AP).—Turkey, a recipient of American aid under the Truman program, accused the Russian government radio and the Moscow press today of "phychological aggression" against the Turkish people and of "warmongering" attacks on the Turkish government.

Selim Sarper, Turkish chief delegate, appealed to the United Nations Assembly to stop "this nefarious propaganda."

In Housebreaking Policeman Charge

The Washington Post

PVT. DONALD G. DRAGER, 34, charged with housebreaking, attempts to cover up as he is photographed yesterday at police headquarters gave the following account of the investigation.

Policeman Is Arrested

Lieut. Roy Blick, head of the vice squad, went to Kelly and asked for a probe of rumors that one of his squad members was involved in an incident at the Portner place address. (Drager is not a member of Blick's force.)

Investigating, Kelly found—"the evidence indicates" — that Privates Drager and Thomas, dressed in civilian attire, drove the latter's car into Portner place early that Sunday morning and asked a third unnamed party to buy them some whisky. After agreeing to do so, the third man fled, apparently on getting a high-sign from some one that a policeman was present.

Then—according to Inspector Kelly—Drager followed by Thomas entered the premises of 2026 Portner pl. nw. and broke open a closet panel on the first floor. He is alleged to have removed a case of fifths, 17 half-pints and a few pint bottles of whisky, together with $140 in cash.

Inspector Kelly said the Police Department also is investigating the complaint of a motorist that on 3 a. m. Thursday, Private Drager, off duty, in civilian clothes, stopped the driver in the Tenth Precinct for an alleged minor traffic violation and took a bottle of liquor away from the motorist.

Drager, a native of Schenectady, N. Y., joined the police force in November, 1940. Since then he has been tried five times by the Trial Board for charges involving negligence, insubordination and failure to perform his duty, resulting in his being fined and suspended.

He also was tried once before the captain of the traffic division, and once was dismounted from traffic duty. Twice Drager failed to earn an automatic promotion.

Special Session Call Praised in U. S. Press

By The Associated Press

President Truman's call for a special session of Congress to deal with domestic and foreign problems drew praise in initial, newspaper editorial comment.

Some papers expressed the opinion that the action had come none too soon. Nearly all centered their attention on the foreign aid question.

THE NEW YORK TIMES, saying that the call came after long deliberation and thorough preparation concerning emergency aid for Europe in line with the Marshall Plan, asserted that "this action comes none too soon."

"The economic and political crisis in Europe is mounting at a rate which creates the danger that under the impact of hunger and Russo-Communist sabotage it may develop into a panic with serious consequences for the whole western world.

"But it may be assumed that the action does not come too late. For, having been taken after consultation with the leaders of Congress, which should guarantee early action, the call for a special session is in itself a token of both America's earnestness to fulfill the promises made in the Marshall declaration and of our determination to meet the Communist challenge with more substantial measures than mere slogans. This alone should provide a powerful stimulus and support to all the constructive forces of Europe, who mobilization and cooperation is the first condition for saving that continent. . . ."

'Nation Wanted Action'

THE NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE declared that "the Nation has wanted action," and asserted:

"It has been increasingly inpatient and bewildered by all the procrastinations, timidities and petty political considerations which have entered into the handling of what the Nations knows to be a gigantic issue. It has responded to the baffling half measures which were all that Mr. Luckman was permitted to undertake with a readiness which proves how much more it will do if only it is asked...

"The Secretary of State has told us at last that the time for action is at hand. The President has demonstrated at last that he has the courage to act—against international disaster and domestic inflation—without attempting to shift responsibility to others."

THE RICHMOND, VA., TIMES DISPATCH said that "President Truman is to be congratulated on moving boldly to meet the domestic and foreign crisis . . . The situation is deteriorating both at home and abroad, and there is no possible sense in following a policy of drift any longer.

"Necessary to Move Fast"

"As for the program for emergency aid to tottering Europe, it is necessary that the United States move fast enough, and with sufficient aid to such countries as France, Italy, and Great Britain to prevent a collapse, and to checkmate Communist plans for taking over the continent."

Said THE PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE: "President Truman has finally faced up to urgent needs at home and abroad. It is a decision that should have been made weeks ago but however late is no less welcome. . . . We hope the leaders . . . will hold Congress on the course and that the mavericks won't go dashing off in such diverse directions as tax reduction and increased Federal spending for domestic pork-barrel projects."

THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION said "it is not only our duty to humanity, but also the best possible strategy to preserve our way of life to give as much aid as we can where it can do the most good. The question is not a political one. Congress should act speedily without attempting to make partisan capital of it."

THE PHILADELPHIA INQUIRER said: "Legislation is needed quickly to implement the Marshall Plan and make it something more than a promise of relief. Events have been moving so rapidly both in economic and political spheres in Europe that if we do not act swiftly we may find it is too late."

THE NEW ORLEANS TIMES-PICAYUNE asserted that the necessity for a special session has been "made plainer with every passing day," and commented:

"Now that its date has been fixed, the congressional leaders and their fellow members in both houses ough tto put partisanship in storage and form a solid front for prompt passage of an emergency aid measure that will meet the desperate winter need overseas and 'hold the line' for human welfare and freedom and a just peace."

Bern, Switzerland, Oct. 24 (AP).—Col. Gen. Damian Weltschev, Bulgarian Minister to Switzerland, resigned tonight saying the Bulgarian administration had accused him "falsely" of conspiracy against his government.

Search Abandoned For Dutch Ship Reported Sinking

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Oct. 24 (U.P.).—The Coast Guard today abandoned the search for the Dutch motorship Koert, reported sinking in flames near Port au Prince, Haiti, and declared that "it is quite certain that no ship went down off the Haitian coast yesterday."

An SOS early yesterday morning said the Koert was "15 miles from Port au Prince, on fire, in sinking condition. We have passengers aboard. Request help. Now abandoning ship."

A Coast Guard officer said that unless the wireless message was a hoax, the ship must have made harbor somewhere without reporting her safe arrival. The SOS was intercepted at Palo Alto, Calif., and relayed here.

County Seeks Final Authority to Gain Public Park Land

A bill giving the Montgomery County commissioners final authority in the acquisition of public park lands will be introduced at the coming session of the General Assembly, Chairman Anders R. Lofstrand, jr., of the legislative delegation said yesterday.

The bill would increase from $1,200,000,000 to two billion dollars theborrowing power of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, Lofstrand said.

Lofstrand also disclosed plans to introduce a bill authorizing the county to pay banks for the collection of county taxes at the rate of 5 cents per tax bill. Approximately 80,000 tax bills are sent out annually, he said.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 24 (AP).—An ocean-born storm extending over a vast north Pacific front appeared to be blowing itself out today without causing major damage. Ships at sea reported passing through the storm without difficulty. One fishing vessel was reported breaking up at the Fraser River breakwater.

British Laborites' Trip to Russia Bone-CrushingOne

London, Oct. 24 (U.P.).—Three of the eight British Laborite leftwing members of Parliament who made a 27-day tour of eastern Europe and interviewed Generalissimo Josef Stalin, returned to Britain with various injuries suffered in Russia, it was disclosed today.

One, Ben Parkin, injured his hand when he slipped on a rug on the polished floor of Stalin's guest house overlooking the Black Sea in the Caucasus. He returned to Britain with his arm in a sling.

He said Stalin did not comment on his bandaged hand "so there must be lots of his visitors who slip up on the damned rug."

Arthur Allen returned to London with a bandaged leg, which was injured in a soccer game with the Russians. Harry White was knocked down by a street car in Red Square, Moscow, and came back on crutches.

Md. Vote Recount Group Convenes Nov. 17

Members of the Senate Rules Subcommittee supervising the recount in Maryland's disputed 1946 senatorial election have been summoned to a meeting here November 17.

A spokesman for Senator Jenner (R., Ind.), chairman of the subcommittee, said that date was chosen before the President's selection of the same day for the beginning of a special session.

He said the meeting of the subcommittee "probably will stand as it is."

Dorchester County Farmers Praised

Joseph H. Blandford, director of the Agriculture Department production and marketing administration for Maryland, said yesterday at College Park, Dorchester County farmers deserve "special recognition" for leading the State in planting of cover crops.

Prince Georges County has supplanted Anne Arundel as second on the list, the latter county dropping to third.

Text of Truman's Radio Address to Nation

MY FELLOW COUNTRYMEN:

I HAVE called the Congress to meet on November 17 to consider the problems of high prices at home and emergency aid abroad. These are questions of vital importance to all of us. I want to talk to you frankly tonight about both of these problems.

Since VJ-Day, we have moved steadfastly toward two goals. We have sought peace and prosperity—prosperity for all our people, peace for all the world.

As we measure our progress toward these goals and chart the course ahead, we find that events have raised new and dangerous obstacles in our path. Our domestic prosperity is endangered by the threat of inflation. The peace of the world is endangered by hunger and cold in other lands.

These obstacles must be overcome by prompt and courageous action. Legislation by the Congress is essential. The need is too pressing—the results of delay too grave—for congressional action to wait until the next regular session in January.

Let me speak first about our domestic prosperity.

In many ways we are now more prosperous than we have ever been. More workers have jobs—and at better wages—than at any time in the past. Farmers are receiving a greater share of national income than they have in many years. Manufacturers and retailers are enjoying record business and record earnings. We are producing more goods for civilian use than ever before in history.

But these signs of prosperity do not tell the whole story. Although production is high, prices are shooting up. Although nearly everyone is employed, many people cannot afford essential items. Although national income has reached a new high, the buying power of many people is shrinking.

A few figures—and they are startling figures—show how the cost of living is going up.

Since the middle of 1946, this is what has happened: clothing prices have gone up 18 per cent; household furnishings have gone up 18 per cent; food has gone up 40 per cent. The average for all items is up 23 per cent.

And the cost of living is still climbing. In the last three months it has climbed at a rate of over 16 per cent a year.

Wholesale prices are also increasing. Since the middle of 1946, textiles have gone up 30 per cent; metals, up 35 per cent, and building materials, up 41 per cent. These increases in wholesale prices affect every industry and trade and they will eventually be reflected in retail prices.

For some of our people the increased cost of living has been offset by increased incomes. But for most of our people, increases in income are falling behind increases in the cost of living.

Millions of families of low or moderate income are already victims of inflation. These families are using up savings. They are mortgaging their future by going into debt. They are doing without things they should have.

I know the worries of the breadwinner whose earnings cannot keep up with the high cost of living. I know how hard it is to skimp, and save, and do without.

WHEN SO many people are not sharing fairly in prosperity, the road is being paved for a recession or a depression.

None of us can afford to overlook this danger. Farmers will remember how they suffered after 1920 because price inflation was followed by a collapse. Businessmen and bankers will recall how they suffered after 1929 because wild speculation was followed by the depression. Even those who are prosperous today are prospective victims of inflation tomorrow.

Inflation must be stopped before it is too late.

It is within our power to stop it. Our economy is basically sound. It has been immensely strengthened in recent years. The average buying power of our people today is 40 per cent higher than it was in 1929. But we are losing some of this gain as rising prices pull away from incomes. We can prevent further loss, and can even go on to new gains, if we use our economic strength wisely.

The major cause of high prices in this country is the great demand among our own people for available goods. An attempt has been made to place the blame upon our foreign aid program, but his is not borne out by the facts. During the war, we learned that we could improve our standard of living with less than 60 per cent of our output available for civilian use. At present, even with current exports to all countries, a far greater per cent of our production is available for civilian use. With sound policies, we can protect our own standard of living and carry on a substantial foreign aid program at the same time.

We now have—and will continue to have—enough food and clothing and other goods in the United States to meet our needs. But excessively high prices mean that these goods are not being distriubuted wisely and fairly. High prices ration the essentials of life by squeezing out the less fortunate of our citizens. We can meet this problem only by bringing prices into line with the incomes of our people.

In our free enterprise system, we place major reliance upon voluntary action by businessmen, farmers, workers, and consumers. That is why I have repeatedly urged voluntary price reductions.

But the responsibility of Government extends beyond aiding voluntary action. The Government must respond ot the needs of the people.

The American people now have a compelling need for protection from the dangers of price inflation and the rising cost of living. They recognize this need and are asking for the protection to which they are entitled. The Government must assume a large share of the responsibility for putting an end to excessive prices and the hardships and dangers which accompany them. For this purpose, prompt enactment by the Congress of comprehensive legislation is necessary.

This, then, is one reason why I am calling the Congress into session on November 17th. When it meets, I shall recommend a program for dealing with inflation, high prices, and the high cost of living. Adequate measures—enacted in time—are necessary to correct the present situation.

Let me turn now to the other reason for calling the Congress into session. This i the problem of hunger and cold and human suffering abroad. It is the problem of men and women and children who look to us for help at this crucial time.

We are following a definite and clear foreign policy. That policy has been, is now, and shall be to assist free men and free nations to recover from the devastation of war, to stand on their full share to a stable and lasting peace. We follow that policy for the purpose of securing the peace and well-being of the world. It is nonsense to say that we seek dominance over any other nation. We believe in freedom, and we are doing all we can to support free men and free governments throughout the world.

In furtherance of this foreign policy, we now have under consideration the part which the United States should play in aiding a long-range recovery program for western Europe. This plan presents great hope for economic security and peace in that vital part of the world. It will take some time to complete the consideration of this plan and to make all the important decisions required for putting it into effect.

However, a period of crisis is now at hand. The perils of hunger and cold in Europe make this winter a decisive time in history. All the progress of reconstruction and all the promise of future plans are endangered. If European nations are to continue their recovery, they must get through this winter without being crippled by economic paralysis and resulting chaos.

In advance of our decision on the long-range European recovery plan, we must help some nations through this immediate crisis. The most imminent danger exists in France and in Italy. If the economies of these countries collapse and the people succumb to totalitarian pressures, there will be no opportunity for them or for us to look forward to their recovery so essential to world peace.

Their first need is food. Exceedingly bad weather this year has caused the worst crops in western Europe in a generation. Crop failures in France—the worst in 100 years—and in Italy, make it necessary for those countries to import half the grain they need to live on durthe coming months.

THE OTHER major shortage is fuel. Fuel supplies were depleted by last year's severe winter. War damage to railroads, and the reduced efficiency of miners laboring on an inadequate diet, have prevented the rebuilding of fuel stocks.

The financial reserves of France and Italy have been nearly exhausted by the cost of their imports since the end of the war. Rising prices in the United States and in other countries where they must buy have further reduced the purchasing power of their remaining funds. They now face the emoing winter without sufficient resources to pay for essential food and fuel.

The figures tell the story.

France can meet her minimum needs with present funds, until the end of December, but she will enter the new year without funds to pay for essential imports. The French will need 357 million dollars to carry them until March 31, 1948.

Italy will not be able to get through the rest of this year. Italy must have 142 million dollars to carry her until December 31 and an additional sum of 143 million to get through the first quarter of 1948.

Serious difficulties have been encountered in the occupied areas—Germany, Japan and Korea. Additional funds will have to be appropriated this year in order tfor us to maintain our position in these areas.

It can readily be seen that congressional action to meet these needs cannot be delayed until January.

My action in convening the Congress on November 17th in no way reduces the necessity for pressing forward with our voluntary food saving program. Dollars apprporiated by the Congress cannot feed hungry people if there is no food for the dollars to buy. There will not be enough food unless we—the people of the United States—save vast quantities of grain. I am deeply gratified at the splendid response of the American people to our national food-saving program. It is an earnest effort to meet the needs of humanity.

Even with the proposed aid from this country, the people of Europe this winter will be on short rations. They will be cold, and they will be without many necessities. But our emergency aid will be definite assurance of the continuing support of this nation for the free peoples of Europe.

The two problems I have been discussing with you tonight—high prices at home and hunger and cold abroad—present a challenge to the American people.

We could choose the course of inaction. We could wait until depression caught up with us, until our living standards sank, and our people tramped the streets looking for jobs. Other democratic nations would lose hope, and become easy victims of totalitarian aggression. That would be the course of defeatism and cowardice.

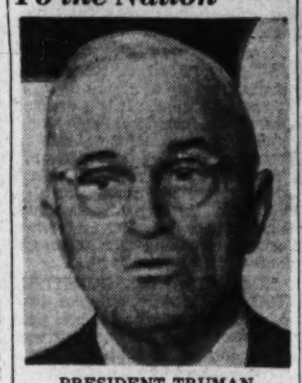

Our other course is to take timely and forthright action. If we do this, we can halt the spiral of inflation at home, relieve hunger and cold abroad and help our friendly neighbors become self-supporting once again.

I know that it is the heartfelt wish of the American people that action be taken which will overcome the obstacles to peace and prosperity confronting this nation.

It is within our power to lead the world to peace and plenty.

With resolution and united effort we shall achieve our goal.

Ga. Supreme Court Sets Precedent, Wipe's Out Laws

Atlanta, Oct., 24 (AP).—A Georgia Supreme Court decision today set a precedent for wiping out hundreds of local laws enacted by the 1946 and 1947 state legislature.

The opinion held that under the 1945 state constitution, legislative act affecting local communities must contain proof of proper advertising. Secretary of State Ben Fortson, jr., said an all-day survey showed only one of approximately 300 local laws passed this year contained the required certificates.

Fortson said local governments were in "confusionand turmoil." Some of the local acts established new city governments, revamped old governments, authorized bond issues, and otherwise greatly affected the communities.

Cries arose immediately for a special session of the legislature to re-enact laws which might be invalid. Followers of Herman Talmadge, who held the governorship briefly earlier this year, have insisted for months on a special session to enact new voting qualifications.

Foreign Aid Advisers Map 5-Point Plan

Discussion of steps necessary for this country to fulfill requirements of the Marshall Plan for European recovery marked a full day's session of President Truman's Foreign Aid Committee yesterday.

A five-point program was considered by the group headed by Secretary of Commerce W. Averell Harriman. The committee plans to have its report ready for President Truman by November 5.

Chief among the topics under consideration were:

1. Domestic controls necessary to assure sufficient supplies of commodities, industrial equipment, and other requirements under the plan.

2. Administration centering around the need of establishing a special agency to carry out the program.

3. Methods of financing the plan, and of repayment by receiving countries.

4. Relations with receiving governments, including such questions as reexport of materials furnished under the plan, and proper controls of exports.

5. Inventory of American resources necessary to carry out the program. These include (1) food; (2) fuel, both coal and petroleum products; (3) steel and steel products; (4) transportation.

Reports from the meeting indicated that considerable heat was developed in discussion of several subjects.

The committee, which a month ago recommended raising the Department of Agriculture's recommendation of a program for grain exports from 470 to 570 million bushels, reportedly engaged in serious argument about the advisability of continuing present large snipments abroad.

One group advised, it was reported, stockpiling of much-needed gain in this country, instead of shipping it immediately for stockpiling, for future use, abroad.

The finished report of the committee originally was planned for October 1 and later delayed until November 1. Yesterday's meeting is said to have resulted in a further delay until November 5. One member of the committee explained the delay with:

"We have more hay down than we can put up by November 1."

Hearing Told Of Railroads' Smoke, Noise

Smoke law violations by the Washington Terminal Co. and railroads cause a smoke nuisance here, representatives of eight District Citizens Associations told the District Commissioners yesterday.

Fifty citizens and railroad officials heard the charges during a Commissioners' hearing at the District Building, protesting against conditions, said to be harmful to health and property.

Protesting citizens were divided into three main groups:

1. Those objecting to smoke and noise from Ivy City roundhouse and yard along New York ave. ne., between 5th and 15th sts.

2. Objectors to smoke and noise on rail routes in the city.

3. Persons protesting against objectionable smoke gasses near the mouth of a terminal approach tunnel at New Jersey ave. and D st. se.

Protesting Groups

Representatives of these citizens associations testified: Brentwood Terrace, National Gateway, Michigan Park, Dahlgren Terrace, Benning, Rhode Island Avenue, Southwest, and Deanwood.

Lawrence M. Bichell of 2227 13th st. ne., brought a soil sample from his back yard, showing how roundhouse smoke caused a "layer of soot a quarter of an inch thick" on top. "And you can sweep more than that off the porch twice a day," he added.

Mrs. Josephine M. Johnson, 110 35th st. ne., said noise as well as smoke was a menace.

Miss Camille Boswell, 11 D st. se., called gas from the terminal approach tunnel the most troublesome problem.

Ramadier Sees Hope In Truman's Action

Paris, Oct. 24 (AP).—A spokesman for Premier Paul Ramadier said tonight that President Truman's call to Congress for a special session may strengthen the hand of the French government in its appeal for a vote of confidence from the National Assembly next week.

The Socialist Premier's policy of "playing the American card" has been under violent attack from the Communists ever since the Russians refused to participate in the Paris Marshall Plan Conference. Some rightists, too, have expressed skepticism whether Ramadier could "produce the goods" in the shape of American aid.

The National Assembly will meet Tuesday and vote Thursday after two days of general debate on the government's economic and political policy.

Some observers believed that if Ramadier fell, President Vincent Auriol would call on the centrist Radical-Socialists, led by Edouard Herriot, to form a new government with Socialist and Popular Republican participation. Foreign Minister Georges Bidault is the best-known member of the latter party.

Bridges Would Halt Russian Reparations

Berlin, Oct. 24 (AP).—Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.) declared today he favors cutting off deliveries of German reparations to Russia until Soviet obligations under the Potsdam agreement are fulfilled.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee told a news conference that, "as a result of Russian action, a substantial part of Germany's breadbasket has been taken out."

Seven other members of the committee attended the conference.

Senator William F. Knowland (R., Calif.) also favored halting reparations to Russia, and Senator Richard B. Russell (D., Ga.) said he advocated "France, Britain, Holland and Belgium getting all the reparations they can, which don't have to be paid for by the United States."

About 25 per cent of the reparations from the 682 German factories listed for dismantling in the British-American zones is earmarked for the Soviet Union and Poland.

Bridges said his committee intended to ask for a review of the dismantling program in the light of Russia's refusal to treat Germany as an economic unit, as agreed at Potsdam.

"I believe in living up to agreements with those countries which live up to them with us," he said.

The appropriations chairman added that "if you are going to rehabilitate western Europe, the recovery of Germany has to go hand in hand with (that of) western Europe." He said his committee would open hearings on Europe's needs immediately upon the convening of the special session of Congress next month.

Business Aid Seen in Tax Revision Plan

A joint Treasury-Congress report proposed yesterday that the tax system be changed to provide more incentive to start new business enterprises.

Present law permits a business concern, in figuring its income tax, to deduct its losses in any one year from profits in the two years before and two years after.

The report recommended that firms be permitted instead to carry forward losses as an offset against profits in the next five years. It would abolish carry-backs of losses to prior years.

Both systems provide businesses a means of averaging profits and losses over five-year periods, thereby lowering the amount of tax they pay in good times and making hard times easier to bear.

But the report prepared by Treasury staff experts and those of the House and Senate Committees on Taxation said the straight carry-forward for five years would be "superior to the carry-back in stimulating entry of new business enterprises" because:

"If the entry of such an enterprise were followed by sharp competitive warfare which results in losses in the industry, the established company would be able to recoup a portion of its losses from the Government by way of the carry-back, but the new enterprise could not.

"The latter would have to wait for future profits to recover a portion of its losses. Yet the prospect of future profits is made more uncertain because the Government would partially underwrite its competitors."

Television To Show '48 Convention

Philadelphia, Oct. 24 (AP).—The Republican National Convention in Philadelphia next June will be televised for the first time under gigantic news and radio coverage plans disclosed today.

A committee making preliminary convention plans heard from spokesmen for newspapers, newsreels, magazines and radio and television stations that close to 2000 seats will be needed for their operatives. This compares with 800 seats allotted in 1940.

Coast-to-coast television coverage was outlined by Roger W. Clipp, head of Philadelphia radio station WFIL-TV. Direct telecasts, he said, will be carried on a coaxial cable to New York, Baltimore, Washington, Boston, Mass., and Schenectady, Albany, N. Y. and Buffalo. Discussions are under way to relay the telecast to Chicago and Milwaukee.

Some 750,000 television sets will be in use in the United States by June, reported J. R. Poppele of New York, president of Television Broadcasters Association.

Walter S. Hallanam, national committeeman from West Virginia and chairman of the GOP arrangements committee, said he already is besieged by Republicans all over the country for convention tickets.

U. S. Denies Visas To 2 Frenchmen Seeking CIO Visit

By the United Press

The State Department announced last night that visas had been denied two French Confederation of Labor officials to visit CIO officers in this country.

It said merely that the men were found "inadmissible under our laws."

The United States Attorney General has authority to grant limited visas to persons denied entrance under such circumstances and the CIO has protested to the Attorney General's office.

The Frenchmen are Henri Raynaud and Pierre Lebrun, representatives of the Franco-American syndical commission.

The law used dates back to 1918 and bars from the United States individuals deemed to be dangerous. An official interpretation holds that Communist Party members and those who carry on Communist propaganda are included as such individuals.

Montgomery County May Buy Debt-Laden Suburban Hospital

Debt-ridden Suburban Hospital may be purchased by the Montgomery County government, it was revealed yesterday by Chairman Anders R. Lofstrand, jr., of the county legislative delegation.

Following a meeting between hospital and county and State officials, Chairman Lofstrand said his delegation had been directed by the county commissioners to introduce two bills at the forthcoming special session of the general assembly.

One of the bills, he said, would authorize the county to purchase the hospital from the Federal Government and the other would permit the commissioners to grant up to $50,000 in financial aid.

$60,000 Deficit Forecast

He said the bills would be written this weekend for submission to the assembly's legislative council which meets Tuesday in Baltimore.

The financial plight of the hospital was revealed about two weeks ago by Superintendent Arthur B. Solon who predicted a deficit of $60,000 would be reached by the end of this year.

Both Solon and Arthur G. Lambert, president of the hospital's board of trustees, agreed the financial straits are largely caused by care of indigents for which the hospital receives only $6 a day whereas actual cost per day is $13.

Course Uncertain

County officials emphasized the two proposed bills are "in line with our efforts to find a solution to the financial problems of the much-needed community enterprise" and "we do not know what course we will take."

County Supervisor Irving G. McNayr said the delegation had been instructed to include a proviso in the bill authorizing purchase and operation of the hospital which would allow the county to finance the enterprise by short term borrowing until such time as it would be "reasonable" to issue bonds.

Chairman Lofstrand said he understood the two aid measures were only being initiated because the commissioners felt "obligated" to help the institution. He said he, and other officials, would much prefer the hospital continue "under its own steam."

Mass Drinking In Strike Gets Agent $25 Fine

Denton, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—Irwin Jaffe of Baltimore, organizer for the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union, AFL, was fined $25 and costs in Caroline County Circuit Court today for disturbing the peace during a strike at the Excelsior Pearl Works.

Chief Judge Owen K. Knotts said employes have the right "to self-organization . . . and to picket for their mutual protection," but that "the mass drinking of alcoholic beverages on the street constitutes a disturbance."

Jaffe and Lawrence Christopher of Federalsburg were arrested October 7, when employes at the company's Ridgely and Federalsburg Button Factories walked off the job to demand union recognition.

Judge Knotty said the testimony yesterday and today "clearly established that a group of men and women gathered near the (Ridgely) plant and that a car containing five cases of beer was driven near the group, . . . and all the beer consumed by the assembly."

He said this was a disturbance of public peace "calculated to disturb the community."

The judge added that Jaffe told town officials at the time he would assume all responsibility to avoid the arrest of other persons.

Among the spectators at the hearing was Sydney Brodie of the Department of Justice in Washington, who had no comment. Earlier it was disclosed that the ILGW had filed a complaint with the civil rights division of the department that the two arrests were illegal and constituted a violation of cvill rights.

Christopher's hearing before Judges Knotts and William R. Horney was set for October 30.

Meanwhile, the Excelsior Plants at Ridgely and Federalsburg closed at noon today for the weekend, and Mayor Sutton said "the situation is very quiet." About 90 per cent of all workers have been on the job for the past two days, Sutton said.

In Baltimore, ILGW headquarters said 22 men and women at Ridgely still were on strike and 150 were on strike at Federalsburg.

"The factories may have 90 per cent of their quota of workers," a union spokesman said, "but that is because they have hired new employes."

Spain Protests To London Over Alleged Plot

Madrid, Oct. 24 (AP).—The Spanish government said today it had made an "energetic protest" to the British against a "political plot and machinations" in London in which it charged Foregn Secretary Ernest Bevn had participated. It said the plot constituted an "intolerable attempt at interference" in Spanish affairs.

The communique protested recent reported meetings of Bevin with Jose Maria Gil Robles, Spanish monarchist, and Indalecio Prieto, exiled Spanish Socialist leader, in London.

The communique described the reported talks as "lacking in friendship".

(Dispatches from London a week ago said a well-informed Latin American diplomat had reported Bevin had advised the two anti-Franco Spanish leaders that Britain wanted Spain included in the Marshall Plan but with Franco and the Communists excluded from the government.)

White Hampton Head Ouster Attempt Probed

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Trustees of Hampton (Va.) Institute, the Nation's oldest technical college for Negroes, today instructed a committee to meet on the campus November 1, and investigate recent votes of faculty and students against Ralph P. Bridgman, white president of the school.

Dr. Channing H. Tobias, chairman of the board of trustees, said the committee was instructed to spend at least a week at the school and "make a broad investigation of all reported misunderstandings between the administration and faculty."

On October 3, the faculty voted 83 to 5 against President Bridgman's retaining his office. On October 9, the student body voted 322 to 3 against Bridgman.

India Fights Native State Moslem Drive

New Delhi, Oct. 24 (AP).—An India government communique said today the Indian State Department has taken over supervision of the small state of Manavadar, which lies between Kathiwar and Sorath.

The announcement said action was taken because Moslems were being imported from Sind "with the intention of terrorizing the local population."

A state official of nearby Junagarh said the India government was planning a military occupation this weekend of both Manavadar and Junagarh. He said 30 truckloads fo troops had moved toward Manavadar, and the economic blockade of Junagarh was complete, leaving the people short of food.

Moslems Reported Here As Battling Pakistan

"Indian Moslems are determined to die fighting for the Indian union even if this fight be against the dominion of Pakistan," it was announced yesterday by the Indian Embassy which quoted a statement issued at Lucknow by Maharajkumar Mohmmad Amirali Khan of Mahmudabad. He has resigned from the Moslem League.

The Maharajkumar declared that the League has outlived its usefulness.

"After the creation of Pakistan," he said, "what I find is that well-to-do League leaders have gone to their new homeland leaving the Moslem masses to meet their own fate."

A joint statement by 10 nationalist Moslem leaders representing both east Bengal in Pakistan and west Bengal in India in which they urged the Moslems of India to "shake off the ruinous effects of the poisonous preachings of the Moslem League" and join the Indian National Congress.

Signers included Nausher Ali, former minister and speaker of the Bengal Assembly, and Ahmed Jehangir Kabir, general secretary of the All India Krishak Proja Party.

37 Saved After Ship Collision One Man Missing,

Monterey, Calif., Oct. 24 (AP).—Thirty-seven men of a crew of 38 escaped unhurt early today from an oil tanker which burst into flame following a collision with a freighter in a fog.

One man was missing. Coast Guard officers said he may have died in an explosion in the ship's forward tank.

Some 10 hours after the tanker Sparrows Point and the Canadian motorship Manx Fisher crashed 15 miles off Point Sur, Capt. Svend Nilsen of Long Beach and his men were able to reboard the ship. The fire had been extinguished by a Navy tug.

The Manx Fisher was only slightly damaged and subsequently proceeded on her course, escorted by the cutter Minnetonka.

Coast Guard officers said efforts were being made to get the Sparrows Point under way. The tanker was en route from Seattle to Long Beach in ballast.

Reds Menace Manchurian Power Plant

Peiping, Oct. 24 (AP).—Repulsed at Kirin, the Communists were reported concentrating today around Hsiaofengman, hydroelectric plant which supplies most of southern Manchuria with power.

The plant, 15 miles southeast of Kirin, is strongly defended. Special shock troopers were reported held in reserve in Mukden to rush to the defense if needed.

Latest pro-government accounts said the road from Kirin to Hsiaofengman had been cleared of Communists, permitting electricians under guard to start repairing sabotaged lines.

Government planes made low-level attacks on Communists around Kirin.

Flaming Plane Crash Kills 52

employes here were notified of the plane's trouble and prepared for the emergency landing. But the plane dropped out of sight behind a slight rise of land and the CAA men did not see the crash.

Sight Was Terrible

"We saw flames and smoke," said one of them, H. A. Sutton, "and rushed to the scene. We couldn't do much with our hand fire extinguishers."

Two attendants at the service station at Tropic, Weldon Le Fevre and Robert Middleton, drove quickly to the crash scene.

"When we got there and saw what it was," Le Fevre said, "it made us both kind of sick. It was a big plane, or it was until it hit the ground."

The fire was well under control then, he said, adding:

"The sight was terrible. There were pieces of airplane scattered all over the area, which was just on the rim of the canyon. Pieces of paper and other stuff was all over. Bob and I saw five or six bodies—all naked—which, I guess, had been thrown out of the plane."

First DC-6 Crash

It was the first crash of a DC-6, a new type of plane.

Only three commercial aviation crashes have taken a larger death toll. Fifty-three persons were killed last May 30 at Port Deposit, Md., and the same number died in two crashes at Bogota, Colombia, on July 24, 1938, and February 15, 1947.

Fire Safety Is Cautioned

Buckingham said the absence of major outbreaks was "remarkable" in view of the woodlands' dry condition.

One of Maryland's fires yesterday was near Andrews Field. It was spotted by the Tidewater Fisheries Commission airplane and firefighting forces were mobilized quickly with the help of State police radio.

Buckingham said the most serious of the 13 blazes was one which burned out 20 acres near Galt in Kent County.

Two minor brush fires were reported in Arlington County and two more in Fairfax County. But Virginia's most serious fires were two raging in Dismal Swamp.

District Forester T. S. Turner said a line which had been established around the fire south of Wallaceton had been broken and the swampland in that area was burning again.

He said the second fire to break out in the swamp this season now is burning between Magnolia and Bowers Hill. Approximately 75 soldiers from Camp Lee arrived at the scene yesterday to help fight the fire. Turner said about 150 acres were burned Thursday night.

In West Virginia, State foresters and volunteers fought to keep two forest fires which already had burned over 1600 acres of Mineral County woodlands away from inhabited sections and valuable orchards.

The fires around Knobley and New Creek mountains were fanned anew by light winds yesterday after they had appeared to be under control.

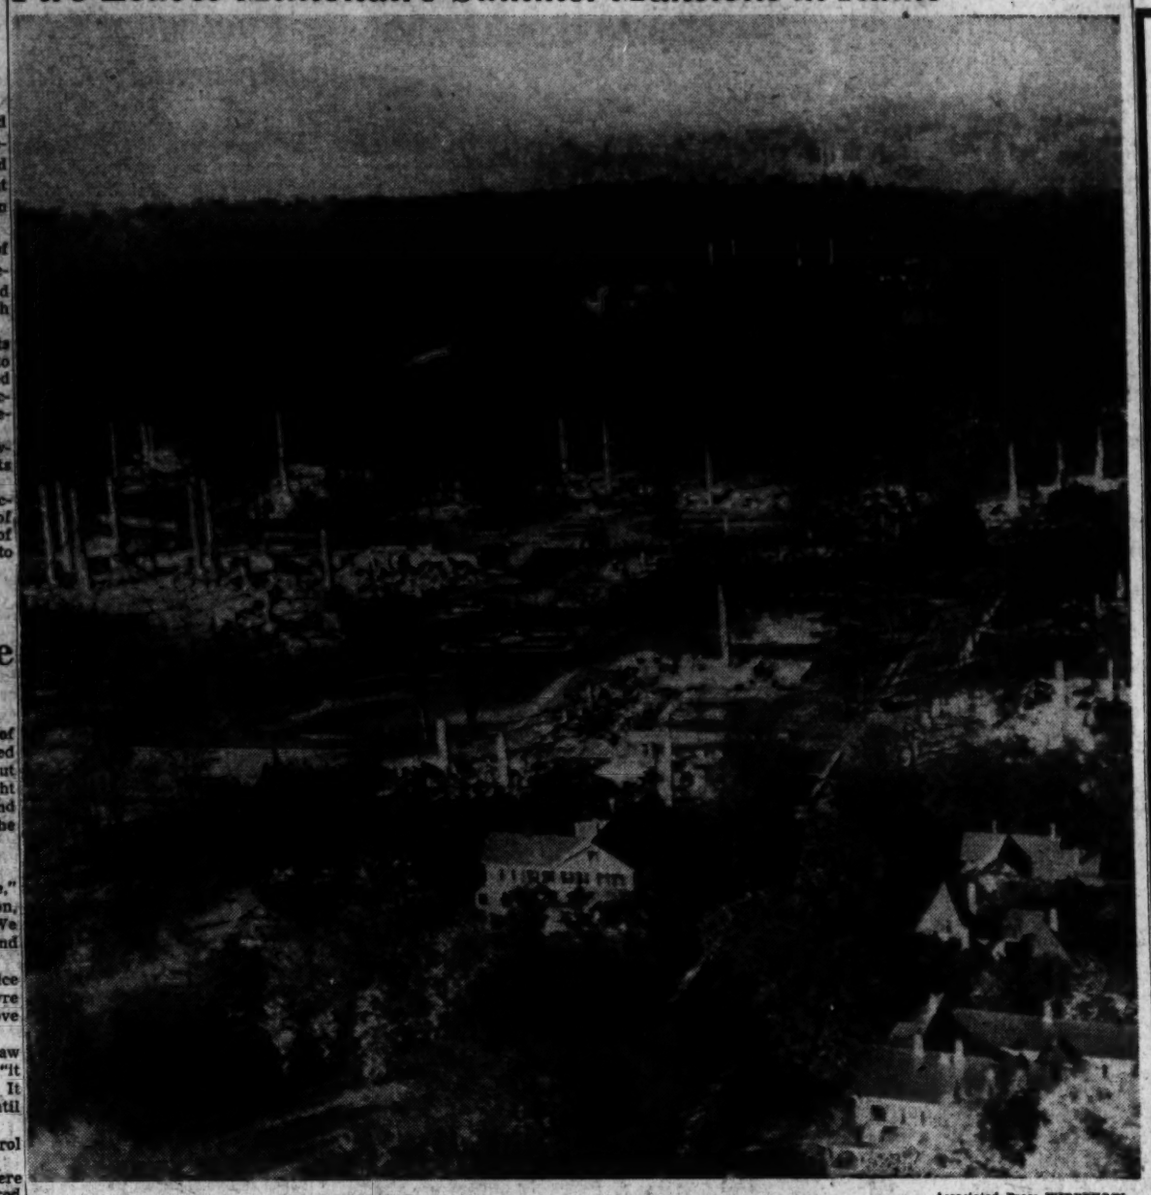

Some indication of how extended the drought has been in this section is contained in Weather Bureau figures. Since the first of the month, rainfall has been 2.16 inches below average. Since the first of the year, it has been 5.89 inches below average.

Thousands Flee as New Fires Threaten Bar Harbor Region

Maine's greatest economic catastrophe carried a threat of future loss. A Maine development commissioner said that the ruin in Mt. Desert Island alone would mean an accompanying loss up to five million dollars in summer recreation jobs and business.

Six Villages Flattened

Flattened by flames which swept 100,000 acres in the State were six Maine villages numbering about 500 persons in each—Lyman, Brownfield, East Brownfield, Goose Rocks, Fortune's Rock and East Waterboro.

Saved by boat, Mrs. Andrew Walls, 49, told of "a crescent of fire—just like a big furnace around us." She said women were hysterical and children were crying.

Mrs. Katherine Davis said she escaped in a school bus loaded with 34 other persons, three dogs, a kitten and a canary.

Some families found reunions at evacuation centers but for others late today there was still worry and waiting for separated children or others.

The Army, which has flown men and equipment to the worst areas, today added four planes carrying fire weapons out of Middletown, Pa., and Mitchel Field, New York, sent 200 troops and materials in 18 planes. The Red Cross set up a $500,000 emergency fund to aid victims.

At Rochester, N. H., winds were aiming a firefront at the industrial center of the city, and school children were kept together as a preparation for possible evacuation.

Massachusetts, where loss has reached more than $500,000, reported 12 to 15 fires still burning unchecked, with 15,000 to 20,000 acres and an undetermined number of buildings destroyed.

Near Renovo, Pa., hampered by high winds, a force of more than 100 volunteers fought a 700-acre forest fire after checking its progress in the direction of the village of Hyner.

Prohibition Seen Eventually by Cleric

County local option voting against liquor sales will eventually return prohibition, the Rev. Sam Morris predicted last night at Calvary Baptist Church, 8th and H sts. nw.

The Texas "dry" crusader, conductor of the daily "Voice of Temperance" broadcast over KWBU from Corpus Christi, addressed the District WCTU fall rally.

He pointed out that in Kentucky, where 43 per cent of the hard liquor in the United States is manufactured, now has 93 wholly dry counties and only 27 "wet" counties; and that 55 per cent of the population of Texas is now living in "bone dry" areas. He said there was reason to believe that Kansas, Oklahoma and Mississippi, which have never permitted sales of hard liquors, soon may ban sales of 3.2 beer, through local option.

Reformation Sunday Marks Anniversary

Reformation Sunday—one of the major events of Lutheranism—will be celebrated with special services tomorrow. Reformation Day—October 31—marks the 430th anniversary of Martin Luther's nailing of the 95 theses on the door of the Castle Church at Wittenberg, Germany.

Luther Place Memorial Church, Thomas Circle, will observe the occasion by dedicating its new three-manual Wicks organ at 11 a. m. The organ installation marks the first phase of the Greater Luther Place program. There will be a recital tomorrow at 8 p. m. by Stanley Plummer, organist-choirmaster of Luther Place. Committee chairman in charge of the organ installation is L. M. Leisenring, formerly supervising and consulting architect for the War Department.

New altar vases and church pews will be dedicated at 11 a. m. at Atonement Lutheran Church, North Capitol st. and Rhode Island ave. nw. The Rev. Paul L. Reeser will speak at 9 a. m. and 11 a. m. New members will be received at 11 a. m.

Footballer Glenn Wagner Returns to Evangelist Duties

By Robert Tate Allan
Post Reporter

Dibelius Wagner

Glenn Wagner, the football guard who turned evangelist, has arrived in Shanghai, China, to resume his labors with the Pocket Testament League.

This 230-pound missionary has with him $5000 worth of bibles and other religious literature for distribution among soldiers and students.

Before sailing, Wagner and Harry Liu, Chinese field secretary for the Pocket Testament League, presented a Testament to Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Ambassador to the United States, at the Chinese Embassy.

In a letter to his wife and two children at 4821 Leland st., Chevy Chase, Wagner told of an eventful ocean trip, barely missing the Florida hurricane, the earthquake in Hawaii and a typhoon in Japan. He expects to be in China nine months.

Wagner, former president of the Washington Bible Institute, was a guard on the University of Illinois 1929 football team, with the famous "Red" Grange. Wagner says he was converted while a student.

MORE ABOUT MISSIONARIES

Miss Lynda Carver, former principal of Montgomery Hills, Md., Junior High School, is now celebrating her first anniversary as a Presbyterian missionary to Iraq.

In a letter to this department, Miss Carver tells of celebrating her anniversary after "five delightful weeks" in Lebanon and Syria, of Biblical note. This spot, she says, is a meeting place for summer religious conferences, "I came home by way of Damascus and was thrilled to be in (St.) Paul's city," she wrote.

Miss Carver, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin E. Carver of 2151 California st. nw., was long active in youth and young adult works at the National Presbyterian Church here. She now teaches in the American School for Girls at Baghdad, Iraq.

NEW CATHEDRAL CANON

The Rev. Crawford W. Brown, erstwhile chief of the Veterans'

Administration Chaplaincy, has been appointed canon precentor of the Washington Cathedral, in which capacity he will direct arrangements for all services. He was temporarily appointed to the Cathedral staff last June, following his resignation from VA.

In his new capacity, he succeeds Canon W. Curtis Draper, now rector of Trinity Church, Upper Marlboro, Md.

BERLIN BISHOP HERE

Two visiting prelates will preach tomorrow at the Washington Cathedral. Dr. Otto Dibelius, Bishop of Berlin and Brandenburg for the German Evangelical Church, will speak at 11 a. m. and the Most Rev. Philip Carrington, Archbishop of the Diocese of Quebec, Canada, at 4 p. m. Bishop Dibelius is visiting America at the Federal Council of Churches' invitation. He will address a luncheon of the Washington Ministerial Union Monday at 12 p. m. at Columbia Heights Christian Church, 1435 Park Road nw. He will speak tomorrow at 6:30 p. m. in St. John's Episcopal Parish Hall, 16th and H sts. nw. His local speaking engagements are being arranged by the Washington Federation of Churches.

TAKING NO CHANCES

When a Salvation Army girl asked a Scotsman to "give a dime to the Lord," he replied:

"How old are ye, lassie?"

"Eighteen," says she.

"I'm 75," says he. "I'll be seeing him afore ye. I'll gie it to him, myself."

Rev. G. A. Phillips To Be Installed At Arlington

The Rev. Gilbert A. Phillips will be installed as Unitarian minister to Arlington at services tomorrow at 8 p. m. at the Thomas Jefferson High School.

Phillips

The installation sermon will be preached by the Rev. A. Powell Davies, pastor of All Souls' Unitarian Church, Washington, D. C., the congregation which Mr. Phillips is serving.

Congressman, Clerics Seek Help for DPs

Representative Frank L. Chelf's suggestions on how churches can help DPs to help themselves has received varied comment from church leaders here.

The Kentucky Congressman is Democratic member of the Fulton Special subcommittee designated by the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee to investigate the Displaced Persons Problems and International Refugee organization in Germany and Austria. Last summer he visited DP camps.

In presenting his report recently, the legislator suggested that churches "adopt" certain DP camps and provide them with yarn, woolen, needles, thread and other supplies. Moreover, he expressed the hope that churches would, in turn, sell the DP-made articles at church bazaars and turn over the profits to the DP's.

An Incentive to Work

"If this suggestion could materialize," said Chelf in his report, "I have no doubt that it would create a burning ambition and incentive to work and would be a great boon to their morale by giving them a sense of independence and a feeling that they were at least contributing to their own maintenance, welfare and support, a feeling that is so vital to every human being."

Bishop Charles Wesley Flint, of the Washington area, praised the Congressman's suggestion, and said he felt that this type of self-help to DP's could best be handled through existing relief organizations, such as Church World Service and Overseas Relief.

No Hope Seen for Future

The Rev. Ralph K. Merker, superintendent of the Washington City Presbytery's department of missions, expressed the hope that many individual churches would follow the Congressman's suggestions. "Most of the DP's, many of them well educated, cultured and skilled, see no hope for the future because there is no market for their abilities," he declared. The Presbyterian Church has no fund at present to aid the DP problem, he stated. The 27 million dollar Restoration Fund now almost completed provides for rebuilding destroyed churches and providing medical supplies, among other things.

Monsignor John A. Russell, pastor of St. Patrick's Catholic Church, said he felt that the self-help plan was only a temporary measure and "not solving the real problem—that of getting the DP's back into normal home surroundings." He said he favored the Congressman's other suggestion of turning the entire DP matter over to the United Nations for their consideration and that each of the 57-member nations should agree to accept a definite pro rata quota.

Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, Apostolic delegate to the United States, who will celebrate the benediction. More than 15,000 persons participated in last year's observance.

Young's Scapegoat

Commissioner John Russell Young's attempt to pass off criticism of the Washington Police Department as the machinations of Communist liners would be laughable if it were not so pathetic. There is no smugness to compare with Mr. Young's. Washington's form of government, he says, is the "finest in the world," with "no graft and no politics." Everything would be lovely were it not for those Washingtonians "Red to the bottom" who are "undermining the Police Department." On later thought Mr. Young has been unable to name any of the subversives to whom he referred. Supposedly, however, he includes in this category The Washington Post, which has had some part in bringing to light conditions within the Police Department that do not redound either to the credit of the department or the man responsible for it—namely, Mr. Young. In no case have we directed our criticism at the Police Department as an entity, but rather at specific abuses.

For Mr. Young's edification we are happy to be specific again. First, the matter of pocketed crime complaints, something on which Mr. Young took no action until a fire was virtually built under him. Second, the instances of police brutality which have brought nothing from Mr. Young except pious platitudes. Third, the death of prisoners charged with intoxication, a problem which Mr. Young ignored until it became too hot for him to gloss over further. Fourth, maladministration within the Police Department itself, as evidenced by such items as the shortages of funds at the Fourth Precinct—something Mr. Young would not even have known about but for the industry of reporters. Fifth, the restoration to duty of a policeman discharged for beating a Georgetown University student—a restoration made by Mr. Young himself in flagrant violation of the recommendation of a police trial board.

If a citation of such abuses which no city with a responsible elected government would tolerate for an instant is undermining the police force, then we plead guilty. We have always supposed that the way to correct errors and deficiencies was first to find out about them. It appears that Mr. Young has another formula—merely to refuse to admit that the defects exist. In reality, of course, Mr. Young's egregious remarks constitute an amazing confession of his own ineptitude as the Commissioner specifically charged with supervision of the Police Department. Anywhere but in voteless Washington, he would have done something about the abuses pronto or he would have lost his job.

Money Inflation

For a time it appeared that postwar expansion of the money supply had been effectively controlled and that inflation could be arrested by an increase in the production of goods that would bring supply into balance with demand, despite the huge volume of purchasing power in consumer hands. Unfortunately, says Mr. M. S. Szymczak, in an address to the District of Columbia Bankers Association, the money supply is again increasing at the rate of approximately nine billion dollars per annum. This renewed expansion is attributable in part to increases in gold received from abroad in payment for exports. To date this year our gold stock has been augmented by 1.8 billion dollars and the inflow continues. Thus banks have been provided with new reserves that can be made the basis for a multiple expansion of deposits.

Deposit expansion in turn has been accelerated as the result of growing private demands for credit that increased bank loans by almost five billion dollars during the first nine months of this year. Consequently we are faced not only by the problem of trying to restrain an inflation traceable to wartime monetary expansion; we have to cope with a problem of renewed monetary inflation at a time when the Federal Reserve System is powerless to exert a restraining influence on credit expansion because it is pledged to maintain stable prices for Government bonds. As a result of this commitment any action that the Reserve System might take under existing powers to tighten credit is inadmissible since it could raise interest rates and hence depress Government bond prices.

Mr. Szymczak appeals, therefore, to the commercial banks to exercise self-restraint in granting loans—not only as a means of self-protection but with a view to retarding the rate of monetary expansion. He further emphasizes the importance of maintaining budgetary surpluses and using them to retire Government securities held by commercial banks and the Federal Reserve Banks. This kind of debt retirement is definitely anti-inflationary, resulting as it does in the wiping out of deposits when obligations held by commercial banks are retired and in reducing both the volume of deposits and reserves when retired obligations are held by the Federal Reserve Banks themselves. Hence Mr. Szymczak is definitely aligned with those who urge the need for a large budgetary surplus that will make possible an anti-inflationary policy of debt retirement. That objective can only be reached, as he asserts, by "holding taxes up and governmental expenditures down so far as is possible under existing conditions."

No Place For Politics

Congressional reaction to President Truman's call for an extra session varies widely and therefore cannot be discussed in general terms. Comment ranges all the way from House Majority Leader Halleck's angry charge yesterday that the President broke faith with congressional leaders to the assurances of Representatives Eaton and Bloom, chairman and ranking minority member, respectively, of the House Foreign Affairs Committee, that hearings will be speeded up in an effort to clear a bill for European aid before the full Congress returns on November 17. On the whole the Republican leaders seem disposed to consider the issue of aid to Europe on its merits, but there are ominous undertones of political sniping which, unless curbed, might endanger this vital policy.

There seems to be a good deal of justification for Representative Halleck's criticism of the President's methods. When Mr. Truman called Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress to the White House on September 29 the question of an extra session was discussed at length. In his subsequent statement the President left a strong impression that further conferences on the question would be called. When congressional leaders assembled at the White House on Thursday, however, the President did not ask their advice, but announced his own decision. Of course, he had a perfect right to do so. There are no strings on the presidential power to summon Congress into extraordinary session whenever he thinks the national interest demands it. But such unilateral action does jeopardize bipartisan cooperation when, as at present, the executive and legislative branches are controlled by different parties.

Only last week the President referred to the United States foreign policy as a bipartisan product and told a group of visitors that it was as much their policy as it was his. Bipartisan support is likely to be maintained, however, only if both parties have a hand in shaping programs and procedure. The President's decision to act on his own initiative without further consulation gave Speaker Martin an excellent opportunity to say, "It's his responsibility," and that is precisely what he did. Failure to take advantage of this chance for pulling together has inevitably meant further pushing apart.

Some Republicans will probably make this procedure an excuse for opposing emergency aid for Europe and the Marshall Plan. In that event they will be flying, in our opinion, in the face of the national interest. Neither aid for Europe nor the extra session is any less essential because the President failed to put the call for it on a bipartisan basis. Public opinion will hold members of Congress, both Republican and Democratic, responsible for what they do with the emergency aid and reconstruction programs. Indeed, we think that any injection of politics into consideration of these problems by either side will be an affront to the electorate and will cost those responsible heavily in terms of votes.

Accent On Age

Our recent editorial about the reorganization of the Air Force, with its assertion that its new leaders are "definitely the youngest top-level military staff the country has ever seen," appears to have been received with a mixed amusement and indignation by the more historically minded members of the new department. Anyway, we have been sent a copy of a memorandum on the subject prepared within the department, which shows that the new leadership of the Air Force is, if not exactly venerable, certainly past the first bloom of youth. The average age of 27 general officers is 48 years and 4 months. This is an age when most men like to think of themselves, and to be thought of by others, as being a bit younger than they are, but apparently this does not apply to the Air Force, and there is a story that General Arnold, now retired, complained at the age of 62 that he was regarded in Washington as a mere boy.

By historical standards, it seems, the present Air Force generals are nothing, if not mature. The report shows that the average age of ten leading general officers on the Federal side of the Civil War at the time of the Battle of Chancellorsville was only 34 years; that of the ten leading Confederate generals only 41 years and 7 months. Going farther back, we find the story is much the same. The average age of Napoleon and his 10 leading marshals at the Battle of Austerlitz was 44; the average age of Washington and the 26 major generals of the Revolutionary War at the time they attained to the rank was 43 years and 7 months; and the average age of the Founding Fathers at the time of the Constitutional Convention was 44.

The report also cites instances of great soldiers who almost leaped, as it were, from the cradle to the command of victorious armies. The most famous, of course, was Alexander, who had conquered what he thought was the world before he was 33. Genghis Khan had conquered most of it before he was 40. Hannibal was only 31 at the time of his great victory at Cannae. General Wolfe was but 32 when he died just after his victory at Quebec. Then there were Lafayette, who became a major general at 20; Custer, who became one at 25; Nelson A. Miles, who became one at 26; Scott, who became one at 28; and the Confederate Joe Wheeler, who became a lieutenant general at the same age.

In short, after reading the report we not only realized we were wrong to think of the Air Force generals as particularly youthful, but even began to worry about whether war isn't a rather strenuous business for such middle-aged fellows. Just to prevent this notion from becoming prevalent, we suggest that the department prepare another report about all the elderly generals who have won great historical victories, such as Kutosov, who at the age of 68 expelled Napoleon and his Grande Armee from Russia, and Hindenburg, who, at the same advanced age, expelled the Russians from East Prussia!

Coercing Hollywood

A bit belatedly, Mr. Paul McNutt, counsel for the Motion Picture Association, has grasped the central issue of the movie probe now in progress under the auspices of the House Committee on Un-American Activities. He was, he declared on Wednesday, "shocked to see the violence done to the principle of free speech during the hearings this morning. It became apparent . . . that the purpose was to try to dictate and control, through the device of the hearings, what goes on the screens of America. This is no concern of any congressional committee. It is the concern solely of those who produce motion pictures." Some of the more recent Hollywood witnesses have shown similar dismay.

What aroused Mr. McNutt was a line of questioning addressed to several witnesses suggesting that the motion picture industry ought to produce anti-Communist films. This is, of course, an offensive suggestion on at least two counts. It implies that Hollywood ought to be turning out propaganda tracts a la Russe, when the allegation that it has been guilty of doing so in the past is precisely what the industry is trying to refute. Far worse, however, it implies that the industry can escape legislative restriction—or at least the continuance of unfavorable publicity as the result of congressional investigation—only if it produces the kind of propaganda approved by Representative J. Parnell Thomas.

Mr. McNutt is quite right in observing that "you don't need a law to impair the constitutional rights of free speech. It can be done by intimidation and coercion. That is the way of totalitarian regimes which we all hate." The danger, it might be added, is particularly acute in view of the susceptibility to intimidation and coercion demonstrated recently by a couple of his own clients. Movie producers ought to be as allergic to congressional dictation, or even suggestion, as newspaper editors. In a free society, they are, as individuals, the responsible managers of an immensely influential medium of communication. In such a society their management, however faulty, must remain free from governmental interference; it is, indeed, like the freedom of the press (of which it is a part) an essential check upon governmental tyranny. Governmental interference of any sort with the content of films is, therefore, a fatal impairment of fundamental freedom.

Representative Thomas and his colleagues, despite tedious protests to the contrary, have engaged in still another form of attempted intimidation of the motion picture industry. They have permitted witness after witness to accuse individuals in the industry of Communist sympathies without, as yet, the presentation of a shred of supporting evidence. The actors and actresses, script writers, directors and others so accused may or may not be Communists or Communist sympathizers; in the absence of evidence we have no way to judge. The effect of the unsupported allegations, however, is to impose upon the industry powerful pressure to purge them from the payrolls. Interference with the personnel policies of a segment of the press does no less violence to freedom of expression than interference with its editorial policies.

Finally, Mr. Thomas and his colleagues have been guilty, as their predecessors on this congressional committee have been since the time of its inception, of blasting individual reputations without regard for individual rights. This is, of course, peculiarly damaging to actors and actresses whose stock in trade is their popularity. However innocent they may be, they will find it hard to refute accusations which, for all that the committee has taken the trouble to determine, may amount to no more than vulgar gossip grounded in malice or misconception. Their careers may be ruined by slanders in respect of which they have no remedy. The spectacle of Hollywood writers and players denouncing their colleagues in an orgy of self-righteousness has been only slightly less degrading than the spectacle of a congressional committee fostering this brutal contempt for the elementary principles of fair play. As Mr. Ronald Reagan, president of the Screen Actors' Guild, remarked somewhat wistfully: "I hope that we never are prompted by fear or resentment of communism into compromising any of our democratic principles in order to fight it." Yet it is precisely to this sort of compromise that our current commiphobia is leading.

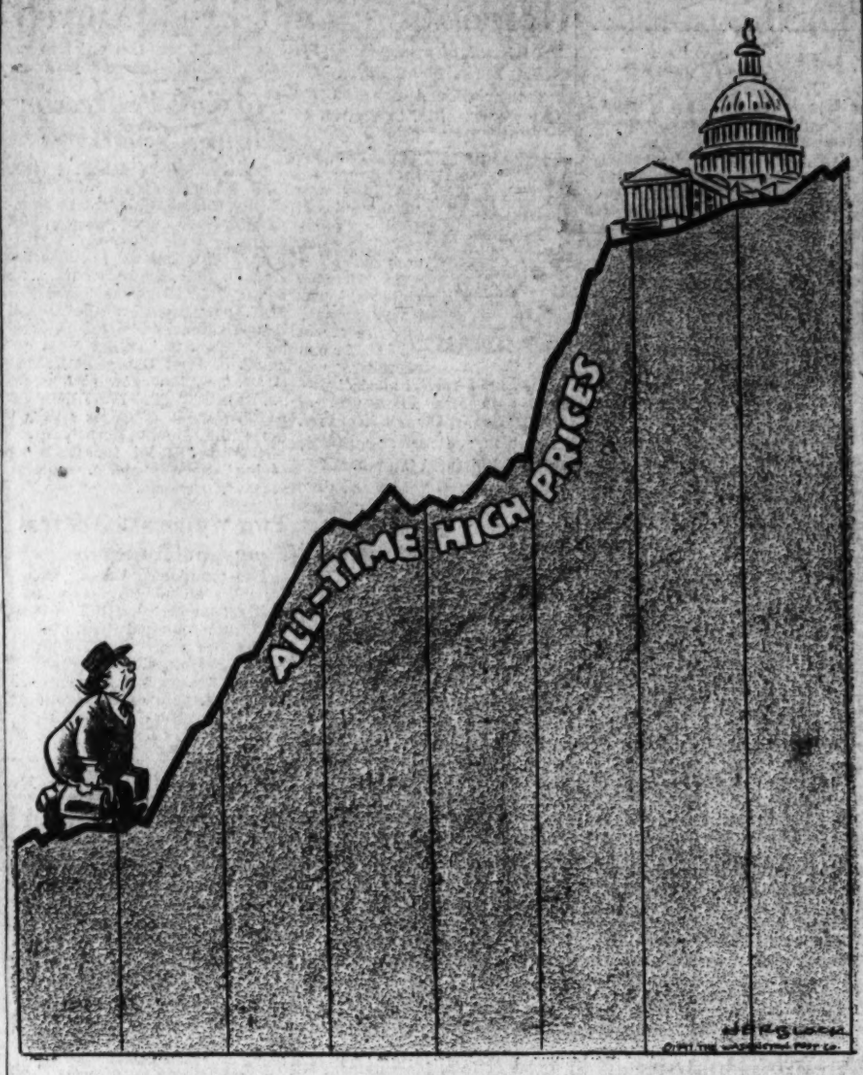

UNQUENCHED

When crimson runs from bough to bough,
Remembering this, remember how
Love, in a season hushed and warm,
Took all the startled woods by storm.

The leaves are ash that once were flame;
The branches burn each year the same,
And quench themselves in the frosty air,
But the heart still burns when the branch is bare.

Korean Elections

In your issue of October 19, Mr. Youngjeung Kim accuses me of inaccuracies in my analysis of the Korean situation. He objects to my calling Kimm Kiusic and Lyuh Woon Hyun "former Communists," and says, "As every Korean knows, Dr. Kimm and Mr. Lyuh were never Communists."

The following quotations are from an article, "In Turbulent Korea," in the August 30, 1947, issue of the New Leader, written by Mrs. Geraldine Fitch, lifelong Salvation Army leader in the Orient. Dr. Kimm Kiusic said to her, "At that time (1922) Lyuh was a member of the Communist Party." Then he added, "I became a probationary member of the party."

Mr. Kim freely admits that the Rhee-Kim Koo national unity federation won an overwhelming majority in the vote for the interim legislature, but he says "irregularities . . . were so prevalent" that a reelection was ordeded "in some districts." I believe five seats in all were involved in the reelection, whereas the victory of the nationalist federation was 43 to 2.

Mr. Kim thinks me a "most impatient agitator" because I have been emphasizing the need for an election to permit the Koreans in the American zone to choose leaders and a government of their own choice, rather than continuing to be ruled by an "appointed coalition." I think many Koreans will be puzzled to find him preferring the latter.

The matter of the voting age as set in the election law disturbs Mr. Kim. It seems the "extremist" Dr. Rhee fought for the high age level of 25, but the "extremist majority" placed it at 23. "The democratic members" preferred 20. Three facts stand out. First, Communist strength in Korea is chiefly among the young—and the "democratic" friends of Mr. Kim tried to build up their voting strength. Second, Korean age is figured differently from ours, so that a youth of 20 might be only 18 or 19 by our method of calculation. Third, as of last August 12, the election law was revised to set the voting age at 21. And even after that no date has been set for the election.

Mr. Kim finds me "bitter" because General Hodge has been "forced to look for a more capable leadership." All my friends and I have asked is that the Korean people be allowed to do the looking for themselves.

"Mr. Newell's Plotters"

Please accept my highest commendation for your excellent editorial of October 17 anent "Mr. Newell's Plotters."

It could be that I am one of those Washington Negroes for whom Mr. Newell has "highest admiration," since my family has been in residence here for over three quarters of a century. If I do fall within that approved group, everyone should know how I happen to be so favored. It is simply that as a child and young woman I was exposed to those experiences which contribute to good citizenship—and the approbation of one's fellow citizens.

Far from segregation being the "natural state" in Washington, it was, until comparatively recent years, just the opposite. I believe it was as late as 1925 that I saw "The Passion Flower" at the Belasco Theater. During the years that the Aborn Opera Co. played at the National we never missed attending a single opera included in their repertoire. We also saw many other plays there too numerous to mention. Frequently we went to the Columbia and if we could manage to wheedle our parents, we sometimes saw a melodrama at the Academy of Music!

We also attended concerts and recitals in both public and private halls. We went to any of the churches—Episcopal, Catholic, Congregational, or any of the other denominations upon occasion. We ate in Kann's restaurant, which once was on the top floor of their store; my parents "dealt" with the leading stores—"The Boston House," Burchell's, Cornwell's, Magruder's, et al., where they were treated as any other customer with money to spend.

My parents lived on Meridian Hill, on 16th st., at the foot of the Capitol," and in various other sections of the city, sometimes completely surrounded by white neighbors, and they were just that—neighbors—who shared each others joys and sorrows and remained friends as long as life lasted.

While it may be true that many of the Negro in-migrants, as well as the white in-migrants have much to learn about living together in a metropolitan area, I am thoroughly convinced that it can never be accomplished by the methods suggested by Mr. Newell. We only distrust, fear, and abhor those things about which we are ignorant.

Fiddle-Faddle

Isn't it about time we cut out this fiddle-faddle?

Why not tell Mr. Vishinsky to smile the next time he starts calling names, or we'll take him seriously and do something about it?

Furthermore, I'd like to see some spokesman of this Administration that is supposed to be attending to my business and yours—at a salary paid by us—get up on his hind legs and calmly but definitely tell Mr. Vishinsky to notify Joe Stalin that he isn't going to take over Greece, Italy, France, or Germany. America just won't let it happen; and that's that!

"Rose Marie"

I read with interest in The Washington Post of October 21, the article on "Rose Marie," by Richard L. Coe and as a constant theater goer I feel that Mr. Coe's comments are more vitriolic than accurate.

However, as one who first saw "Rose Marie" nearly a quarter of a century ago, I feel that it is still a good show. One hardly ever gets the same kick out of a good show 25 years after as he did when it first made its hit. As far as some of the acts being "old stuff" the same designation can be applied to many of Mr. Coe's similes.

Senator Pepper On The Marshall Plan

I know that The Washington Post has an excellent reputation for bringing the views of individuals on both sides of important questions.

I have been wanting to write to you for some time about a United Press dispatch which appeared in The Washington Post on September 29, entitled, "Pepper Drops Opposition to Europe Aid." However, I have been unable to do so because I have had a number of speaking engagements throughout the country. I just wanted to call to your attention that this dispatch states that on last August 15 I condemned the entire range of President Truman's foreign policy and particularly the Marshall Plan.

I would like to take this opportunity to call to your attention an Associated Press dispatch which appeared in The Washington Post on August 18, and a United Press dispatch which appeared in a number of newspapers on August 17 and 18. In both dispatches, it was stated quite clearly that I told the reporters I would vote for the Marshall Plan to aid western Europe. Nevertheless, I did state I thought the plan was too narrow, so the statement in the United Press dispatch of September 29, is evidently incorrect.

Ever since General Marshall gave to the world the outline of his plan on June 5, I have been asked many times if I favor it and my answer always has been yes.

I have consistently stated that it should be applied to all parts of the world. We cannot afford not to help others. We must help eastern Europe as well as western Europe.

I am just as much in favor of applying the principles of the Marshall Plan to the Middle East, the Far East, the Balkans, South America and the rest of the world as I am for it for western Europe. American assistance should be extended to all nations where it will further world peace and eventually benefit the United States with increased world trade.

No better proof of the economic independence of nations of the world can be found than in the report of the Committee on European Cooperation. The committee cut its request for funds from America and other nations by over seven billion dollars on the assumption that a normal flow of trade between eastern and western Europe would be completely resumed by 1951. The discontinuance by 1951 of all aid was also made contingent upon the resumption of normal trade with southeastern Asia. The committee assumed that by 1951 world trade in ordinary natural channels would be resumed so that western Europe would get the money to pay for American goods and services.

It was on the inspiration of this remarkable report that I wired the President on September 24, as follows:

"The recovery report of the European Cooperation Committee in response to the Marshall proposal marks a milestone in history toward a prosperous and peaceful world. It is the kind of thing that Wilson and Roosevelt and you and so many good men and women in all parts of the world have envisioned and so long struggled for not only for a part of the world but for all the world. For clearly if it is in the interest of world well-being and peace for the United States and a part of the world to work together for recovery, prosperity and peace, it is good for the United States and all the world to work together to the same high ends.

"It was my hope that the Social and Economic Council of the U. N. would have set in motion such a plan for the whole world immediately after it was set up. The United States should at once encourage the Social and Economic Council to formulate such a plan for the rest of the world if it is found that such a plan is not already in progress. But the European Cooperation Committee has now put a comprehensive and concise proposal before us in response to our own invitation. Both the calamity which will follow upon our failure to act promptly and the bright and fruitful victory which we have reason to expect if we do promptly and faithfully now our part in this great plan are unmistakably clear before us all.

The time for action by the United States is now here, if we are to grasp this rare opportunity. We must set our own economy in order so that we shall not have a disastrous inflation or a destructive depression, either of which would prevent us from carrying out our essential part in this noble plan. And we, of course, must start the machinery in motion now to meet the immediate emergency as well as to take this plan which is wrought with so much wisdom and inspiration off paper and put it into practice. Therefore, that we might now promptly and boldly step to the leadership and the fulfillment of this vision and hope which almost alone brightens our darkened world, I respectfully urge you to call at once a special session of Congress."

I should like to see the Marshall Plan increased from four billion dollars a year for four years, to 10 billion dollars a year for five years, with such funds administered by the Social and Economic Council of the United Nations, provided that each nation to whom a loan is made will immediately reduce all armaments by at least one half.

In saying I want to help Russia, I am not defending Russia or Communist philosophy. I am defending the lives of millions of American people which will be snuffed out by another war. Another war would destroy our present economic system and thereby open the doors to communism because the Communists believe they will succeed only when capitalism fails.

Senator from Florida.

Taking Care Of Our Own

By Malvina Lindsay

Alibi Chorus

EUROPE'S HUNGER crisis and the skyrocketing grocery bills here may shake some Americans out of their slaphappy food habits and their nutritional neglect of their human assets.

For the alibi chorus, "Better take care of our own," which rises in defense of each sirloin steak or extra slice of bread consumed, is likely to boomerang on those who chant it. It may bring attention to the fact that before any food sharing was asked of us, we were not taking care of many of our own who needed food and that we were not conserving the means of producing that food.

Many of those who talk the most about "hungry Americans" have in the past done the least about feeding them. Frequently they have opposed the social, economic and conservation measures that would have made for better national nutrition.

Pennywise economy by legislators and the taxpayers who ride them has contributed to some of this malnutrition. For example, aid for dependent children is at such a low level in some States that many of such children have a constant sense of hunger. Some have never had a whole orange or a whole apple. These are often fatherless children. Some are illegitimate—the numbers of these having been swollen by a wartime increase.

ALSO DAY care for children of working mothers has bogged down generally through the Nation for lack of public funds. Yet these centers afforded many young children the only proper nutrition they received.

Federal funds for the school lunch program were curtailed 10 million dollars at the last session of Congress. And the Department of Agriculture, because of reduced appropriations, discontinued publishing its 13-year-old Consumers' Guide, which is greatly needed now with high food prices and the food conservation program.

Another way we have not used our heads in building American nutrition is our failure to take bold, aggressive action to preserve, reclaim and improve our soil, which is the basis of our food production and our vitamin supply. Nutritional ignorance and waste are further evidenced in drug store munching, in menus overloaded with sweets and starches, and in thoughtless and reckless buying and careless unappetizing preparation of food.

American malnutrition will not be conquered by keeping an extra 100 million bushels of wheat at home. But those citizens resentful of shipping food to "foreigners" may in their zeal to run to earth some starving Americans stumble on some of the basic causes why in this land of plenty about one third of the population suffers from nutritional hunger.

BUT THE pinch on the pocketbook of those who struggle to buy food on low and middle incomes should contribute even more to this country's nutritional awakening. Since economists predict food prices will go still higher, and in any event keep a level 50 to 75 per cent above that of prewar days, the problem of how to get the most food for the money will continue indefinitely. This will mean that the United States will pass from pioneer prodigality to continental thrift in its food attitudes, also that greater importance will be attributed to stomach intelligence.

There is widespread feeling that education in home economics should be extended rapidly. Only one out of three American girls now receive elementary home economics instruction. The American Dietetic Association has begun a national campaign to enroll in this subject more college girls, many of whom would be potential teachers. But on what the States and the Federal Government do in support of education will depend on the extent of home economics teaching, also the extent to which the American housewife can be induced to get into her menus more of the milk, citrus fruits and green and yellow vegetables that the American diet now lacks.

Citizens who are now seeing from 40 to 50 per cent of their dollars vanish in food also will become more politically conscious about their nutrition. They will concern themselves more with the problems of food production and distribution. They may insist that among all foods, from milk to meat, there be less development of high cost products, on which high profits can be made, and more of the basic seven made available in less complex and costly form.

Calling Washington

By Marquis Childs

As Others See Us

LONDON.—Robert Burns wrote about the gift of seeing ourselves as others see us. For Americans at this particular moment in history, that gift is supremely important.

CHILDS

Seen from this side of the Atlantic, our uncertainties, our divisions, our fumbling hesitation, our timidities, have quite a different look. Back home we say, "That's just politics, and an election year is coming up." But Europeans always measure our off-again-on-again performance alongside the vast economic power for good or evil that is today concentrated in the United States. This is a fact which, as Americans, we are too often inclined to forget.

Europe cannot forget it. Europe knows that the decisions we take, or fail to take, will determine the direction of history for a long time to come.

The Communists know it, believe me! And not alone the Communists! The conservatives and the moderates, who stand to lose most in any catastrophe change, are watching our backing and filling with the kind of breathless fear that would be inspired by watching a tightrope walker over Niagara Falls.

Consider the present moment and what led up to it. In early May, Britain's Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin began to tell United States Ambassador Lewis Douglas that the economic condition in France would be critical by early fall. Bevin knew it would be even more acute than in Britain.

SIMILAR and yet more staccato warnings came from France and the Continent. The three-alarm fire bell was ringing six months ago. Yet the firemen are still arguing. They are arguing not alone about how to put out the fire. Part of the argument is on the level of whether or not it should be put out, or whether we can afford to put it out.

That is not an exaggeration. One of the Congressmen returning from Europe showed me an editorial from his home-town paper arguing that if Europeans wanted to go Communist we should let them go Communist and see how they liked it. Having done a conscientious job of study in Europe, this Middle Western Republican knew what a Communist Europe would mean to America, and he shook his head grimly over the editorial.

Ernest Bevin knows the reason for our hesitations and indecisions. He knows that under our Constitution, when the Congress is held by one party and the Presidency by another, it is all but impossible to carry out a positive foreign policy. Bevin and informed Europeans understand that an undertaking entered into by the President does not in any way bind the Congress. Hence the rotary movement, round and round and round, reflected in the dispatches from Washington.

From this side it sometimes seems that Americans have a feeling of frustration at not being able to move decisively. And as a compensation for their frustration, they go after the scapegoat of communism. The idea is to pile all the blame on the Communists for all of Europe's ills.

To Europeans it does not look as simple as that. They fear that the continuous scream of "communism" can end only in inevitable war between two blind giants.

FRANCE IS a good illustration of what this means. Every upset, including the recent strike on the subway, is put down to the machinations of the Communists. Actually, in France there are very grave economic strains which put a heavy burden on all wage-earners. The surprising thing is not that strikes have occurred but that there have been so few.

The London Times, hardly a pro-Communist newspaper, in a long editorial on stopgap aid, had this to say:

"While the peasants have grown richer, the workers have grown steadily poorer, and this at a time when their representatives have claimed a large share of the responsibility for government. Where prices have risen uninterruptedly, wages have remained or have been held within fairly narrow limits. This widening breach between wages and prices has caused widespread discontent among the working class."

Those harsh economic facts cannot be brushed away merely by crying communism. Substantial aid from America would help more than anything else to remedy the cause of the strikes and the discontent.

As heard from this side of the Atlantic, the cry for a crusade against communism — it has something of that shrill sound as it echoes across the water—goes oddly with American military policy. That policy appears to be one of slashing economy endangering even minimum military security. Policy on such trouble spots as Palestine has an evasive wordy sound that commits the United States to nothing but platitudes.

And the one commodity that seems to flow without stint to all countries is advice—advice on how every country should settle all its problems. We had better stare hard into the looking glass to learn why this distorted image often seems to Europeans to represent America.

Time For Action

By Barnet Nover

Now Up To The Congress

PRESIDENT TRUMAN'S action in summoning Congress to meet in special session on November 17 will provide a badly needed stimulant to the flagging spirits of the peoples of western Europe. They will regard it as an enormously welcome sign that aid from America will not be long in coming.

NOVER

The President's move comes none too soon, although there are cogent arguments in support of the contention that he could not have summoned Congress earlier without risking the success of his program.

Certainly, among his most valuable allies in Congress during the coming special session will be members of the House and Senate who have just returned from Europe. There they had a chance to see at first hand what has been happening on that continent.

At the same time the President could not have delayed calling Congress much longer without risking disaster in such countries as France and Italy. They stand on the brink of financial disaster. Their meager dollar holdings are rapidly running out. If they are to be tided over during the critical winter months immediate aid is imperative.

IN THE FOUR months since Secretary Marshall's proposal shot across the horizon like a bright star of hope, the financial situation on western Europe has steadily, and, in some instances, catastrophically deteriorated.

The Marshall Plan, invaluable as it is certain to prove in the long run, cannot, at this juncture, help France and Italy. It has the same significance to those countries that the sight of an oncoming vessel has to a drowning man.

The vessel means ultimate salvation. It means water, food, medicine, clothing. But the drowning man must somehow be kept afloat until the vessel reaches him. His first need is for a life-preserver.

THE ADMINISTRATION discovered that while a certain amount of emergency aid could be extended to France and Italy by scraping the barrel of funds disposable without the consent of Congress, such aid was not adequate.

It is now up to Congress to appropriate such aid. It is also up to Congress to come to grips with the inflationary spiral which now has the United States in its grip and which, unless checked, will not only prevent the carrying out of the Marshall Plan, but possibly wreck our economy as well.

The two types of action envisaged in the President's message must inevitably be considered together. However, it would be a tragedy if, once Congress reconvenes, the members sidetrack the discussion of foreign aid in order to get attention for pet measures, however worthwhile in themselves.

AT WARSAW, not long ago, Andrei A. Zhdanov, one of the founding fathers of the new Comintern and himself a member of the all-powerful Politburo, made no bones of the fact that Russia will fight the Marshall Plan tooth and nail.

His statement emphasized what was already no secret. The fact is that the Russians realize that the struggle over the Marshall Plan is another Battle of the Marne in the great postwar conflict raging all over the world.

If Russia wins this battle, the road to Paris—and also to Rome, Vienna and other great European centers not now under their control—will be open to them.

A prostrate Europe, a cold, hungry, hopeless Europe, will be a Europe incapable of standing up under the pressures of the Muscovites and their stooges.

If, on the other hand, the Marshall Plan succeeds, no shrieks and shouts and name-calling by the Vishinskys, Zhdanovs, Molotovs and others will be able to disguise the fact that Russia has received a major check.

THE RESPONSIBILITY of Congress, in the face of Europe's immediate as well as of its long-range situation, is thus a heavy one. Weary to death of old burdens, the American people are now to be asked to assume new ones.

That fact that cannot for one moment be lost to sight is that the failure to assume these new burdens will mean disaster. Nor can we forget the fact that the problem of western Europe is only a part, if a vital part, of the global problem that confronts us.

Sooner or later the efforts we are now about to make to halt the Russian sweep in Europe will have to be made, on a proportionate basis, in the Far East as well. There must be priorities in relief as there were priorities in the disposition of our material and our manpower after Pearl Harbor. But just as we never wholly neglected the Pacific theater even while concentrating on Europe from Pearl Harbor to V-E Day, so we cannot neglect China.

The emergency situation in France and Italy must first be dealt with. That is the primary task of the special session of Congress. But even while grappling with that emergency problem the larger issue must forever be kept in mind.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Non-Leftists Organize in UPWA

AN ANTICOMMUNIST group within CIO's left-wing United Public Workers will meet here this weekend to decide what steps should be taken to oppose the union's leadership headed by President Abram Flaxer.

Kluttz

The faction calls itself the Provisional Committee for a Rank and File Conference. Delegates and members from New York, Chicago, Detroit, Pittsburgh and other cities besides Washington will attend the sessions this afternoon and tomorrow at Kendall House, the YWCA, at 614 E st. nw. Since out-of-town delegates must pay their own way, no more than a score will attend.

However, it will be the first conference on a national scale to openly oppose its union's left-wing policies. Its leaders say the conference "climaxes mounting dissatisfaction with the condition of the union, resulting from policies pursued by its present officers."

Conference sponsors are reported to have a detailed statement of left-wing and Communist groups which Flaxer and other UPWA leaders have been interested in.

Milton Murray, retiring president of CIO's American Newspaper Guild, will speak at this afternoon's session, to begin at 4 o'clock. He can be expected to tell of his experiences in fighting Communists and fellow travelers in the Guild.

MAJOR OBJECTIVES announced by conference sponsors are:

(1) To promote a more effective union, organized on sound CIO principles; (2) To develop a program which will attract to the union the great majority of Government workers, and (3) to bring about improved relations with the executive and legislative branches of the Government.

Though unannounced, these are other objectives of the conferees:

To map out a campaign to oppose Flaxer and his group at next year's convention, and to meet with groups that have dropped out of the union because of its left-wing policies to determine under what conditions they would return.

The conference call includes this paragraph:

"The public employes of the Nation have a major contribution to make to the welfare of our country. As a group of loyal rank-and-file members of UPWA, we are profoundly disturbed at the state and fate of our union, and we want to do something about it. We want an effective union, organized in accordance with CIO principles and free from domination or exploitation for ideological purposes. We believe it imperative that the UPWA be returned to the ranks of respected CIO unions with sound union objectives."

UPWA's troubles started at its 1946 convention in Atlantic City when the Federal worker branch of CIO was merged with the State, county and municipal worker union. That convention adopted a foreign policy resolution which followed along the Communist Party line. Convention reports also carried phases which pleased the Communists.

The fight against Flaxer and his group that put over the resolution and other left-wing policies broke out immediately. But the meeting here today is the first organized national attempt to clean up the union.

Since the Atlantic City convention, a number of UPWA members have been fired on disloyalty charges.

MORE THAN 21,000 applicants here failed the general clerical test given last spring. About 44,000 here took the exam.

War service and temporary clerks who flunked the test want to know what will happen to them; specifically, if they'll be fired. They got this official answer yesterday from Civil Service:

"Nothing will happen immediately. How long they can stay on their jobs will depend on how soon the register can be set up and used, and whether it turns out if there are more eligibles than jobs, which may not be the case. In that event, all war service and temporary people who failed will not be fired any time soon."

Another question: "Suppose a war service employe has a rating for a Grade 1 or 2 job, and a lower rating for a Grade 3 or 4 job. Should he refuse an offer for a 1 or 2 and take a chance of being reached for a higher grade?"

"It is too early to answer this," says Civil Service. "For the present that question must be discussed by the employe with his personnel office. The chances of appointment at any grade depends on the activity of the register. By all means the employe should let his personnel office know what grade he'll accept."

Civil Service also explained that present employes who passed the test will have the opportunity to be considered for permanent appointments in their present jobs.

The Gallup Poll

Voluntary Rationing of Food Rated Above 'Police State' Plan

By George Gallup

Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 24.—President Truman is in step with the American people when he opposes "police state" food rationing rather than a voluntary effort to save grain for Europe's hungry.

The weight of public opinion now strongly opposes a resort to rationing, which is a complete reversal from the mood prevailing a year ago. Evidently, the people, together with their chief executive, are weary of restrictions which they accepted as a necessary evil in wartime.

Less than a fourth of the population now favors government control over the Nation's eating habits. In June of 1946, almost seven out of ten said they would be willing to undergo rationing again in order to save enough food for Europe's needs.

This reversal does not mean, however, that the people are callous to the food crisis in other countries. The first article in this series yesterday showed that a majority of those with opinions on the subject believe that a real need does exist in western European countries for food from the United States.

In a survey of opinion throughout the country the Institute interviewers asked this question:

"It has been suggested that in order to get enough food to feed people in Western European countries this winter, this country should go back to food rationing. Do you approve or disapprove of having rationing again to feed people in other nations?"

The answers:

Approve rationing	23%
Disapprove	65
No opinion	10

At the height of the Famine Emergency Committee's food-saving effort in 1946 the vote on a similar question was almost completely reversed from the present results.

In June, 1946, a coast-to-coast sample of representative voters was asked this question:

"Would you be willing to go back to rationing in order to send food to people in other nations?"

These were the replies at this time:

Willing to have rationing	65%
Not willing	31
Undecided	4

In considering the anti-rationing vote at the present time, it must be remembered that the question put to the respondents applies only to rationing for the specific purpose of saving food for other nations. The answers, accordingly, do not necessarily apply to how the persons interviewed might feel about rationing designed to bring about lower prices in this country or how they would feel about a return to price controls.

Universal Military Training Favored by Truman in Talk

By John G. Norris

Post Reporter

President Truman yesterday reiterated his support of universal military training and gave his blessing to a Nation-wide citizens committee set up to push it.

Welcoming 125 representatives of some 50 patriotic, fraternal, business and veterans organizations, newly enrolled in the "National Security Committee," the President congratulated them on their "efforts for peace."

Mr. Truman told the group that his principal concern during his 2½ years in the White House has been working for peace and that that this country's only aim in world affairs. The goal, however, is more difficult to attain than had been expected at the end of the war, he declared, and added:

"We didn't ask for reparations, we didn't ask for territory.

"We asked only the right for everybody to have the same privileges of self-determination—and the right to live in the way they want—that we have."

Membership of 13,000,000

The 125 leaders of the national organizations—said to have a total membership of 13 million people—concluded their two-day organization on meeting of the National Security Committee at the Willard Hotel yesterday.

Headed by Owen J. Roberts, retired U. S. Supreme Court Justice—chosen as chairman—the committee then visited the White House. Newsreels and still cameramen's shutters clicked to give the group a publicized send-off as the President spoke.

Justice Roberts made public a letter written by four leading university presidents, backing the recommendations of the Compton report on national defense, including its indorsement of universal military training. They were: James B. Conant, Harvard; Edmund E. Day, Cornell; Charles Seymour, Yale, and Donald B. Tresidder, Stanford.

A committee spokesman said that "some" of the group, including Conant, formerly had opposed UMT.

Dr. Isaiah Bowman, president of Johns Hopkins University, speaking at yesterday's session, urged the adoption of universal training though declaring that he regretted the necessity for it.

"Only the careless or the ignorant will ignore the fact," he said, "that we have enemies in the world who have repeatedly declared their intention of destroying us.

Former Ambassador to Japan Joseph C. Grew and James F. O'Neil, also spoke, both indorsing the training program. Robert Cutler, president of Old Colony Trust Co. of Boston was named national treasurer of the committee and Worthington Thompson of New York, executive secretary.

Cut Prices, Make More Money, Bowles Urges

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Chester Bowles expressed the conviction today that business could make more money by lowering its prices.

Asserting it was "high time more of our businessmen were willing to take greater risks in that direction," the former OPA chief said in a prepared speech to the American Marketing Association:

"I will gamble that a heavy portion of the products saild today would make more money if they sold at a lower price. Risk-taking is essential to the health of our private enterprise system. Too many bnalnessmen today are only willing to bet on a sure thing."

North American Sets Pepco Distribution

By S. Oliver Goodman

Potomac Electric Power Co. will add thousands of new stockholders to its list before the end of the year.

This was assured yesterday when Pepco's biggest single stockholder, the North American Co., voted to distribute most of its Pepco holdings in compliance with the Public Utility Holding Company Act.

A Pepco spokesman reported last night that North American Co. currently holds slightly more than two million of Pepco's outstanding 2,961,250 common shares.

North American's distribution will be made on December 22 to stockholders of record November 26. It will include part of North American's holdings in Wisconsin Electric Power Co. The total payoff will amount to about 63 million dollars, described as one of the largest single liquidations to be made in compliance with the utility act of 1933.

The holder of each 100 shares of North American common will receive, subject to SEC approval, 21 shares of Pepco common and 19¼ shares of Wisconsin Electric Power's common. In lieu of fractional shares, cash payments will be made at the rate of $17 a share of Pepco and $19.75 a share of Wisconsin.

After this divestment, North American's holdings in the two companies will be reduced to less than 10 per cent. Previous partial distributions of Wisconsin stock were made July 15 and October 15, but this is the first for Pepco.

Pennsy Railroad Cuts Deficit in Nine Months

Philadelphia, Oct. 24 (AP).—The Pennsylvania Railroad today reported a deficit of $7,051,372 for the nine months period ended September 30, 1947, as compared with a deficit of $14,787,100 for the corresponding period last year.

The railroad said gross operating revenues for the period were $666,356,824, as against $604,501,802 last year, while net operating income was $24,169,778, as compared with $11,048,556 in 1946. Against net income for the nine months this year the railroad listed net charges of $31,221,150.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP).—Prices crashed on the Board of Trade today, wheat, corn, oats and soybeans all tumbling permissable limits in response to President Truman's call for a special session of Congress.

Several times during the day prices hit the daily limits and then bounded back a few cents. These rallies lacked real vigor, however, and at the close everything was down at the bottom except lard. Lard ended 95 cents to $1.08 a hundred pounds lower.

Wheat lost 10, December ending at 3:02⅝; corn 8, December 2.22⅞; oats 6, December 1.15½, and soybeans 8, November 3.47.

One of the major purposes of the special congressional session, President Truman said, will be to combat inflationary price rises. What action will be taken was not definitely known, but Washington dispatches placed an allocation system for domestic uses high on the list of possibilities.

Grain men said this might work in a fashion similar to that which applied to wheat during the first world war. The Government bought all the wheat coming to market at a fixed price, allocating a portion of supplies to mills and other users. Trading in wheat futures was suspended.

New York Cotton

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Cotton futures broke sharply today under heavy liquidating pressure, touched off by the call for a special session of Congress to consider foreign aid and controls to combat the rise in the cost of living. Final prices were $2.70 to $4.65 a bale lower.

Fear that the program might threaten the free cotton market and a technical weak situation in futures, following recent sharp advances, accentuated the selling movement.

Private advices said mills have increased their buying of spot cotton and that prices have firmed in primary markets. Some quarters anticipated an increase in the next Government cotton crop report as a result of almost perfect weather conditions in the cotton belt during the past month.

Key Securities Dive on Special Session Call

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Selling tumbled leading stocks and major commodities today, following the summoning of a special congressional session, but low-quoted motor shares contested the retreat with modest advances on relatively heavy volume.

Liquidation generally was based mainly on the idea that the move to have Congress open a battle against the living cost spiral and provide quick dollar relief for Europe might unsettle the domestic economic situation. Offerings also were attributed to the inability of the market in recent sessions to penetrate the July highs, which was considered bearish by chart followers.

She of the Legs Gets the Look

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MARLENE DIETRICH, her "million dollar legs" partly hidden by a skirt with a 12½-inch hemline, walks the deck of the liner America upon arrival in New York yesterday from Europe. Asked about the skirt and the legs, the actress said, "It is nice to guess them. I can sit down without worrying and I don't have to wear trousers now"

Rising Prices Seen Causing Wage Drive

By Alfred Friendly
Post Reporter

A union driive for higher wages next year is inevitable unless Congress acts to curb higher prices, Cecretary of Labor Schwellen bach forecast yesterday.

Asked at a press conference whether a wage campaign was justified, Schwellenbach declined to give a direct answer. But he said he did not see how such a movement could be stopped if Congress failed to take remedial action on the price front.

Wages, he added, have not caught up with present priice increases. As tlong as workers cannot earn enough to take care of their normal living costs, he continued, it will be impossible to hold back a demand for higher wages.

Wages Not Only Factor

Schwellenbach dwelt at length on a thesis he has previously championed—that wages are by no means the only factor in creating higher prices. Speculation and booming profits, he said, have been more important causes during the last year.

Even if wages were substantially cut, he declared, that action would not have a material effect in reducing prices. His argument was that the cost saving would show up in higher profits rather than lower prices.

Schwellenbach also announced yesterday that 2995 unions have so far filed with the Department of Labor the organizational and financial reports required by the Taft-Hartley Act.

Small Fraction of Total

These include 56 AFL international union, 2034 affiliated AFL local unions, 6 CIO international unions, 130 locals affiliated with the CIO, and 769 independent unions, both parent organizations and locals.

The unions which have filed the reports are only a small fraction of the 60,000 to 70,000 union organizations in this country. But Schwellenbach said he expected th erate of filings to increase markedly in the next two or three weeks.

Dr. Warren Named Director of Atomic Medicine Division

Dr. Shields Warren, expert on the medical effects of atomic radiation, has been named interim director of the Atomic Energy Commission's new division of biology and medicine, it was announced yesterday.

Dr. Warren will serve on a half-time basis until a permanent director is appointed. He is presently a pathologist at the New England Deaconess Hospital and assistant professor of pathology at Harvard.

The new division will correlate programs of medical and biological research in the AEC and in private laboratories and institutions. It will also direct the AEC's health physics and industrial hygiene activities.

Dr. Warren is the author of the standard work on the effects of radiation on normal tissues. He was chief of the Navy team investigating the effects of the Hiroshima and Nagasaki bombings, and was in charge of the pathological studies on the animals exposed to radiation in the Bikini tests.

Ala. Abolishes Flogging

Montgomery, Ala., Oct. 24 (AP).—Gov. James E. Folsom today ordered flogging and all other forms of corporal punishment abolished in Alabama prisons. The Governor said his order would be "universal except in extreme cases." He did not explain what would constitute "extreme" c…

ITU Hearing At Baltimore To End Today

Baltimore, Oct. 24 (AP). — The nine-day-old National Labor Relations Board hearing on charges that the International Typographical Union and its Baltimore local failed to bargain collectively with the Graphic Arts League is scheduled to end tomorrow.

But one more hour of testimony and oral arguments of counsil remain before Trial Examiner William R. Ringer will begin his study of more than 55 exhibits and thousands of pages of testimony produced in the unprecedented case.

His ruling—not expected to be handed down for several weeks—may be one of these:

It could find the league — an association of 22 Baltimore print shops—and the NLRB have substantiated their charge that the ITU refused to bargain collectively in good faith.

In the case, he would recommend a "cease and desist" order to the full NLRB.

Or, Ringer may find, on a number of grounds, that the union was correct in its contention that it did bargain, and dismiss the charges—the first of their kind filed under the Taft-Hartley act. There are also a number of other, technical grounds on which the complaint against the unions could be dismissed.

Both sides had hoped for conclusion tonight after Sidney Barban, board counsel, rested the agency's case, but it developed that cross-examination of the last witness, local President Charles V. Brannock, would consume more time than expected.

League counsel Earle K. Shawe declared towards the close of the session that "I will not be rushed in examining this important witness."

Brannock recapitulated testimony he gave at the outset of the hearing—he was its first witness—in narrating how negotiations between league and union bogged down, resulting in an impasse that was underscored by filing of the complaint.

Brannock said that the local would have "preferred" to operate under conditions of employment—without a written contract—but that "we wer eprepared to sign a written agreement any time we reached a complete understanding."

The league had contended that the ITU proposed contracts containing clauses that would violate the Taft-Hartley law, and that its "conditions of employment," too, were designed to evade that statute.

31 Are Killed In London Fog Train Crash

London, Oct. 24 (AP).—A speeding suburban electric train jammed with work-bound passengers smashed into the rear of another commuters' special creeping through a thick London fog today, killing 31 persons and injuring at least 60 others.

Four wooden coaches were splintered and the passengers, described by one of the injured as "packed like sardines," were scattered along the track at suburban South Croydon.

The Southern Railroad announced a casualty list of 31 dead and 60 injured. Hospitals reported three additional injuries.

It was Britain's fifth railroad accident this year.

Pineo Resigns Job As Loan Director Of World Bank

The World Bank said yesterday that Charles Chipman Pineo of Canada has resigned as director of its loan department, effective October 31.

Pineo, 64, a former assistant general manager of the Royal Bank of Canada, came out of retirement to take the post a year ago.

Expressing regret at his resignation, the bank's directors and President John J. McCloy observed that Pineo had agreed only to "serve during the early stages of the bank's lending operations."

The bank has made four loans, all to European countries.

Assistant Loan Directors A. S. C. Hoar and Walter Hill will direct the loan department for the time being, the bank said.

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

THIS IS IT FOR NAVY, today's game at Franklin Field, Philadelphia, where the Midshipmen get a crack at unbeaten Penn. Beating Penn is a task for which none but the valorous apply, but Navy is driven to derring-do. For the Middies, beaten in 10 of their last 13 games, nothing could be as useful at this point as a victory over the Quakers.

POVICH

Off their records, Navy doesn't rate with Penn which gaily slapped down Columbia last weekend, only two weeks after the Middies took a beating from Columbia. The Penn powerhouse was acclaimed even before the season started, and George Munger's hefty lads, three-deep in every backfield job, have romped over everybody to date.

There's an increasing respect for Navy, though. The Middies have been operating in a tougher league than Penn at this point. They lost, 14-7, to California, but that latter team is still unbeaten and rated the scourge of the Pacific Coast. The Middies tied Duke, and nobody yet has knocked off the Blue Devils. When Navy dropped down into slightly softer company, they crocked Cornell last week, 38-19.

UP AT PENN yesterday, they weren't certain that their All-America center of last season, Chuck Bednarik, would get into the Navy game. He was kicked in the back during a scrimmage play with Columbia, and was reported to be suffering contusions of the lungs. The Penn public relations department announced "Bednarik will play if we need him." Apprised of that advice, Mr. Jerry Flynn of Navy, stated grandiloquently, "They'll need him."

Penn is strong where Navy has been weak for the past two years—in the depth of its backs. While Coach Tom Hamilton counts himself lucky from week to week when he can put four healthy backs into his T-formation, Munger's problem has been merely one of selection. He winds up usually with Eddie Lawless as the tailback, Bill Longo, fullback, and Skippy Minisi and Bob Evans at halfback.

Navy is well aware of the talents of Minisi. He put in one war year at Annapolis, and was helpful in beating his old alma mater, Penn, in 1944. When a Navy career lost its fascination for him, he went back to Penn and for the past two seasons has been very helpful in beating Navy. All he does is run, kick, pass and catch passes for the Quakers. He's untrained in taking tickets at the gate.

IN THE NAVY-PENN series that has now witnessed 31 games, there is a forceful reminder that the war ended in 1945. Navy ran up five consecutive victories from 1941-45, when the Quakers were stripped of manpower, but with the coming of peace, Navy hasn't beaten Penn since. This is the thirty-second game between the teams, and Navy could tie up the series with a win today. It would be their fifteenth. Two games have been ties.

Franklin Field has been sold out for weeks for this one. That means 78,205 fans. It was suspected that Penn would be unbeaten to this point, and it is known now that Navy is getting tougher week by week. Penn is traditionally upset once a year—last year by Princeton—and Navy supporters perceive the Middies in an upset role today.

Both Hamilton and Munger are ready to switch their strategies today. They've been holding back tricks for this one. Last year Penn startled Navy with a change from its single wing to the T-formation in midgame, and Munger is not above the same trick. But all week at Annapolis, Hamilton has had his lads operating from the single wing as well as the T. It could be a very tricky contest.

BOB SCHWOEFFERMANN has succeeded to the halfback job that was vacated at Navy when Pete Williams broke his ankle. He now represents the speed in the Navy T, with Al McCully and Jim Hawkins doing the heavy duty jobs inside the tackles. But as usual, Navy's chief hopes ride with Quarterback Reaves Baysinger, an in-and-outer who was very good last week.

Hamilton debated all week before deciding to start Baysinger over Bob Horne, who pitched Navy into a tie with Duke. He feels no concern over his line, however. Navy thinks Dick Scott is a better center than All-America Bednarik, and Navy thinks that Dick Shimshak, not All-America George Savitsky, will be the best tackle on the field.

"It would be nice to get a breather some Saturday," said Hamilton, whose team plays what may be the toughest schedule in the United States. Certainly the Penn game is no breather for Navy, unless you're talking in terms of pulmotors and oxygen tents.

Terp, V.P.I. Coaches on Spot Today

By a Post Reporter

Blacksburg, Va., Oct. 24.—Tomorrow's twenty-fifth football meeting between Maryland and VPI here could be a memorable occasion for both Coach Jim Tatum of the Terps and Jimmy Kitts of the Gobblers.

All week long Tatum has been moaning, saying his squad has been "lifeless and listless" since last Saturday's defeat by Duke and predicting a VPI triumph. He hopes, of course, he's wrong.

Kitts, on the other hand, has been saying nothing, but has been doing plenty of listening. His Tech squad has beaten only Furman in four games and there's considerable agitation here for a change in the coaching setup.

The clamor for a change started last night when students wrote "Tech Needs New Coach" on gymnasium walls. Immediately, alumni took up the cry and the situation has gone so far that an investigation of the coaching setup may be ordered shortly.

ALL OF THIS, naturally, would be forgotten if the Gobblers could come up with a victory before their homecoming throng of 13,000.

In their favor are the twin facts that the football team is solid behind Texas-born Kitts and, also, that Tech has never lost a homecoming game.

Against them is a superior Maryland team which has been beaten only by Duke, 19-7, in four starts. The Terp backfield is one of the finest in the country. Lu (Bambino) Gambino, the league's leading scorer, won't be in there at the start as Tatum has decided to open with scatback Johnny LaRue.

WITH LARUE IN the starting backfield will be Quarterback Vic Turyn, Fullback Harry Bonk and Halfback Vern Siebert, replacing the injured Hubie Werner.

Tech, trounced by Virginia, William and Mary and Army, will be depending on the speed of a freshman sensation, Sterling Wingo. He's one of the hottest articles in these parts and if the bulky Gobbler line can spring him in the clear Tech partisans feel that their club will have a good chance of socking the Terps.

So does Kitts.

The probable starting line-ups:

Coolidge Beats Wilson

Coolidge's Colts needed only to cash in on one of three scoring opportunities in the first half to down Wilson Tiger, 7-0, yesterday at the Wilson stadium.

The Colts' tally was set up when Quarterback Jack Brosnan intercepted a Tiger pass and returned it to the Wilson 43. Three ground plays took it to the 5. Two plays later Fullback Ralph Shaeffer plowed over for the score. Bobby Rohr passed to Don Helfer for the conversion.

Wilson made a last desperate threat late in the final period when Mole Janigian passed the Green team to the Coolidge 20. However, four plays netted only three yards and Coolidge took over.

Colonials Beaten, 28-7, By Miami

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

Miami, Fla., Oct. 24.—The hapless Colonials of George Washington University tonight experienced the fury of a Florida Hurricane as they were swept aside, 28-7, by the University of Miami before 25,746 fans in the Orange Bowl Stadium.

The defeat was the fifth straight this season for the Colonials, who only briefly in the third quarter showed scoring strength. The victory was the second for the Miami Hurricanes, who have also lost twice, and tied once.

Dick Koester, George Washington's stellar end, was carried off the field after the fifth play of the game with what was believed to be a broken akle. X-rays will be taken tomorrow.

FIRST QUARTER

George Washington showed signs of power after one exchange of punts advancing 36-yards on Frank Cavallo's passing and running to Miami's 44. But there Miami's Al Hudson intercepted a Cavallo pass to end the drive. After another punt exchange, Miami launched its first serious drive from its own. On seven straight power plays, they moved to the 33. There Hal Johnson passed to Whitey Campbell on the 25. The quarter ended with Miami on the G. W. 20 on second down. Score, George Washington 0, Miami 0.

SECOND QUARTER

G. W.'s Johnny Grinnell intercepted Johnston's pass on the Colonial 12 to halt temporarily the Miami 45-yard march. But Spangler's attempted quick kick for G. W. was blocked by Ralph de Marco who recovered for Miami on the Colonial 12. Johnston then passed to Campbell on the one and on the next play, Harry Ghaul smashed through center for the first Miami touchdown. Ghaul converted from placement to give Miami a 7-0 lead. It was 14-0, Miami, a minute later when reserve Center Bob Sutter intercepted a Spangler pass and raced 28 yards for a touchdown. Ghaul again converted. G. W. was presented with two chances with the ball in Miami territory, once when Spangler recovered a Miami fumble on the Miami 40. But both times, the Colonials were repulsed.

THIRD QUARTER

Miami drove 57 yards to the G. W. 23 ofter the kickoff, but there the Colonials took over on the G. W. 32. Cavallo passed from the 34 to Hank Bartelloni on the G. W. 40, and Bartelloni raced to the Miami 16 before being thrown. Two plays later, Cavallo scored from the seven on a wide run around his right end. Cavallo converted to mut the Miami margin to 14-7. The Hurricanes moved back into a commanding 21-7 lead two plays later when Whitey Campbell raced 64 yards around his own left end for a touchdown and Ghaul converted. Score: Miami, 21; Georg eWashington, 7.

FOURTH QUARTER

The Hurricanes stretched their lead to 28-7 after four minutes when Ed Injaychock returned a Spangler boot for a touchdown and Ghaul converted. G. W. threatened briefly with two minutes to play as the Colonials advanced 30 yards to the Miami 20 only to be stopped.

The game ended with Miami in possession on the G. W. 35.

Crash Injuries Fatal To Golfer Payton, 24

END OF CAREER—The promising golf career of George Payton, young Newport News, Va., professional, came to an untimely end yesterday when Payton died in a Chicago hospital from injuries sustained in an automobile accident. Above, Payton (left) is shown checking his score card with Sammy Snead in the National Capital Open tournament here last June

Payton Regarded 'As One of Best' Young Golfers

ALONG WITH National Open Champion Lew Worsham of Washington and Johnny Palmer of Badin, N. C., George Payton was regarded as one of the finest young professional golfers in the game.

The 24-year-old Virginian started his career as a caddy at the Newport News, Va., Old Dominion Club, no longer in existence.

As a youngster, he mopped up every schoolboy tournament in Virginia, reaching his peak in 1940 when as a 17-year-old star he fired a record 140 to win the 36-hole South Atlantic Interscholastic tournament.

Coached by Red Spiegle, pro at the Hampton Country Club and lifelong friend of his, Payton turned professional October 16, 1944, and was made Spiegle's assistant. He launched his professional career on the winter circuit that year and was in the money in most of the tournaments, competing against the Sneads, Nelsons and Hogans.

Last April Payton made a triumphant return to Virginia by winning the State Open, establishing a record score of 270 for the 72-hole affair. In winning, he trounced Sam Snead and Chandler Harper, Virginia's best.

* * * *

IN HIS LONE appearance in Washington, he finished fifth in the Prince Georges National Capital Open last June after sharing the lead with Bobby Locke and Lloyd Mangrum, the eventual winner, at the 34-hole mark.

Payton was a handsome, dark-complexioned youngster. He was six feet, two inches tall and weighed 140 pounds. Not a particularly long-ball hitter, he was, however straight as a string on all his shots.

He had the poise and confidence of a seasoned veteran, despite his youth.

Virginian Had Been in Coma Since October 9

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP).—George Payton, 24, Newport News, Va., one of professional golf's most promising young players, died today after 15 days of unconsciousness from injuries received in an automobile accident here October 9.

Payton, Virginia State Open champion and winner of more than $6780 on the 1947 professional golf circuit, suffered a severe brain injury when the automobile in which he was riding with four other men struck a railroad viaduct abutment on Chicago's West side.

The other men, including veteran Golfer Ralph Guldahl of Chicago, escaped serious injury. Edward Wooley, 47, Oak Park, Ill., sporting goods manufacturer, who drove the car, told police it went out of control and crashed into the abutment when he attempted to pass a truck.

Payton's condition had been so precarious at Presbyterian Hospital that physicians said complete diagnosis of his injuries was impossible.

Payton, who turned professional in March, 1944, was bracketed with Lew Worsham, United States Open champion, and Johnny Palmer, Western Open champion, as the most likely to climb into professional golf's top money circle among the game's newcomers.

Tall and slender, Payton had a consistent all-around game and generally was pushing one established star or another in every tournament, although his best showing was fourth in both the Portland, Ore., and National Capital Opens.

Anacostia Ties Western

Western's Red Raiders and Anacostia's Indians, battling for third place in the interhigh league, fought to a 14-14 tie yesterday before 1200 at Anacostia Stadium.

Western dominated the first half with the sure-fire passing combination of Donny Strain and Norman Wacker accounting for both touchdowns.

In the first quarter, Strain passed to Wacker in the end zone from the 24 after Western had advanced from its own 36. Strain converted.

In the second period, Western marched from their 32 to the Anacostia 7 where Strain passed to Wacker in the end zone. Strain again converted.

Anacostia took the second-half kickoff and in a series of line bucks by Matius (Chow) Echavez rolled from their 30 to the Western halfyard line. Bob Lohr went through the center of the line for the tally. He repeated for the extra point.

In the last quarter Anacostia evened the score. The Indians advanced 56 yards and Echavez scored from the 1 and also plunged for the final point.

10,000 See Hoyas Have Easy Time

BULLETIN

Georgetown defeated NYU 25-0 last night, at Griffith Stadium.

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Georgetown held a 19-0 lead over New York University late in the fourth quarter here tonight.

A crowd of fewer than 10,000 turned out for the Hoya homecoming attraction.

The Hoyas scored twice in the first period and added their third touchdown in the second quarter. After that, the Violets dug in and repulsed two Hoya scoring bids inside of their own 15.

Fullback Connie O'Doherty rammed over from the 1-yard line for the first Hilltop tally. In the same period, Quarterback Elmer Raba raced 24 yards for a tally.

Sophomore Johnny Hughes, former St. John's halfback, scored the third tally in the second period with a 5-yard sprint.

FIRST QUARTER

After their first scoring bid, which started on their own 30, was repulsed on the NYU 36, the Hoyas struck again later in the quarter and produced the first touchdowns. John Kivus returned Eisenman's punt 17 yards to the NYU 33. Shifting from the T-formation to the spread, the Hoyas advanced to the 1, where Fullback Connie O'Doherty rammed over. Babe Baranowski's drop-kick for the extra point was wide and after 10 minutes of play Georgetown led 6 to 0. Four minutes later it was 12-0, Georgetown. Tackle Tom Dolan blocked Bonacorsa's punt and End Al Sarashevitz recovered for the Hoyas on the Violets' 34. On the second play, Elmer Raba skirted right end and, aided by a great block by Fran Desmond, ran over for the score. Again Baronowski's drop-kick failed. Four plays later the quarter ended.

SECOND QUARTER

The Violets, operating from both a "T" and single wing, with Halfback Jerry Eisenman running and passing, penetrated to the Georgetown 22, an advance of 44 yards, but there the attack stopped as Guard John Berger broke through and spilled Irv Mondschein for an 18-yard loss. The Hoyas' blocking was pitiful and the ball carriers were running alone. They drove to the Violet 17 near the end of the quarter, but lost the ball. Two plays later, when Lou Miller intercepted an Eisenman pass, they were in scoring position again. Miller hauled in the pass on the NYU 38 and hustled 19 yards to the NYU 21. After reaching the 5, the Hoyas sent in Freshman Quarterback Johnny Hughes to relieve Raba and the former St. Johns star busted over guard for the third Georgetown touchdown. Baranowski made good his third attempted dropkick to give the Hoyas a 19-0 lead as the half ended.

THIRD QUARTER

The Violets furnished most of the excitement in what was practically a actionless period. Fullback Mike Karneke, captain of the New Yorkers recovered a Raba fumble on the Georgetown 10 early in the quarter, but the stout Hoya line which hasn't yielded a touchdown all season stood the test again. Three running plays failed a fourth down Eisenman pass, intended for Mondschein in the end zone, was too long.

Navy, Penn Match Bags Of Tricks

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—Navy and Penn meet for the 32nd time on the gridiron before a sell-out crowd of 78,000 at Franklin Field tomorrow, and neither club has made such attempt to conceal the fact it's ready with a bagful of tricks.

George Munger, Red and Blue mentor, declared early this week his performers might very well mix their customary single-wing attack with some fancy business from the T-formation. They did it last year and whipped Navy, 32 to 19.

Capt. Tom Hamilton, the Middies' boss who is decidedly partial to the "T", reported today:

"We don't mind Penn's using some of our stuff against us. And we can do the same thing against Penn."

* * * *

HAMILTON always has had single-wing plays up his sleeve, but his elevens have used them sparingly. Last fall Navy flung a few at North Carolina, again at Penn and, most notably, at Army. This year Hamilton's offense has been exclusively from the T.

"We've been going over the single wing all week," he disclosed. "And we'll probably use it occasionally tomorrow."

His backs will play the same positions in the single-wing as in the T, except that the quarterback may shift from the blocking post to tailback in the diagonal setup.

Who that quarterback will be when the teams square off at 2 p. m. is still a question, but Hamilton said it probably would be Reaves Baysinger. He'll play a hunch again, however, and it could be Bob Horne—who will see plenty of action at any rate.

* * * *

Navy's line, outweighed almost 8 pounds per man, will remain the same.

Four Straight Wins

Central's 88-Yd. Drive Beats Roosevelt in 4th Period, 7-0

By Roger Wolbarst
Post Reporter

A 1-foot plunge by Dale Leathery, midway through the fourth period, enabled Central's Vikings to down Roosevelt, 7-0, and remain unbeaten in interhigh play this season.

The victory was Central's fourth straight in league play while for Roosevelt, it was its fourth consecutive defeat. Thirty-five hundred fans saw the contest at Central Stadium.

Central, favored to win by three or four touchdowns, was throttled for three periods by a gallant Roosevelt team which finally was worn down by Viking manpower.

Taking the ball on its own 12 at the start of the final quarter, Central launched a tremendous power drive through the Roosevelt line which carried 88 yards to the game's only score.

With Jim Pantos, Leathery, Bill Denikos and Bob Sasko slamming into the Rough Rider guards and tackles for substantial gains, Central marked up five first downs during its all-out march.

Denikos tore off 17 yards to the Roosevelt 9 for the last first down. Then Sasko and Pantos crashed down to the 1-foot line in three cracks at the tiring Roosevelt forwards.

Leathery Goes Over

Leathery banged into the end zone for the touchdown and Denikos booted a perfect placement for the extra point.

Although the triumph went to Central, Roosevelt's amazing stand against great odds was a tribute to Coach Phil Fox and his boys.

Emory Ellis, Bill O'Reagan, Bill Boyer and Jules Stopak in the line and Vince Pugliese, Aris Bacas and Jerry Rothkin among the ball carriers particularly stood out for the outmanned losers, who proved that spirit can compensate for nearly every other football handicap.

At Laurel.

DEAR FOLKS:

Trainer Oscar White, who will saddle Loyal Legion in the Pimlico Special next Friday, said today he had not decided who would ride the 3-year-old but he planned to call New York in an effort to land a top jockey. Al Snider, who piloted Loyal Legion to scores in the Maryland and Washington Handicaps at Laurel, will not be available to handle the Jeffords representative in the Special since Calumet Farm has first call on his services. Calumet plans to run Armed with Dodson up and Fervent with Snider in the saddle. One of those racing rarities occurred last Thursday at Laurel when two sons and one daughter of the same mare appeared on the program. The mare is Marshy and her representatives on the one program included the 6-year-old gelding Our Birthday, who is by War Hero; Rugged, a 2-year-old gelding by Morgil and Miss Prime, a 3-year-old filly by Swashbuckler. It would be nice to report that they all won but in the interests of truth, it must be recorded that none of them landed in the money. With five days of sport remaining here, the battle between Jockey Don Padgett and Apprentice Leon Buttler for riding honors promises to be one of the highlights of the concluding portion of the session. Just one victory separates the pair, Padgett having reached the winner's circle on 19 occasions to 18 for Buttler. See you on the rail . . . BILL.

$40,590 Race Rated Wide Open Affair

Laurel, Md., Oct. 24.—A banner field of 16 young fillies has been named overnight for the 22nd running of the Selima Stakes at Laurel tomorrow.

The route is a mile and a sixteenth and the race has an added money value of $25,000. Should all 16 answer the bugle, the race will gross $53,190 and the winner's share will be $40,590.

There were three horses named for the Selima who had been included in most pre-race speculation, Apheim Stables' Bell Heloise, Miss Constance Morbito's Miss Jersey and Brookmeade Stable's She Dares.

Wide Open Scramble

With Calumet Farm's Bewitch on the sidelines, the 1947 Selima looms as a wide open contest.

However, the Brookmeade entry of Inheritance and Slumber Song, coupled with the more lightly regarded She Dares, may gain the favorite roles. Inheritance won the Matron and Slumber Song and Frizette to gain both fillies a notch high in the estimation of many.

C. V. Whitney's pair, of Mackinaw and Dusty Legs, promises to gain a lot of support and so will the two invading from Kentucky. They are E. D. Shafer's Miss Mommy and Snifter. Then, too, Calumet Farm always is highly regarded in this area, which means Whirl Some will have plenty of backers.

Bee Ann Mac '46 Winner

Completing the line-up are J. W. Rodgers' Discord, King Ranch's Airosa and Great Weapon, A. C. Ernests Alfoxie, Bomar Stable's Sweet Biscuit and Charlton Clay's Lea Lark.

Last year's Selima, run in the mud, was won by Bee Ann Mac. The race has been run at a mile and a sixteenth since 1941 and the stake time record at that distance, held by Hal Price Headley's Ask Me Now, who stepped off the route in 1:46 4-5 in 1942.

The 16 fillies entered for tomorrow's feature have earned a grand total of $195,475 so far this season and the victor is certain to gain a high ranking among the fillies of the 2-year-old division this season.

William Woodward annually offers a trophy for the Selima winner and it is expected he will be on hand to make the presentation personally.

Loser Weeper Scares Fans But Finally Wins

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Oct. 24.—For most of the six furlongs of the Burning Tree, today's best offering, it looked as if the favorite players were going to cry in their beer.

They piled in the money on Alfred Vanderbilt's Loser Weeper and he was far back early but in the final quarter he came with a bold rush that won going away.

Longshot players were heading for the windows to collect on the Cedar Farm's No Bull and then moaned when the Vanderbilt colt turned on the heat with Jockey Ruperto Donoso in the saddle.

No Bull had to be satisfied with second money. In third position in the field of a dozen juveniles came the Greentree Stable's Mesmer.

Backers of Loser Weeper collected a $4.40 win mutuel. The hefty son of Discovery was clocked in 1:13.

Loser Weeper, however, had to share honors for the day with Alan T. Clarke's Fritz Maisel, named for the one-time baseball star. This was the second start for the son of Little Beans and he came on like a champion to win going away.

It was to the tune of a $31.80 mutuel that the colt turned back, among other, E. K. Bryson's Your Sun and Wayne Kendrick's Equisun.

Fritz Maisel was clocked in 1:13 for the six furlongs, matching the time of Loser Weeper.

Jockey Carson Kirk of Silver Spring, Md., rode the winner in both ends of the daily double which paid $74.60 on the combination of 6 and 7. In the first race he scored with Breakable Miss at $11.60 and then took the second with Devotedly at $20.

Virginia, W-L Big Favorites

Lexington, Va., Oct. 24.—In spite of the moaning of their respective coaches, football teams of the University of Virginia and Washington and Lee are well-favored to win their portion of a 5-hour grid bill at Wilson Field tomorrow.

Virginia, facing the Keydets of Virginia Military Institute in the afternoon half of the double homecoming affair, is expected to annex its fifth straight triumph with ease. On the tighter side will be W. and L.'s morning scrap against Davidson.

In the first game, at 11 a. m., both teams boast a record of three games won and two lost. Davidson's losses featured its schedule, the North Carolinians having held powerful Wiliam and Mary to a 21-0 victory and N. C. State to a 14-0 edge. W. and L., meanwhile winning from George Washington, Quantico and Richmond.

Against the unbeaten Cavaliers of Virginia, VMI appears to be heading for trouble. It was nosed out by Richmond, 21-20, but beat Catawba and George Washington while limiting Georgia Tech to a three-touchdown triumph.

Georgetown Competes

A four-man Georgetown University sailing team competes in a five-college regatta at Kings Point, Long Island, Sunday, 9 a. m.

Pete Mullin, Bud Rohrer, John McCarthy and Steve Carroll will fly the Hoya pennant against Haverford, Lafayette, Drexel and Kings Point.

Battered Catholic Faces Johns Hopkins

Coach Gene Augusterfer takes his battered Catholic University football forces to Baltimore today to meet the favored Johns Hopkins Blue Jays in a Mason-Dixon Conference game in Homewood Stadium.

Still suffering from their second straight defeat at the hands of Randolph-Macon, the Cards will field a depleted team against the Blue Jays.

With Backs Ben Jarra, Bill Holl, Joe Dunn and L. F. Lilly definitely out of the game, Augusterfer is taking only seven backfield men on the trip.

The first-string quartet will line up with Bucky Ennis at quarter, Joe Maiuri and Gus Gersin at the halves, and Bill DeYoung at full.

In Hopkins, the Cards are meeting a big team which already has won two games and lost only to Randolph-Macon in a thriller. Randolph-Macon defeated Catholic, 35-0, last week.

Halfback Eddie Miller handles the kicking and passing for the Blue Jays, while the big running threat is George Mullinix. Anchoring the line is 245-pound Harry Moses, with two big tackles, Bunting and Bill Nichols on either side.

Jackie Robinson Plans Retirement in 3 Years

THREE MORE years of baseball and Jackie Robinson will call it quits.

"I'm no longer a young man," the 28-year-old Brooklyn Dodger Negro first baseman said here yesterday, "and after a few more years I'll definitely retire and take up a job I'd like to be doing now—working with underprivileged kids."

In Washington for a week's appearance at the Howard Theater, the first Negro ever to play in organized baseball talked freely about baseball, the Dodgers and himself.

He had nothing but praise for his fellow players and their treatment of him and singled out Dixie Walker, Brooklyn's Alabama-born outfielder as "the fellow who was kindest to me and who helped me most."

A well-proportioned six-footer, Robinson was extremely modest and cagey in his answers to the hundreds of questions put to him by newspapermen.

Who is his preference to manage the Dodgers next year, Leo Durocher or Burt Shotton?

"Well," he fenced, "I've never played under Durocher and he must be a good manager, but Mr. Shotton would be mighty hard to beat."

NONE OF THE Dodgers, he added, had any comment on their choice to pilot the club next year.

Despite his great freshman year, Robinson said he didn't get a raise during the season and his contract was "about $5000.

"That's why I've got to make this four-week stage tour."

Of Branch Rickey, the Dodgers president, he said:

"He coached me on conduct and baseball all season and I wouldn't trade anything for his advice. He has great foresight and I'm deeply indebted to him."

Robinson said he received about 400 letters a week from kids, most of them colored, who aspire to be baseball players now that Robinson has broken the barrier against Negroes. He said he answers all of them personally.

"Everybody in the league was swell to me and just treated me like another ball player. That's all I wanted and that's what I got."

Sure, he said, the Dodgers expected to beat the Yankees in the World Series and were greatly disappointed that they didn't.

"Hope we get another crack at them next season," he concluded as he politely excused himself and was off for his second show of the day. MORRIS SIEGEL.

2683 See Porteous Tally Twice

Paced by Dan Porteous, with a pair of goals, Washington's Lions shut out the Springfield Indians, 6-0, before 2683 fans last night at Uline Arena.

Showing improved passing and a sturdy defense, the Lions moved out to 4-0 lead after two periods.

Scotty Mair opened the scoring as he took Jack Portland's rebound and pushed it past Springfield Goalie Ives Nadon at 7:55 of the first stanza.

Then at 12:06 the Lions scored again as a pair of hard shots by Walt Babey and Bud Foley drew Nadon out of the cage as he made the saves. Bob Walton picked up the loose rubber and lifted it over Nadon's prostrate form.

In the second period, Red Raney and Walt Babey teamed for the prettiest goal of the evening. Raney stole the puck at mid-ice, skated down the right side and passed to Babey who was standing a little to the left of the cage.

Walt took the pas sand easily beat Nadon at 3:50. Less than a minute later the Lions scored their fourth goal as Dan Porteous, playing his first game for the Lions, took a loose puck after a scramble in front of the Springfield net and put it past Nadon.

Card's Punting Star Killed In Plane Crash

Chicago, Oct. 24 (AP).—Jefferson Davis Burkett, 26, Chicago Cardinals' punting star, was aboard a United States Airlines DC-4 plane which crashed today at Bruce Canyon, Utah, killing 52 persons, the airlines said.

While the passenger list carried the name of J. Burkhart, the Chicago Cardinal Football Club officials said that was a misspelling of Jefferson Davis Burkett, rookie quarterback.

They said he had informed them he was on the passenger list booked for the ill-starred flight.

Burkett underwent an appendectomy last Saturday and was unable to return to Chicago with his professional football team Monday after its game Sunday with the Los Angeles Rams.

Burkett, former three-sport athlete at Louisian State University, prior to missing Sunday's game, led the National Football League in punting with an average of 47.4 yards in 11 kicks.

Coach Bernie Moore at Louisiana State had rated Burkett as the greatest collegiate punter he had ever seen. Burkett was a first lieutenant in the Army Infantry, serving three years. His home was at Laurel, Miss.

'Skins Return Moore to Active List; Ruthstrom Suspended

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

In their most surprising and yet most logical move to date the Washington Redskins yesterday returned Backfield Coach Wilbur Moore to the active list for their scrap with the Chicago Bears tomorrow at Griffith Stadium.

Moore's resumption in an active player role, after being sidelined with a shoulder injury late last season, comes at a time the Redskins sorely need protection against the passes of Sid Luckman and was made possible by the indefinite suspension of Fullback Ralph Ruthstrom.

Ruthstrom, third of the Redskins' fullbacks and one of two players obtained in the Los Angeles trade for Steve Bagarus, was suspended in absentia yesterday when he failed to appear for practice. He later telephoned from Houston, Tex., explaining that there was illness in his family, but on the Redskin books he was down as "suspended for infraction of training rules."

Second Brush With Bosses

It was Ruthstrom's second brush with his bosses this year. During the training season he was fined $500 for "jumping the club"—he returned after three days—after an argument about his appearance in a Chicago hotel lobby without coat and necktie.

The surprising thing about Moore's new status is that only a week ago he was declared "the last person we'll put in a uniform again." Now 31 years old, the mild-mannered Moore, one of the greatest aerial defenders in 'Skin history, will be starting his ninth year of professional play.

An all-Big Ten halfbacl. at Michigan in 1938, Moore came to the Redskins the next season in a draft haul which included Dick Todd, Dick Farman, Clyde Shugart and Steve Slivinski. His bruising play through the years earned him the questionable honor of having suffered more broken bones than any other player in National Football League history.

Back Together Again

With Moore back in uniform, sharing the defensive backfield with Todd, Tom Farmer and Dick Poillon, the Redskins will be using three of the players who participated in the most famous Bear game of all, the 73-0 job of 1940. Todd and Sammy Baugh are the others. The Bears, meanwhile, still have eight performers left over from their '40 squad—Ken Kavanaugh, Ed Kolman, George McAfee, Ray McLean, Hugh Gallarneau, Bulldog Turner, Ray Bray and Luckman.

Recently scratched from the Chicago list of veterans was Bill Osmanski, the weekday dentist who doubled as Bear fullback. Waivers were asked on the older of the Osmanski brothers to bring the team within the 34-man player limit.

As game time neared, the park was sold out four days in advance and the wagering gentry were giving from 7 to 10 points and the Redskins, there was a single doubtful element about the locals' attack. That centered around trucklike Sal Rosato, the fullback who wrenched his back in last Sunday's game. His action hinges on a doctor's examination today.

In the morale department the Redskins rated tops for the game that might decide their chances of taking the Eastern Division title. Baugh was the reason. The Slinger, unable to play in a preseason exhibition the Bears won by 28-7, is in perfect physical condition and passing better than ever.

Penn State JV's Lose to Navy

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—A touchdown after four minutes of the first period sewed up matters for Navy's Jayvee football team but the Middies pushed over two more later in the game and whipped the Penn State Junior Varsity today, 19 to 0.

The visitors put on the most spectacular play of the test in a fruitless last-minute scoring threat when Danny Klein made a leaping catch of a long pass around the Navy 25. He headed goalward, but was overtaken by Navy's Trevillyan on the 18. Two plays later the game ended.

Kit Carson, reserve halfback, carried over two of Navy's touchdowns and figured largely in the other.

He pulled down an aerial on Navy's third try from scrimmage after the kick-off and ran 20 yards before he was nailed on the Penn State 5-yard stripe. Fullback Al Jansen drove across on the next play, and Larry Derby's placekick was good.

Russia Holds Brazil Envoy Under Guard

London, Oct. 24 (AP).—Russia announced throuh the Moscow radio tonight that she had placed the Brazilian Ambassador and his staff under "protective" surveillance and said they would be held in Moscow until the safe departure of the Soviet embassy staff from Brazil had been assured.

Brazil severed relations with Russia Tuesday because of Russia's failure to apologize for attacks in the Soviet press on Brazilian President Eurico Gaspar Dutra, calling him a "lackey" of the United States.

The Moscow radio said Brazilian Ambassador Mario de Pimental Brandao and his staff had been taken "under surveillance," and would be held under guard—presumably within the embassy grounds although that was not specified—because the Soviet public was incensed at "hooligan acts" against Russian diplomats in Rio de Janeiro.

Brazil Violence Charged

The broadcast declared the 5-year-old son of Soviet Charge D'Affaires Sokoloo was injured in the stoning of an embassy automobile in Rio de Janeiro's streets, in which "bad eggs" also were thrown.

Dispatches from Rio de Janeiro have made no mention of such an incident. A crowd attacked the Communist newspaper Tribuna Popular on Tuesday night, wrecking the place. The paper said eight persons were injured. Rio de Janeiro dispatches also have reported that some "school boys" ripped signs off the embassy building Tuesday night, but were driven away by police.

Diplomats Detained

The Moscow radio made no mention of the diplomats of Chile, who also severed relations with Russia and Czechoslovakia Tuesday. The Chilean Undersecretary of Foreign Affairs, Enrique Bernstein, said in Santiago last night that the Soviet and Czechoslovak diplomats would not be allowed to leave Santiago until Chilean diplomats quit Moscow and Progue.

The Russians, before the break in relations refused repeatedly to allow the Russian-born daughter-in-law of Chilean Ambassador Cruz Ocampo to leave the Soviet Union.

10,000 Cheer Stand Of Brazil President

Rio de Janeiro, Oct. 24 (AP).—President Eurico Gaspar Dutra told a cheering crowd of 10,000 Brazilians today that his government had broken relations with Russia because of "national insults."

The president declared the break with Russia was just as much an expression of the will of the people of Brazil as the declaration of war against the Axis.

Father and Son Split Pin Honors

Father and son waged a merry battle for individual honors yesterday in the National Bowling League at Greenway alleys, and broke even.

Rolling for the Blitz team, which won three from Continental Life, Tommy Buckingham, jr., 23, won the high set for his quintet with 350, beating out his dad, Tommy, sr., by six points, but his father, with a 141, copped high individual game honors.

Other results: Anglers, 3; Anacostia, 0; Schrieber, 3; Reindeer, 0.

Morgan Case Hearing Scheduled Nov. 6

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Judge Julien Gunn of Richmond Circuit Court today set November 6 as the date to hear the controversial case of Vernon Morgan, 18-year-old University of Richmond student, who has been declared ineligible to take part in Southern Conference football games.

The date was set over the protests of Morgan's attorney, John J. Wicker, jr., who asked for an immediate hearing of his request for a declaratory judgment against the conference.

Caps Will Test Newcomers in Opener Monday

Coach Red Auerbach last night announced that he intends making full use of new players Monday night when his Washington Capitols open their basketball season with an exhibition against the Toledo Jeeps of the National Professional League at Uline Arena, 8:30 o'clock.

In a preliminary at 7:15 o'clock the Washington Cliftons play host to the Carlisle Indians of South Dakota.

The Caps will substitute freely to get a line on Irwin Rothenberg, 6-foot 9-inch former Long Island University center; Jack Tingle, sharpshooting former University of Kentucky forward; Dick O'Keefe, Bob Ferrick's Western style protege from the University of Santa Clara, and Nick Shaback, an established pro player from the now defunct Cleveland Rebels.

Stymie Shoots At Armed's Mark

New York, Oct. 24 (AP).—Stymie gets his chance to pass Armed and become the all-time money-winning horse tomorrow in the $75,000 added Gallant Fox Handicap at Jamaica, but a South American pair trained by Horatio Luro, Talon and Miss Grillo, are expected to rank as overnight favorites.

Mrs. E. D. Jacobs Stymie has run up a bankroll of $759,710. That is only $1790 short of Armed's all-time high of $761,500. Fourth money in the Gallant Fox, $3750, would shove Stymie into the lead.

Much of the mutuel play is expected to go on the Talon-Miss Grillo entry.

GOP Leaders Charge Truman Is 'Playing Politics' in Call

pass on the question" as to whether it is necessary, he said. He added that he will not summon his committee until it has something to work on.

Saying "it is high time the country be given all the facts," Halleck echoed Taber's views on foreign relief needs.

He said that "less than four weeks ago we were told that $580,000,000 would be needed for Europe. Since then, he said, the Administration has "managed to rake up" about $200,000,000.

"Now we are told that $642,000,000 will be needed," he went on. "Tomorrow or the next day it may be more."

Kennedy Pessimistic About Marshall Plan

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 24 (U.P.). Joseph P. Kennedy, former United States Ambassador to England, said tonight he views the Marshall Plan "with extreme pessimism" but believes the plan should be tried out on a limited basis "as a gamble."

Addressing a Knights of Columbus dinner, Kennedy said that "pouring billions of dollars into Europe isn't going to do any good unless the people of those countries are willing to work."

Kennedy suggested, however, that it would be "a good investment for this country to loan Europe five or six billion dollars for one year."

He was "pessimistic" about the success of the plan because of the prevalence of strikes and political unrest throughout Europe.

"Only today, Sir Stafford Cripps announced new emergency cuts in British rations," he said. "And yet tonight there are 30,000 miners out on strike in Scotland. What these people don't seem to realize is that unless they produce, all the money in the world can't help them."

Air Guns Called Dangerous, Judge Orders Briefs for Trial

THE RESULTS—Three lead BB pellets are imbedded in a piece of wood. Test shots were fired from a repeating air rifle at 6 inches, 12 inches and 24 inches distance. The shots were least powerful at closest range since they had not gathered velocity

TEST FIRE—Police Inspector John Fowler, ballistics expert, fires the repeating-type air rifle at the wood panel

Scott's Decision Will Affect 100 Stores Dealing in Rifles

By Alfred E. Lewis
Post Reporter

Is junior carrying a dangerous weapon or a toy when he plays with his BB gun?

Inspector John Fowler, Metropolitan Police ballistics expert after making a series of tests on the weapon says the weapon can cause harm and is dangerous."

After hearing arguments pro and con, Municipal Court Judge Armond Scott gave opposing counsel two weeks to prepare briefs for his study.

"There is no doubt in my mind that this particular gun can be dangerous" the judge said, "but I would like to know whether it was the intent of Congress when they passed the License Act of 1932, to include the BB gun."

Pellets Stuck in Wood

If after studying the briefs the judge decides that the weapon is dangerous, it will mean that over 100 hardware dealers in the District will have to obtain the approval of the Police Department for each sale and also pay a $50 license tax.

Fowler, testifying, produced a piece of pine wood showing that pellets fired from a BB gun at distances of 6 inches, 12 inches, 24 inches and 5 feet had imbedded themselves in the wood.

Fowler said that the pellet fired from the 5-foot distance had imbedded itself deeper in the wood than those fired from the shorter distances because it had had a chance to gain velocity.

Defense Attorney Irving Yochelson attacked the ballistics expert's testimony on the grounds that, although Fowler was a firearms expert, he had never made any previous tests on BB guns.

Yochelson addressing the inspector said: "You say this BB gun is a dangerous weapon—would you say that a hammer or a piece of wood was a dangerous weapon."

Store Owners Charged

Defendants in the trial are Irving Abraham and Isadore Schwartz, both 27, co-owners of the Hillcrest Hardware Store, 3810 Alabama ave. se. They are charged with selling a BB gun without a license.

According to police they admitted selling the weapon, a Daisy BB Gun to Robert Lee, 14, son of Adelbert W. Lee, school board member, of 3195 Westover dr. se., on September 28.

Assistant Corporation Counsel Robert Kneipp pointed out that this was an anamolous situation. He pointed out that by police regulations it is illegal for a minor to carry a BB gun in public, that it is illegal for dealers to sell ammunition for the weapon to a minor and that it is illegal for any person to discharge a BB gun on public space.

Young Denies 'Mistake' in Armory Plan

Writes Gen. Cox Seating More Than 5000 Not Intended

Neither Congress nor the District Commissioners ever intended the Armory to seat more than 5000 according to Commissioner John Russell Young.

Young's statement was made in a letter, released yesterday, in which he denied the Commissioners had made a "mistake" in designing the Armory, as charged by Brig. Gen. Albert L. Cox, commander of the District National Guard.

The letter, one of several exchanged recently between the District Government and the National Guard over control of the Armory, was written by Commissioner Young "with the warmest personal regards."

Fire Rules Limit Crowd

But, Young warned, the Commissioners could not make any ruling permitting larger attendance than 4825—limited by the number of fire exits—because to do so would "risk the possibility of major tragedy if the structure became overcrowded and panic occurred."

Cox has asked for liberalization of the rules to increase seating capacity to 8200, saying colleges won't use the armory for basketball double-headers unless that many spectators can be accommodated.

Big Space Passed up

Commissioner Young said that in 1940, during Senate hearings, the District government testified that a larger audience capacity than now permitted would require a larger appropriation. When one of the Senators raised the possibility of an auditorium for 25,000 persons, it was not "seriously considered" by the committee, according to Young. He added:

"We regret as much as you do the limitation on the building's capacity. As you know, it is our contention and conviction that the building is the property of the District government, and that any monies received on account of its rental to outside agencies must be paid to the District."

Fredericksburg Bank Case Trial Set for January 5

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Federal Judge Johnson J. Hayes today set January 5 as date for the retrial of the involved Fredericksburg Bank case in Federal District Court here.

Judge Hayes, in Richmond from Greensboro, N. C., where he sits on the District Court, said he had planned to try the case November 17 with the expectation that it would be concluded within 30 days. The later date was set after U. S. District Attorney George R. Humrickhouse and counsel for the seven defendants asked that the retrial be started not earlier than January 15.

The seven persons granted a retrial were among nine convicted last spring of aiding and abetting in misapplication of $435,000 in funds of the Fredericksburg Farmers & Merchants State Bank. The Government contended they were involved in a gigantic check kiting scheme through which dairying interests of one—Hugh N. Rakes of Leesburg—were financed.

Judge Gives Mail 'Cheat' 1 to 3 Years

Paul A. Toneman, sr. Berated by Court For Getting $2050 In License Deal

Castigated by the court as a "swindler and a cheat," Paul A. Toneman, sr., 31, yesterday was sentenced to serve 1-3 years on charges of using the mails to defraud.

Associate Justice Alexander Holtzoff, District Court, decreed that Toneman's term begin at the expiration of a 4-12 month sentence he is currently serving on a charge of swindling a manicurist out of $500 on an "investment" deal.

Toneman's most recent difficulty began when he secured $2050 from a Los Angeles export firm official under the pretext that he could secure an export license for the firm.

Mayb Think It Over

"This defendant is a swindler and a cheat," Holtzoff said. "He is intelligent and if he were honest he might be a successful man. Perhaps he will think this over during the time he is restrained of his liberty."

The jurist then went on to criticize Toneman's refusal to divulge the name of the "Government official" to whom the Toneman declared he had given $1500. "Of course his testimony was false," Holtzoff asserted.

Meat Theft Charged

In another case, Ralph P. De Santis, 35, of 2515 Bladensburg rd., ne., received a 2-6 year suspended sentence and was placed on probation after pleading guilty to embezzling meat valued at $1149.83 from his employer, the American Meat Co. He promised to make restitution for half of that sum.

Involved in the same case was Ellis Levy, 6437 14th st. nw., charged with receiving the meat. Levy, who operates a market at 5th and K sts., nw., was sentenced to 26 years. Sentence was suspended, and he was put on probation with the understanding he would make restitution for half of the $1149.83. Sentence was imposed by Associate Justice David A. Pine.

Walter Ross, 23, of 1112 10th st. nw., was given 2½-7½ years charged with assault with a deadly weapon. Ross was convicted of wounding Robert L. Little, 33, with a pistol in January 1946.

Others Get Sentences

Richard W. Spriggs, 33, of 58 K st. ne., was sentenced to 2-6 years, charges with larceny and housebreaking.

Accused of similar offenses, Charles Williams, 23, of 1510 12th st. nw., was sentenced to 1-3 years.

Ernest Dover, 21, of 1374 Kenyon st. nw., was sentenced to 5-15 months for removing a $25 money order fro ma mail box and forging the recipient's name.

Two men received sentences of 1-3 years each for a pickpocket robbery which netted them 50 cents. The defendants were Johnny McCalvin, no fixed address, and R. C. Rhodes, 25, of 1025 7th st. nw. They worked on streetcar loading platforms.

Charged with carrying a deadly weapon, George Lewis Briscoe, 20, of 20 P st. nw., received a nine-month sentence. Briscoe had attempted to fire at Minnie E. Thomas, it was charged, but the weapon misfired and an assault with deadly weapon charge was dropped.

Lee Ward, 39, of 144 Thomas st. nw., was given 4 to 12 months for operating a crap game.

Suicide Ends Case Against Federal Clerk

Arlington Man Faved Charge of Defrauding U. S. on Death Claim

An Arlington, Va., Government clerk imposed the death penalty on himself for a crime which warranted only 10 years in prison, the Department of Justice said yesterday.

McLaughlin

Charles Genus McLaughlin, 33, of 1211 N. Kennebec st. twice-wounded war veteran and father of a 5-year-old daughter, committed suicide Thursday night rather than face charges of defrauding the Government, the Federal Bureau of Investigation reported.

McLaughlin, whose body was found about 20 miles from his birthplace, Elkins, W. V., by FBI agents, was an adjudicator in the death claims section, retirement division, of the Civil Service Commission.

He was charged with presenting a false claim against the Government in the amount of $5982.07, the FBI said, which was processed through the death claims section and paid by Government check on September 23.

The fraudulent claim was based on the fictitious Government service of one Dr. Chambers H. Willis of New York City, who allegedly had been employed at various Veterans Administration facilities from 1918 to August, 1947, and had filed a form on May 19, 1942, designating his nephew, Charles H. Willis, as beneficiary, the FBI said.

FBI agents identified McLaughlin as "Willis" and traced him to Elkins. Together with local police officers they learned that McLaughlin had a taxicab driver deliver a suicide note to his brother's home at Elkins.

The note indicated where McLaughlin's body would be found and blamed domestic difficulties for his act, the FBI said.

Agents found him in a locked car with a running motor on a side road. A hose was attached to the car's exhaust.

Baby Squirrel Is Adopted By 22 Young Proxy Parents

"Chatterbox," a baby gray squirrel, has 22 doting foster parents.

They watch his every move, squeal with delight when he chirps i nhis high voice, and take turns heating his milk and feeding him out of a doll's nursing bottle.

"Chatterbox" is the center of attention att he Lynnbrook School, West Virginia ave. and Lynnbrook dr., Bethesda, where he is rooming and boarding in the third and fourth grade room.

He has a cage of his own but spends a good part of his time perched on school desks.

"Chatterbox" joined the school last Monday after an adventure that nearly cost him his life. Mrs. Daniel H. Campbell, 4405 Maple ave., Bethesda, rescued him from the family pet dog "Perky," and presented him to young "Pete" Campbell to take to his teacher, Miss Patricia DeSpain.

The squirrel was too young to do more than just nibble at a nut but 9-year-old Virginia Jensen, 4602 Jones Bridge rd., solved the feeding problem by thinking of her doll's bottle.

Right now "Chatterbox" is little more than a bit of fluff but already the youngsters are planning his future. When he can take care of himself he will go free, they say a bit reluctantly.

Youth's Attack On C. U. Coed Baffles Police

Police were still baffled last night as to the motive for the brutal attack made by an unidentified youth on an 18-year-old Catholic University coed shortly before midnight Thursday.

Twelve stitches were required to close a 4½-inch gash in the head of the victim, Miss Roxanne Rice, 1045 Michigan ave. ne., at Sibley Hospital. She is resting at her home now awaiting results of X-rays taken to determine if she has a skull fracture.

zMiss Rice told Twelfth Precinct police that she was crossing the campus from the theater where she had been working with the costume crew at rehearsal of a play to be presented tomorrow when she was struck on the head with a hard object. As she started to fall she turned partly around and her assailant struck her another glancing blow, she said. He fled when she screamed.

She described her attacker as a stockily built youth about 20 or 25, 5 feet, 9 inches tall, with dark curly hair, wearing dark trousers and a tan shirt.

After the attack Miss Rice ran to a nearby men's dormitory where students called a doctor and administered first aid while about 75 of them combed the area for the assailant without result.

Members of the sex squad who questioned Miss Rice said they were convinced that it was not an attempted sex attack. Police also discarded the robbery motive.

Miss Rice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Rice. Her father is in the insurance department of the Veterans Administration.

James Point Near Washout, Gives Timber

Cambridge, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—James Point, once a part of the mainland, is giving up some valuable timber before it is finally washed away by Chesapeake Bay waters.

The point, deserted for many years, is furnishing timber being cut by James Wells of Salisbury. The wood is brought to Taylors Island where it is trucked away.

Only one building now remains on the island which once was a thriving settlement with houses, schools, churches and stores.

May Ease Rules

Huff Seeks More Funds For Relief

Easing of public welfare eligibility regulations to allow benefits for more hardship cases is being considered by the Board of Public Welfare.

Requirements which went into effect in August required a medical certificate showing the applicant was unable to work and barred from benefits those applicants who have a family relative working for at least $1200 per year.

Whether the modifications can be accomplished depends on finding additional funds, Welfare Director Fay L. Huff explained.

The August regulations trimmed welfare checks by 662 and brought partial cuts in relief payments. The action was taken at that time in an effort to keep the Board within its reduced budget.

Moves to ease the rules came during a review of hardship cases brought before the board. A special meeting, date of which has not been announced, will continue plans for the revisions.

Future of Nursing Discussed Here by 300 From 22 States

Three hundred educators in nursing from 22 States yesterday convened at the Mayflower Hotel in a three-day conference on the study of schools of nursing.

Called by the National Nursing Council, the meeting will be devoted to discussions of the future of nursing, with emphasis on education and recruitment.

Main purpose of the study, said Miss Marjorie B. tDavis, executive director of the NNC, is to stimulate exchange of ideas about the kind and extent of nursing service the country will need in the next 20 years, and the sort of training required to produce it.

"Social changes now underway are forcing all concerned with nursing to make new plans for the numbers and types of nurses needed for the future, Miss Davis explained.

Attending the conference are directors and faculty members of schools of nursing, hospital administrators, and representatives of State boards of nurse examiners.

D. C. to Open Delinquent Tax Drive On Monday

30,000 Overdue Accounts Exceed $2,000,000, Extend Back to March 1944

District tax collectors will begin seizing autos, bank accounts and other personal property Monday in an effort to collect more than 2 million dollars from approximately 30,000 delinquent taxpayers.

Samuel J. Kidd, chief of the District's delinquent tax section, said yesterday he hoped to have the "cvrack-down" in full swing by the middle of next week.

The drive primarily will hit persons who were delinquent in payments of personal property, individual income and inheritance taxes during the three years ending March 30, 1947, he said.

Ten-day "final" notice to pay have been sent to each delinquent, the most recent batch of 10,000 mailed last June, Kidd said.

Under present law, he pointed out, the tax collector may seize without further notice assets of any individual who didn't pay his tax bil lduring the 10-day period of grace following receipt of the notice.

Five tax investigators have been working for approximately six months, he said, to determine what assets are held by delinquent taxpayers.

The three methods generally employed by tax collectors to "recover" delinquent taxes, Kidd said, are:

1. If the delinquent owns an auto, he received a "notice of levy" telling him his car is being seized to cover his tax bill. The auto is impounded with the police department. If the tax bill isn't paid in 10 days, the automobile is advertised and sold at public auction.

From the money received from the auction, the District takes the amount of the original tax bill, plus 1 per cent penalty for each delinquent month and any penalty for late return filing. The "former car owner" receives the remainder.

Bank Accounts Seized

2. If the deliquent has a bank account large enough to cover the tax bill, the collector may "seize" it. This is done by serving a formal notice on the bank, which check for the tax amount, then deducts the money from the depositor's account.

3. If the person has real estate, instead of either an auto or bank account, the tax collector may file a lien on the property in District Court. This will prevent the owner from selling or transferring the property until his tax bill is paid.

Kidd said the number of delinquents has grown from 2000 per year in 1939 to about 10,000 this year. He attributed the increase, in part at least, to the Disthict assessor's house-to-house campaign to ferret out persons who fail to file tax returns.

Kidd urged all citizens to pay delinquent tax bills voluntarily. "We would much rather get them to pay their bill than take drastic action to seize property," he declared.

Woman in Bathtub Gives New Twist To Numbers Raid

Baltimore, Oct. 24 (AP).—In his stormy career as chief of the police vice squad, Capt. Alexander Emerson has retrieved burning policy slips from a furnace and snatched them out of a suspect's mouth before they could be swallowed, but never before has he had to get them out of a bathtub—with a woman in it.

He described the situation to a magistrate at James H. Morris' hearing on bookmaking charges.

"I saw him throw the slips into the bathroom and close the door," Emerson said.

"I opened the door. I could see only her head and shoulders, but I knew she was sitting on the slips. I told her to give me the slips or I'd come on in. She gave them to me."

Morris was fined $100 and costs. Charges against the woman in the tub were dismissed.

Pickpocket Suspect Fined $300 as Vagrant

Municipal Judge Armond W. Scott served notice yesterday that Washington will be a mean host to suspected pickpockets as he fined Willie Hubbard, 52, of Cleveland, $300 on a vagrancy charge.

Hubbard, who must serve 90 days in jail if he does not pay his fine, was introduced to the court by Lieut. Richard J. Cox, head of the police pickpocket squad.

Cox said Hubbard, who has a record as a pickpocket dating back to 1920, told him after his arrest he had come to Washington to attend a "professional conference" of pickpockets at a local hotel.

Hubbard indignantly denied such a statement and displayed several character references which stated that he was legitimately employed in Cleveland.

"Yes," observed Judge Scott, "I guess you are gainfully employed and a useful citizen—but only to yourself and your dependents. On the basis of the evidence, I think you came back to this city to do business solely to meet those ends."

Cox told Judge Scott that Hubbard was arrested after jostling people on a crowded streetcar loading platform at 7th st. and Massachusetts ave. nw.

The automobile mounted the curb and started up an embankment directly at some cars parked on the lot there. At the top of the embankment, White managed to get his fot on the brake, but in grabbing for it, he twisted his ankle and skinned it.

Indorses Vote Method

Charles O. Pratt, who as president of the Greater Arlington Association last spring bitterly opposed popular election of county school board members, yesterday indorsed the direct election method.

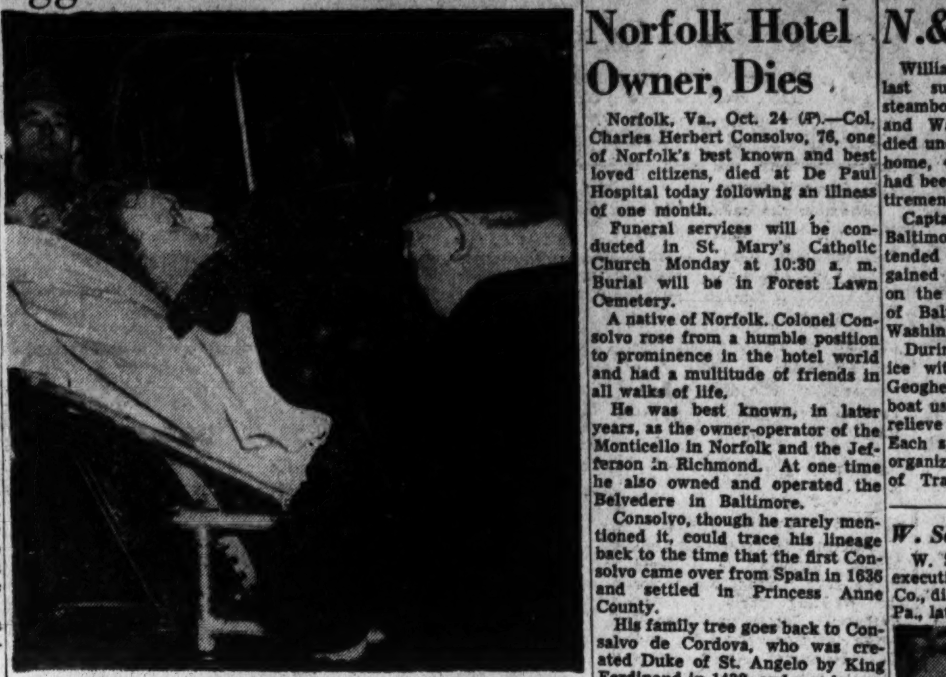

Popular election of the board members was approved by voters in a referendum on May 27. Pratt, Republican candidate for Trial Justice, said he initially had opposed the plan "because I felt that services of persons better qualified educationally could be obtained by appointment." He now "recognizes" that the present 12 candidates are as well-qualified as they might have been under the appointive system, he said.

The four taken to Emergency Hospital: Mrs. Margaret Jordon, 59, of 200 Adams st. ne.; Ruth Craighton, 52, of 3726 D st. ne.; Blanche Bristol, 52, of the Clara Barton Home, Glen Echo, Md., and Mrs. Marie J. Spoon, 50, of 940 Randolph st. nw.

A store official said the workers, who were from several departments of the firm, all had eaten lunch in the employes cafeteria of the main store, located between F and G sts. and 10th and 11th sts. nw.

He said that about 5:30 p. m., they were taken ill and reported to the store's infirmary. Rather than await the arrival of physicians, ambulances were called while three store nurses administered emergency aid.

Ambulances from the Fire Rescue Squad, Emergency Hospital, Casualty Hospital and two from the Health Department responded.

Store officials said all food remaining in the cafeteria after the day's business was placed in containers for examination by the Health Department.

An automobile driver and a streetcar operator were cleared of responsibility for two recent fatal accidents by a coroner's jury at inquests held yesterday at the District Morgue.

The jury decided that Perry Arthur Keahtigh, 49, an Indian interpreter employed at the Smithsonian Institution, was struck because of his own carelessness on Constitution ave. near 9th st. nw. on the evening of October 17. He died at Emergency Hospital last Wednesday, five days later.

The two hearings were conducted by Dr. Magruder A. MacDonald, District coroner.

Dr. Magner Asks Brake On Divorce

One of the prime causes of divorce is the facility with which the marriage contract is broken, Dr. James A. Magner, procurator of Catholic University, told his audience at the first fall session of the Charles Carroll Forum last night at the Mayflower Hotel.

"Some brake must be put on this avalanche, this glacier of broken homes," he stated. The brake that he advocated was a strict uniform divorce law, among other things. "If you're tied to something, you're going to make it work," he said.

The main reasons for divorce, which has reached one for every two and a half marriages, are failure to have children, lack of comprehension, financial problems, and excess drinking, he claimed.

To avert these disasters, he said, a new idea of marriage is needed. He favored high school and college courses on marriage, marital clinics, larger tax exemptions for children, and "a recognition of the natural factors underlying the modern marriage."

70 Arrested In Greek Port To Nip Plot

Athens, Oct. 24 (AP).—An uprising that police said would have "plunged Salonika into chaos" has been prevented by the arrest of 70 persons in that northern Greek port city, it was announced officially today.

In addition to discovering plans for what they called a "Communist terrorist" rebellion in Salonika, the police said they seized a stock of grenades, dynamite, pistols, new automatic rifles, carbines, thousands of cartridges, swords, light mortar shells and a few large shells.

80% in 25 Years

Enrollment In Parochial Schools Up

Enrollment in District parochial elementary and high schools has increased nearly 80 per cent during the past 25 years.

A report released yesterday by the National Catholic Educational Association shows that currently there are 4453 students attending 16 high schools and 10,616 children enrolled in 27 elementary schools.

Twenty-five years ago 2458 students were in 13 high schools and 5923 in 20 elementary schools.

The District population has swelled during the period from 486,936 to 861,000, approximately 76 per cent.

Nationally enrollment in Catholic schools has gone up 50 per cent and is approaching three million, association figures show.

Msgr. Frederick G. Hochwalt, general secretary of the organization, said that he expects enrollment throughout the Nation will advance 1 to 2 per cent in elementary schools and quadruple in high schools if buildings are available.

He anticipates the greatest rise in the South and Midwest where the "need is greatest" because of rapid growth in population.

Nationally 2,151,000 students are enrolled in elementary schools and 475,000 in high schools.

Nov. 17 Date Means Capitol Cleanup Rush

Capitol Architect David Lynn might have called a special session of Congress for November 17 if he were President.

But in the job he has, Lynn said yesterday, he would have set the date a couple of weeks later.

Although there'll be a rush, Lynn said the Capitol would be all set for the returning members.

Biggest problem will be to get the Senate restaurant in the Capitol ready to serve meals on the opening day. It is being remodeled. Lynn said he was sure it will be ready, although some of the finishing touches, like new acoustic tile in three of the Senators' private dining rooms will have to be left out for the present.

Workmen still are busy on the $84,000 restaurant remodeling project.

Kitchens are being enlarged. Special equipment is being installed to take food up from the basement kitchens to the main floor dining rooms, to do away with the old system in which waiters had to carry the food upstairs.

Lynn said the new kitchen equipment had been scheduled for delivery November 15, but that he has already acted to get it delivered in time for the new session.

He said other Capitol cleanup chores were well in hand.

Col. Consolvo, Norfolk Hotel Owner, Dies

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Col. Charles Herbert Consolvo, 76, one of Norfolk's best known and best loved citizens, died at De Paul Hospital today following an illness of one month.

Funeral services will be conducted in St. Mary's Catholic Church Monday at 10:30 a. m. Burial will be in Forest Lawn Cemetery.

A native of Norfolk, Colonel Consolvo rose from a humble position to prominence in the hotel world and had a multitude of friends in all walks of life.

He was best known, in later years, as the owner-operator of the Monticello in Norfolk and the Jefferson in Richmond. At one time he also owned and operated the Belvedere in Baltimore.

Consolvo, though he rarely mentioned it, could trace his lineage back to the time that the first Consolvo came over from Spain in 1636 and settled in Princess Anne County.

His family tree goes back to Consalvo de Cordova, who was created Duke of St. Angelo by King Ferdinand in 1438, and was known among his courtiers as the prince of cavaliers.

The walls of his private office reflected the friendships he had made through the years. Included among the photographs displayed there were those of Presidents, Cabinet members, Senators, princes, diplomats, explorers, Army and Navy officers, race track drivers, singers, circus stars and even a few subjects who had no particular claim to fame—except, perhaps, that they were old friends and associates.

Consolvo married three times. His first wife was the late Mrs. Annie Cheshire Consolvo, his second Mrs. Blanche Hecht Consolvo and his third the late Mrs. Mary Byrd Consolvo.

He is survived by an adopted son, Charles S. Consolvo; three half-brothers, F. E. Consolvo, William Wright Consolvo and Douglas Cannon Consolvo and two half-sisters, Mrs. Mercedes Halstead and Mrs. Louise Neilson, all of Norfolk.

Naval Stations To Hold Open House Today

Celebration of Navy Week, which will be climaxed Monday with observance of Navy Day, gets the "full-steam ahead" signal today, with many naval stations in the Washington area being opened to the public.

Yesterday a taste of Navy life was given to 121 high school boys and girls when they were inducted for a 24-hour hitch in the Navy. To be discharged today with "duty very satisfactorily completed," 77 boys went to the Naval Receiving Station at Anacostia and 22 boys and 22 girls to the Naval Air Station there. The one-day seamen are spending their time as students at the Navy's school of music, advanced gunner's mate school, electric interior communications school, in the dispensary and in the galley.

Byrd Exhibits on View

Today, four area naval stations will be opened for general visiting. The Naval Air Station at Anacostia will be open from 10 a. m. to 4:30 p. m., Capt. James H. McKay, commanding officer, announced. The station plans exhibits on Rear Admiral Byrd's expedition to the South Pole last winter, aerology and weather charting, Link training instruction, and motion pictures of the "Saga of the USS Franklin," which was badly damaged by kamikaze planes. Highlighting the program will be a simulated attack on the airfield by U. S. Marines with naval air power, which will begin at 3 p. m.

Combat Artists' Exhibit

A Naval Day exhibit of water colors and oils by naval combat artists will be showing at the Corcoran Art Gallery from today until Wednesday.

At 2 p. m. tomorrow, a Navy bomber will take off from Anacostia Naval Air Station to drop flowers at sea commemorating naval war dead. The Naval Air Station requests that anyone wanting to send flowers for the ceremony have them at the station by midnight tonight.

On Monday, the week will be climaxed by observance of Navy Day, and almost al lnaval activities in the Potomac River Naval Command will be open for the public. The destroyer Gaering, commissioned in 1945, will be at the dock of the gun factory, along with an LST, a submarine, and the destroyer Plunkett, used as a training ship. Landlord, Tenants Agree Landlord and tenants of the Kenesaw Apartments were in almost perfect accord during a rent hearing yesterday.

Their only disagreement came when the tenants complained the requested increase was too high. They concurred it is a pleasant place to live and none protested need for an increase—only the amount.

Attorney William E. Carey, representing owners of the apartment at 3060 16th st. nw., said they had delayed the request as long as possible, and tenants praised the efficient management.

Rent Control Examiner William H. Clarke called it the "most pleasant" hearing of his career. Then he took it under advisement.

Death Comes To Cardinal Salotti, 77

Rome, Oct. 24 (AP).—Carlo Cardinal Salotti, 77, died today of a liver tumor. He was prefect of the Congregation of Rites.

Salotti

His death reduces the College of Cardinals to 62 members.

Cardinal Salotti, regarded as one of the most brilliant princes of the Catholic Church, bore at one time one of its strangest titles—the Devil's Advocate.

As such he had the duty of presenting before the Congregation of Rites every conceivable argument against a contemplated canonization to assure that no unworthy candidate be enrolled as a saint.

He had equal claim to the title of "saint maker," having occupied also during his 30 years of service with the congregation the Office of Advocate of the Saints and Consistorial Advocate. As such, he promoted more than 100 causes for canonization, including that of Joan of Arc in 1920.

His colleagues described him as possessing one of the ablest intellects in the Catholic hierarchy.

Cardinal Salotti was born at Grotte de Castro on July 25, 1870. His decision to become a priest came while undergoing conscript military service in Rome. He was ordained in 1894 and after completing advanced studies in the University of Rome, was for 11 years professor of philosophy at the Atheneum of St. Apolinare.

He became a cardinal in 1935.

The Secret's Out

Elizabeth Will Marry In Lustrous White Satin

By Robert Musel
United Press Staff Writer

London, Oct. 24 (U.P.).—The London Evening Standard, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, today kicked over the most elaborate security guard ever placed around a gown by publishing a front page photograph showing the white satin material from which Princess Elizabeth's wedding dress is being made.

The photograph was taken in Norman Hartnell's salon where the gown is being tailored and its authenticity is beyond question. It shows three types of material draped over a sofa in the designer's fitting rooms. They bear the placards "bridesmaid's dress," "going-away costume" and "wedding gown."

Hartnell is trying so hard to keep the gown a secret—on Elizabeth's orders, it is said—that only a few hours before the paper appeared he had whitewashed the windows of his Bruton Street salon. He charged fashion spies with binoculars were peering in from neighboring buildings.

Veil Will Be Tulle

The photograph showed every Briton, without the aid of binoculars, that the wedding gown was heavy white satin. It was somewhat wider than the usual 36 inches, and the next most usual British width is 54 inches. The newspaper said a fine, misty white tulle veil had been selected to go with it.

The bridesmaids' dresses are of silk net draped over pure satin with tiara headdresses of flowers, apparently lilies. The bride's going-away suit is shown as smoky gray fine wool.

A bouquet of lilies is shown in the center of the photograph and the Evening Standard surmises that Elizabeth will carry lilies if she decides to have a bouquet.

The newspaper explained the photograph had been obtained in "normal course" in New York and was published without qualms because the Evening Standard had refused to sign any secrecy agreement that would prevent it from publishing details of the gown at the first opportunity.

Paper Had no Vow

The photograph of the gown was taken last week by photographers who were sworn not to release the pictures before the wedding date, November 20. The Evening Standard said it had declined to attend the preview because those who did had to agree on the November 20 release date.

The Evening Standard said it was considered the newspaper's duty to "give the news to the public at the earliest moment."

Details of the gown have been ordered kept secret because there allegedly is an overwhelming desire by American women to be married in an exact copy of the Princess' gown—but cheaper—and fashion spies from the United States are invading London to snatch the design.

Other Britons, meanwhile, including George Bernard Shaw, began to join the gown and marriage debate. Shaw suggested that Communist member of Parliament William Gallacher and others who have complained about wedding expenditures be disenfranchised.

Shaw said he would recommend increasing the cost to astronomical figures "to take their breath away" except that "it would be cruel to the Princess, who would have to do all the exhausting work while the rest of us have all the fun."

"How she must wish she could do it in a quiet half hour before two witnesses at the nearest registry office," the famous playwright added.

The Duchess of Kent, considered one of Britain's best-dressed women, is making no secret of what she will wear at her niece's marriage. She has acquired a pink and silver brocade from Molyneux which will have a full court train. With it she will wear pearls and diamonds and a hat of pink ostrich feathers.

Ask Anne — Your Questions On Homemaking

Several mantels in an old house had been painted and when the paint was removed, the marble was in good condition except that the surface appeared quite dull. Is there any way to restore the gloss? Wax was tried, but wasn't satisfactory.

V. M.

Perhaps the following method recommended for polishing marble will be helpful: Rub with water and putty powder (oxide of tin), applied with a damp felt pad. A discarded felt hat can be used. Long rubbing is necessary to give the marble a high polish.

In your column of September 3, you told how to remove black spots on a brass floor lamp. Does this method apply to a lacquered brass lamp? If so, is the linseed oil proof against quick retarnishing? If it isn't, how can one relacquer the lamp without having brush marks show? A. B. B.

The polishing method described should not be used on lacquered brass lamps. If the lacquer is peeling off but the brass beneath is in good condition, it's possible to relacquer satisfactorily.

However, if the brass finish has deteriorated, it will be necessary to have it refinished by a metalcraft company. A number are listed in the yellow section of the telephone book.

In relacquering the lamp, it may be advisable first to remove the old lacquer with lacquer thinner. Fresh lacquer should then be "flowed" on the lamp with a very full brush so as not to leave brush marks.

I have a very old lamp and would like to have it rewired. Where can I take it to have it done at a reasonable price?

M. T. F.

Listed under "Lamps" in the yellow section of your telephone directory you will find several firms that specialize in converting old lamps. It's not hard to convert oil lamps yourself with adapters in electric shops, dime stores, or department stores. Experienced clerks in such departments can usually give you information about the type of adapter to buy and how to attach it.

Some time ago you told in your column how to use pepsin powder to get rid of under-arm odor in woolen garments. I have misplaced the article. Will you please repeat these instructions? L. G.

To remove perspiration odors, sponge the stained part with warm water to which a few drops of vinegar have been added. Sprinkle pepsin powder over the stain, work it well into the cloth, and stand 1 to 2 hours, keeping the spot moist. Then brush off the powder and rinse well.

We have some handsome inlaid tables and some other mahogany tables with a lovely old finish. Is there anything that can be done—short of covering with plate glass—to prevent damage to these tables from the bottom of wet glasses? I have in mind some clear, utterly impervious finish. A. B. D.

Spar varnish will give your tables a good protective finish, though it may detract somewhat from the soft appearance of the old wood. It is resistant to water, alcohol and soap, and will make it much easier to keep the tables in good condition.

In using it, apply one coat. Let it dry thoroughly, then rub lightly with fine steel wool. Repeat this procedure three times.

Rubbing with the wool will keep it from having a hard shiny appearance. Waxing also offers considerable protection against water rings and the like, but doesn't make the surface as impervious as varnish, of course.

Will you please give instructions again for making a print look like an oil painting? V. M.

How can I remove spots from a copper teakettle? S. K. H.

After washing the kettle thoroughly in hot soapsuds and rinsing in clear water, rub stains or corrosion with a section of lemon dipped in salt. Or, if more convenient, rub with vinegar and salt. It's important to rinse thoroughly after this treatment. If a high luster is desired, apply mild scouring powder with a soft, damp cloth.

Immediately after I have dusted I find lint on my furniture. Since the finish is dark, it never looks dusted. Can you recommend anything? B. N. M.

Do you use treated or plain cloths for dusting? The treated ones are much more effective in picking up all the dust. There are several ways to treat them at home. Here are two:

(1) Put a tablespoon of furniture polish in an old coffee can and shake it well. Stuff fresh cloths in the can and let stand overnight.

(2) Mix one pint hot water and ¼ cup lemon oil (obtainable at drug and paint stores). Dip cloths (cheesecloth squares are good for use as dustcloths) in this solution and saturate thoroughly. Then squeeze out all excess moisture and let the cloths dry well before using. An important thing to remember is not to use cloths after they become laden with dust. Wash them out or get new cloths to treat.

PETUNIA!

A thing I've always
Yearned to do
Is eat my cake
And have it, too.

You can, Petunia! If your fruitcake dries out a bit, wrap it in a tea-towel moistened with sweet wine and store it in a tin container. Keeps for months—gets better every day!

Menu Stars Spareribs

Spareribs and sauerkraut for Saturday night and spiced pot roast for Sunday dinner are suggested by the Citizens Food Committee in its weekend "Peace Plate" menus. Meats used in these dishes are reasonably priced, the committee points out, and come from animals that are fed little grain for "finishing."

Here's the suggested menu for Saturday night dinner:

Spareribs and sauerkraut
Sweet potatoes
Cottage cheese, pear, and nut salad
Butterscotch pudding

The Sunday "Peace Plate" menu is:

Spiced Pot roast
Whipped potatoes and gravy
Panned green cabbage
Raw cranberry and orange relish
Dutch apple cake, with cream

Directions for preparing the spiced pot roast follow:

¼ pound beef suet
½ cup coarsely chopped onion
3 to 4 pounds round, rump, or chuck of beef
3 cups boiling water
¼ cup vinegar
1 small carrot
2 cloves
Dash of allspice
3 teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon pepper

Saute suet in a large kettle until all the fat is tried out. Remove suet, add onions, and brown well. Remove and reserve. Brown beef well on all sides in remaining fat. When well browned, add onions and remaining ingredients. Bring to a boil, then lower heat, and simmer until tender—about 3 to 3½ hours. Then remove meat to a hot platter and strain the liquid. Return liquid to kettle, and thicken, using 2 tablespoons flour mixed smooth with 3 tablespoons water for each cup of liquid. Serves 6 with leftovers.

Haircut or Harvest

Anyway, a Wheat Picture's Here

By Richard L. Coe

THE WEEKEND'S CALENDAR is a full one—four openings today and tomorrow.

THIS MORNING at the Warner finds the old Earle having its third Saturday opening in a row—"Wild Harvest." This originally was titled "The Big Haircut," which evidently was considered a bit too fancy for what the producers call "marquee strength." It's certainly got its timely value, for it concerns the annual wheat crop and the men who sweep across the Nation working for farmers and ranchers. With Alan Ladd, Dorothy Lamour, Robert Preston and Lloyd Nolan heading the cast, you can expect a load of melodrama.

THIS AFTERNOON, the Hippodrome will be offering the first local showing of "Carnival of Sinners," a French story with Pierre Fresnay as a painter who makes a bargain with the devil a la "The Devil and Daniel Webster." Also on the bill will be an old French favorite, "Poil de Carotte," with Harry Baur the big name in Director Julien Duvivier's cast.

TONIGHT Sammy Kaye and his band begin the monthly dance program of Name Bands, Inc., in the National Guard Armory, 20th and East Capitol sts. ne. Sammy's inevitable "So You Want to Lead a Band" trick will be turned into a contest with prizes for whoever the dancers think do the best job.

TOMORROW AFTERNOON the National's "Rose Marie" company shifts to Franz Lehar's "The Merry Widow," putting the National to work for two Sunday performances, a rare E st. occurrence.

TOMORROW NIGHT Catholic University's speech and drama department resumes its Playwriting Festival with the opening of "Rebel's Empire." This play by Victoria Kuhn originally was titled "Metternich" and concerns the personal aspects of the Austrian chancellor's life and his struggle to adjust personal beliefs to political action.

TOMORROW NIGHT, also, Community Education will resume its series of film revivals at 914 20th st. nw. Classes already are underway at the group's headquarters; the Sunday night film series will include revivals in double feature with notable documentary and technical films. "The Lady Vanishes" opens the lot tomorrow night at 8.

MONDAY'S out-of-the-ordinary event is a special showing of "Round Trip—The U. S. A. in World Trade," which will be given in the Chantilly Room of the Hamilton Hotel at 12:15 p. m. The film is being promoted by the American Public Relations Association and was made by the Twentieth Century Fund, a nonpartisan institute for public research. For further details call Miss Bertie Johnson at DIstrict 1427.

"HENRY V" returns to this area for a three-day run beginning Tuesday at the Apex on a nonreserved seat basis, with four performances daily, at 1:40, 4:25, 7 and 9:40 p. m. There'll be special student prices and a scale of 90 cents and $1.20 for the matinees and $1.20 and $1.80 for the evenings. United Artists seem to have pulled a fast one in bringing the Laurence Olivier triumph back sooner than they'd originally "suggested" would be the case.

THE ATLAS, of the K-B chain, has now become a "first neighborhood run theater," which means you'll be catching the feature pictures there a little quicker than you did previously. "Song of the Thin Man," "Riff Raff" and "Desert Fury" are on the early schedule.

THE MOUNT VERNON Players are getting underway with a new director, Helen Brewer, who has succeeded Edward Mangum, now on the drama staff of George Washington University. Like Mangum, Miss Brewer got her master's from Catholic University's speech and drama department and has recently served as dramatics director for the District of Columbia Recreation Board and dramatics coach at Immaculata here. First play will be Holberg's "The Fussy Man" and tryouts are now being held through Monday in the church undercroft, Massachusetts ave. at 9th st. A call to District 1484 will make an appointment for tryouts.

COLUMNISTS around town are receiving mysterious little packages in their mail, but you can't fool us. So far, in various glamorous packages, we've gotten a dime, a shoe and a top. Who else could that mean but Eleanor Powell? The dancing star is set to arrive at Club Cairo Wednesday night. It must be Eleanor.

Housewives Urged to Lead In Food Saving

Housewives last night were urged to become the spearhead of the food conservation program by James Colliflower, District food conservation chairman.

Colliflower urged housewives, along with all other citizens, to conserve as much food as possible by careful planning of menus, in a talk on Lou Brott's District Assignment program over Station WOL.

That Cooliflower's urging is getting results was indicated yesterday, as District food dealers reported increasing compliance with national food conservation drive, competing its second week today.

Sidney Folker, of the Washington Beef and Provision Co., chairman of the food subcommittee of the District Citizens Food Conservation Committee, said that meat sales in the past two weeks had dropped about 10 per cent. He attributed "about half" to the conservation drive and said the remainder was due to warm weather and present meat prices.

Colliflower said he would name 18 committees from all walks of Washington life Monday to aid the conservation program.

He also said the District commissioners would be asked to approve windshield stickers with the slogan, "Save wheat, save meat, save the peace."

Donald Smith, Curley Associate, Denied Parole

Donald Wakefield Smith, who was convicted of mail fraud conspiracy, was denied parole yesterday.

Smith

The District Board of Parole in announcing that Smith's application had been rejected said only, "It was not felt that release on parole would be in the public interest."

Smith, a former National Labor Relations Board member, is serving a four month to a year and a day prison term. He was convicted along with Mayor James M. Curley of Boston, and James G. Fuller, who are also in prison.

The three were involved in an outfit called Engineers Group, Inc., which during the war, attempted to defraud industrialists by claiming to have inside lines to the allocation of war contracts, according to charges.

Baruch Sees No Immediate Russian War

By Marshall Andrews
Post Reporter

In dealing with Soviet Russia the United States must be "patient and firm and ready," Bernard M. Baruch declared yesterday.

The 77-year-old retired financier and adviser to Presidents told the Senate War Investigating Committee he saw no immediate prospect of war with Russia. There is always the chance, he added, that "we'll stumble into it."

"Russia is pursuing exactly the same course today as she did under the Czars," Baruch said, "but the attitude of the Allies toward her has not always been exemplary. The Russians find themselves suddenly in a position of great power, but suspicious and badly hurt by the war.

"I hope they will soon learn to use this great power instead of abuse it."

In nearly three hours of testimony, during which he emphasized his points by wagging his hearing aid at committee members, the elder statesman laid down a 17-point "preparedness program" which included universal military training. His testimony was enlivened by these observations on the past and suggestions for the future:

1. The economic situation now facing the Nation is the result of "failure to adopt proper and sound price-control measures" without catering to organized minorities. Rents, wages and farm prices, he said, should have been brought under rigid control.

2. What was achieved was "not price control, but legalized inflation."

3. It is more important to be economically sound than militarily prepared, because "this battle is being fought now on the home front."

4. "We've got to stop talking about dollars" in dealing with the plight of Europe. "They don't want dollars; they want things. But if our prices keep going up they can't get things with the dollars we send them."

5. Labor could be controlled in war without conscription by cutting off supplies of materials to plants making nonessential goods and "their people would have to work somewhere else or join the armed forces."

6. The inflation spiral started with "enactment of a bad price law and continued with an unwise tax program and repeal of what price control we had. Then the fact that the United States is the only place in the world where people can get things has driven prices up."

7. "If England would produce the coal she can produce, she wouldn't need so many thing from us."

Baruch told the committee inept and delayed mobilization of industry cost "thousands of lives, billions of extra dollars and months of time" in World War II. He said he did not know why a mobilization plan he helped to prepare in 1939 was not put immediately into effect with the entrance of this country into the war.

As a matter of fact, he declared, "the whole mobilization plan should have gone into effect in 1940 when the Government started buying."

At the outset of his testimony, Baruch presented to the committee, headed by Senator Brewster (R., Me.), his "minimum program" for national security. In it he urged universal military training, wartime mobilization of all men and women to "work or fight," an industrial plan to control production and price regulation coupled with a tax to take "unfair profits" out of war."

W. Va. Church To Celebrate 1747 Founding

Shepherdstown, W. Va., Oct. 24. Christ Evangelical and Reformed Church here, one of the oldest in this area, will mark the 200th anniversary of its founding with services beginning Sunday.

The first congregation here met under the guidance of Michael Schlatter in about 1747 at the home of a settler. The first church was built by the congregation of this small German settlement, then known as Mecklenburg, in 1774.

Land was donated by Henry Kuckus, and a crude log building, the first church in Mecklenburg, was erected. Lutheran and Reformed congregations shared the structure.

In 1808 the church received its first full-time minister, Lewis Mayer, and sermons were preached in English instead of German. About 1800 a bell tower was built to house chimes brought from France. A new church was built in 1881.

Christ Church, Kearneyville, formed in 1884, of which the Shepherdstown church was the parent congregation, will join in the anniversary celebration.

Services will be held at the church each night, with a pageant scheduled for Thursday, and a banquet Saturday. Guest speakers will include former Shepherdstown ministers.

Absent Voter Rulings Hit By Va. GOP

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Virginia's absent voters law, subject to many a story blast in recent weeks, got some rough handling today from Republican headquarters, and some fresh interpretation from the State Board of Elections.

The Republicans denounced a ruling on the law by Attorney General Harvey B. Apperson as "shocking to the conscience." Apperson held that local electoral boards may lawfully send absent voter ballots to applicants who fail to include required postage for returning the votes by registered mail.

Earle Lutz, executive director of the GOP's Central Committee, pointed out that this opinion will permit board secretaries (Democrats in every case) to send ballots to Democrats who "forget" their postage, and to refuse to send ballots to Republicans.

The State Board of Elections made four rulings on the absent voter law in an opinion provided to Page County authorities. The board said an applicant for an absent voters ballot must sign a written request for a change in the address to which his ballot should be sent, and that local electoral boards cannot honor such requests by telephone or telegram.

In other opinions, the State board said ballots must be mailed to applicants—not handed to them; that electoral boards may delegate ministerial tasks to board secretaries; and that local election officials are not required to make public a list of applicants for absent voters ballots although all three members of the electoral board are entitled to inspect all applications.

Merchant Seaman Dies in Chair For Police Murder

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Raymond Lawrence, 29-year-old Negro merchant seaman, died in the electric chair this morning for the murder of a Newport News policeman August 11, 1946.

Major Frank Smyth, superintendent of the State penitentiary, said the ship's cook who was convicted of slaying Patrolman Charles N. Doughty, was pronounced died at 7:43 a. m.

Laurence first was sentenced to die June 20, but was granted a postponement while his petition for a writ of error was being considered by the State Supreme Court of Appeals. The court refused the petition and just a few weeks ago—October 6—the State board of pardofns turned down his request for a reprieve.

Prosecution contended that Laurence shot the police officer twice with the patrolman's pistol when Doughty went to the waterfront area of Newport News to investigate a break-in.

Former GI Wins Round in Suit Over Towel in Stomach

Baltimore, Oct. 24 (AP).—A former soldier who contends an Army surgeon left a towel inside him after an operation won today the first round in his suit to collect $100,000 from the Government.

Federal Judge W. Calvin Chestnut refused to consider a Government argument it is not liable to a member of the armed forces for injuries due to the negligence of others on active military duty.

The plaintiff is Arthur K. Jefferson of Joppa, Md. He said in his petition the surgeory was at Fort Belvoir, Va., in 1945 and that a second operation was necessary to remove a hand towel marked "U. S. Medical Department." He still cannot eat properly, he contended, and his abdominal organs were permanently injured. He did not know the name of the surgeon.

Jefferson sued under the "Tort Claims Act" passed by a recent Congress.

Construction Contract Protest Turned Down

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—A protests of the Laburnum Construction Corp. against the award for new construction at Eastern State Hospital to J. Kennon Perrin & Co. was turned down today by Attorney General Harvey B. Apperson who said an investigation of the matter is "closed" as far as his office is concerned.

Charlottesville, Va., Oct. 24 (AP). Registration at the University of Virginia hit an all-time high with the total in all departments at 5056.

Law school enrollment reached 764 today with more to register next week. Law is the only department continuing on wartime accelerated program with classes conducted through the summer.

Enrollment in the college of arts and sciences now totals 2928—only slightly under 3015 which was highest prewar total for the entire university. Figures for other departments: engineering, 561; graduate school, 307; medicine, 249, and education, 247.

U. S. May Back Foreign Deals In Tobacco

By The Associated Press

The Government is considering underwriting British purchases of American tobacco and buying American tobacco for use in German factories, Representative Harold D. Cooley (D., N. C.), said yesterday.

The British ban on import of American tobacco resulted in numerous conferences of Federal officials, tobacco men, and legislators from tobacco growing and manufacturing States yesterday.

Cooley told a reporter after conferences with Department of Agriculture and Army officials that he "hoped for immediate action on these unusual programs."

The Commodity Credit Corporation board of directors at a meeting yesterday afternoon deferred action, but kept the proposals under consideration, tobacco men said after the meeting.

The proposal, from Cooley and leading tobacco-grower representatives, that this Government underwrite purchases for foreign manufacturers would mean, Cooley said, that the Commodity Credit Corporation could underwrite purchases of tobacco companies under outstanding contracts. This, he added, could effect Irish and Swedish as well as British tobacco manufacturing, and the credit corporation could make American tobacco available for foreign factories when they are able to use it.

Tobacco Leaders Agree On Sales Holiday

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Despite a somewhat divided opinion as to the necessity of suspending sales on the Old Belt tobacco markets, the majority of warehouse officials, sales supervisors and other leading men in the tobacco field agreed tonight that the stoppage would do no immediate harm and might serve as a stimulant to prices when buying is resumed.

The divided opinion as to the need for the holiday, announced at Henderson, N. C., this afternoon, will not effect cooperation with the order of the flue-cured marketing committee. Markets throughout Virginia and North Carolina planned to close after Tuesday for an indefinite period.

Prices were already declining at the Old Belt markets in Virginia and North Carolina as the announcement was made.

Old Belt Prices Continue Decline Today

Danville, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Prices continued to decline today as the fifth week of sales ended on the Old Belt flue-cured tobacco markets. For the third consecutive day most leaf grades along with a few others dropped to establish new low levels for the season.

The United States, North Carolina and Virginia departments of agriculture report the majority of the averages, when compared with the previous day, were down from $1 to $4 per 100. However, fine lemon and fair orange leaf lost $5 for the greatest losses.

Kieffer Takes Charge Today At St. Johns

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—John S. Kieffer of Hagerstown will be inaugurated as seventeenth president of St. John's College tomorow before representatives of 185 colleges, universities, learned societies and institutions of research and 300 alumni.

Sixteenth of the delegates, who will march in the academic procession, will be college presidents.

Rev. Dr. Henry Pitney Van Dusen, president of Union Theological Seminary of New York, will give the inaugural address on "education in crisis."

Among the notables to participate in the ceremonies will be Governor Lane, who will present Richard E. Cleveland, Baltimore, chairman of the St. John's board of visitors and governors. Cleveland wil invest Kieffer.

Kieffer has been a member of the St. John's faculty for 18 years, adn helped organize the "100 great books plan" on whic the curriculum has been based for 10 years. Stringfellow Barr, president of the college when the program originated, will be a guest.

The alumni association will hold a general meetin, and be host at a banquet in Carvel Hall, which the faculty and senior class will attend.

Long Appointed To Food Board

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Governor Tuck today announced the appointment of Raymond V. Long, director of the State Planning Board, as State food conservation chairman.

The appointment was made at the request of Charles Luckman, the chairman of the President's Citizens Food Committee.

The Chief Executive said he already had sent one memorandum to State authorities asking their cooperation in food conservation, and said he intended to talk with Long about another notice to State agencies. The food conservation program is being followed carefully in the executive mansion, he said, within the spirit of the Luckman plan.

Bay Ferry System Shows Increased Fares

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—B. Frank Sherman, general manager of the Chesapeake Bay Ferry system, reported today an increase of over 75,000 passenger rides on ferry boats during June, July, August and September compared to the same months last year.

The winter schedule went into effect Monday on the lines which carried 754,878 passengers during the four hot weather months. In the same period last year 677,576 persons used the ferries.

Poultryless Day Blessing In Long Run

Annapolis, Md., Oct. 24 (AP).—Maryland turkey growers were told today poultryless Thursdays would eventually be an advantage and tasted turkey in its newest form—steaks.

C. Fred Smith, Eastern manager of the Poultry and Egg National Board said: "Telling people not to eat poultry on Thursdays is making people more conscious of poultry. If we must sacrifice poultry and eggs one day during the week, we will make up for it later on when this temporary condition is over.

"This is the first time in history when poultry has become a great factor in international relations. Its consumption is affecting the economic future of Europe and the peace of the world."

The growers, known officially as the Maryland Turkey Producers Association, tried the "steaks" at luncheon. They came from chopped turkey meat dropped into a grinding machine, which turned out steaks in oblong form.

The machine was invented by Prof. F. Z. Beanblossom of Texas A. & M. University.

Smith said the demand for the machines, to be used in retail meat stores, had outstripped the supply.

At the business session following talks given by growers about their experience in retail selling, Hobart L. Norman of Charlotte Hall was elected president of the association.

Samuel T. Royer of Thurmont was elected vice president and George F. Hawkins, Glen Burnie, treasurer.

Directors chosen were Mrs. Alice W. Sattler and Arthur Nelson, Monkton; Glenn Cowles, Salisbury; James G. Rugh, Elkton; W. P. Zimmerman, Severna Park; R. V. Smith, Thurmont; Miss Agnes Tilghman and Mrs. Howard Taylor, Easton; Norman Whittington, Marion Station, and Morris G. Smith, Ellicott City.

Government Blamed For Poultry Income Loss

Richmond Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—Failure of the Government "to include appreciable amounts of poultry meats in the foreign food relief program" is blamed by the Virginia State Poultry Federation for "a staggering loss of income" to growers.

The federation said in an editorial in the current issue of its magazine, the Virginia Poultryman, that the industry never suffered an outbreak of disease in flocks which has had as much effect on income as "the present artificially unbalanced relationship between high production costs and low market prices."

Ex-Policeman Pleads Guilty In Forgeries

A 22-year-old former Hyattsville (Md.) town policeman, indicted on eight charges of forgery by a Prince Georges County grand jury last week, reversed his plea and admitted his guilt on all counts in the Circuit Court yesterday.

The defendant, Paul L. Barbour of Mount Rainier, entered his plea through Attorney John S. White, who asked the court to impose a suspended sentence, asserting that Barbour was prepared to make full restitution within 72 hours. Judges Charles Marbury and John Gray took his plea under advisement, pending a probation report.

Barbour admitted forging checks totaling $705 in the name of Frank Coplin, a fellow roomer at a Hyattsville boarding house. He was arrested by town policemen on July 11, and dismissed from the police force immediately.

Earlier, a Circuit Court jury found Clarence Hall, 20, of High Ridge, Md., and Thomas Hall, 28, of Bowie, guilty of the July 15 robbery of the Mid-City Filling Station, at Laurel, Md. The two men, cousins, were accused of slugging an attendant, Tommy Shaw, 23, of Laurel, and rifling the station's cash drawer of $25.95.

The jury, after an hour and a half deliberation, acquitted John Green, 23, of Bowie, who admittedly waited outside the filling station in an automobile while the two men committed the robbery. Green said he thought his companions had gone into the station to use the restroom.

Garnishment Law Revision Recommended

Richmond, Va., Oct. 24 (AP).—The Virginia Advisory Legislative Council, in a report to Governor Tuck today, sharply criticized what it called "the almost indiscriminate extension of credit" by some retail stores in Virginia and made seven recommendations for amendments to garnishmen' laws.

These proposed amendments would:

Abolish the notice of executions as to intangibles, as far as it applies to salaries and wages; would put a one-year time limit on the effectiveness of such notices on intangibles; would exempt the first $100 in monthly wages of the head of a family and the first $50 of any other person from garnishment; would provide that garnishment proceedings could be brought only in the county or city where the garnishee or judgment detbor resides.

Requires plaintiffs seeking judgments on debt sto make more complete identifications of the defendants by full name and last known address; would keep the lift of a judgment from being dependent on whether o. not an execution is issued; would make all judgments good for 20 years and revivable during that period. The seventh proposal would make all sections conform.

The council's unanimous recommendations were based upon a report from a subcommittee headed by State Senator M. M. Long of St. Paul.

The changes were suggested by the council to make it difficult for creditors to go on "fishing expeditions" in search of their debtors and to protect employers from having to maintain check lists of workers against whom a notice of execution has been served.

Sanitary Plan Is Formulated In Fairfax

Fairfax County supervisors may be asked in the near future to form a sanitary district in the McLean-Chesterbrook-Franklin Park area.

A group of citizens in the area, headed by O. V. Carper of McLean, have been studying the sanitation and water supply problems for three months. Carper said yesterday that the group will publish the results of their study in pamphlet form, and distribute it to property owners.

A petition is being circulated asking the supervisors to authorize preparation of a boundary map establishing the limits of a 7-mile square sanitary district.

Several months ago an attempt was made to establish a sanitary district in the area between Fairfax, Falls Church and McLean. When opposition developed the plan was dropped.

The new plan, on a much smaller scale, would include the communities of Langley, McLean, Lewinsville, El Nido, Chesterbrook, Franklin Park and Chesterbrook Woods.

G. Hubert Massey, consulting engineer of Fairfax, yesterday said the whole system would cost $1,700,00. He estimated that the bond issue necessary for the project could be paid off in 30 years.

Massey said that water for the system could be purchased from Arlington mains at Chain Bridge. Massey estimated that the potential need of the area would eventually be two million gallons of water a day.

The committe believes the installation of the system would reduce the fire insurance rate in the area. A complete water system with 26 miles of mains, 79 fire hydrants and a disposal plant at Pimmitt is contemplated.

Carper said there would be no front foot assessments and no hookup charges for sewer or water systems if those with private systems connect with the public system within five years.

5 Generations Honor 90-Year-Old Mrs. Beard

Martinsburg, W. Va., Oct. 24 (Spl.).—Five generations of one family yesterday assembled near here to celebrate the ninetieth birthday of Mrs. Sarah Beard.

Present at the open house in honor of Mrs. Beard, a native of Berkeley County, were her daughter, Mrs. Marion Crim, a grandson, Mervin Crim, a great-granddaughter, Mrs. Mitchel Parker, and a great-great-granddaughter, 1-year-old Judith Parker.

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

Song Ends Abrutly as Mouse Rats on Crooner

If you were listening to the Chesterfield show on WRC Wednesday night, this will explain why Perry Como suddenly blacked out for 85 seconds in the middle of a soulful ballad.

The electrocution blew out the sclofis which connects the frattis tubes to the glimph relays—or something like that.

Anyhow, you couldn't hear Perry Como. And if the WRC engineers don't get themselves one of these cats I'm forever advertising, I'll suspect that they think not hearing Perry Como is a good idea.

STREET SCENE

Stuart Krasner of 5100 Chevy Chase pkwy. nw. is our reporter for this one:

"It happened while Kann's fire was at its worst. A piece of equipment was thundering toward the blaze, and the policeman at 12th and the Avenue held up his hand to stop all other traffic.

"But one character pulled too far out into the intersection, and the fire engine had to swerve to avoid a collision.

"The fire truck missed the auto all right, but it sideswiped the cop—and he flew backwards in a jumble of arms and legs.

"The driver of the fire truck slammed on his brakes, but before he could bring his vehicle to a stop, the cop struggled to one knee and waved him on.

"Then he got to his feet—and went back to directing traffic. What a guy. I wish I'd remembered to get his name."

SELF-MADE (GENTLE)MAN

The little old lady timorously surveyed the wide expanse of bustling Pennsylvania ave.

Spotting a distinguished looking Navy captain, she approached and asked:

"Is it all right to cross, officer?"

And with that he solemnly escorted his charge across the avenue.

It may take an act of Congress to create an officer, but some of our better gentlemen are self-made.

ADD NAMES

John Ball wants the last word in our running discussion of Agriculture Department names:

"So Ege got a little hard-boiled about my observations, eh? Well, I've uncovered some more.

"It is fitting that Agriculture should have a little Korn.

"Katherine E. is okay, but don't you think Lieut. Ralph E. Korn should be a colonel?

"And did you know that the department has four English, one Irish, and a Sweitzer? And how can we keep secrets with a German in Soil Conservation?

"Besides, there's a Rodd and a Pinch—but maybe that's not so bad, since the State Department has one Reder."

Very good, John. Let's keep the Ball rolling.

OLD, COLD, GOLD AND TROUBLES UNTOLD

L. K. Pollock of 2434 16th st. nw., forwards a clipping from the current issue of "The Author and Journalist." It says:

The typewriter of William G. Gold
Has a ribbon that's 20 years old.
His writing is fine,
But you can't read a line,
And it leaves all the editors cold.

Won't anybody EVER get that middle initial right?

The Department of Agriculture is sponsoring a free illustrated lecture on the subject at 8 p. m. this Tuesday in the Department's auditorium, South Building. You're invited to drop in.

How do I know? Because Maxine Lewis of 517 Montana ave. ne. told me so. She heard I bought a Brownie.

NURSE SHORTAGE

M. O. Coleman of 520 7th s se. is running in tough luck.

He spotted a streetcar ad containing the line "graduate practical nurse." Beside it was a container, and the invitation, "take one." But they were all gone.

People Support 'Friendship Train'

By Drew Pearson

One of the great things about the American people is the way they rise to emergencies—especially to emergencies requiring generosity. If the people of Europe fully understood this fact, I am sure there never would be real danger of war in the future.

A friend of mine returning from Europe the other day said he was impressed by the hustle and materialistic drive of the USA, and made the criticism that we were engrossed only in the business of making money.

I think that I shall send that friend copies of several hundred letters I have received from all sorts of people, high and low, regarding the idea of a "Friendship Train" to collect food from the heart of America as a token of friendship to the people of western Europe.

They are wonderful, heart-warming letters, the kind that make you proud to be an American, the kind that remind you once again that in a democracy the people are ahead of their Government. In fact, these letters are so fine that they should not be read merely by me, but by millions.

To that end, I am printing parts of them below as an inspiring cross section of how this country feels toward the people—not necessarily the governments—of Europe. I am also sending copies to some of my newspaper friends in France and Italy in the hope that they may be published in Europe.

PAUL L. BRANDT, MECHANICSBURG, PA.—"Our Cumberland County has a lot of churches and every church has a missionary society, but they have seldom had an opportunity to work together to accomplish anything as concrete as helping put another loaded car on your 'Friendship Train.' That's a wonderfully fine plan, and I have proposed that we do it. When does the train leave its western terminal?"

HARRY E. McCONNELL, PITTSBURG, PA.—"Should this train be routed via PRR Conemaugh Division to Altoona, I would regard it an honor to serve in the capacity of conductor without pay between Pittsburgh and Altoona, as I am now employed by PRR as freight conductor between these two points."

J. A. OSBORNE, LOUISVILLE, KY.—"If the average folk of foreign countries, who are drawn upon to bear the actual brunt of fighting wars, knew the mind and heart of the mothers and dads of the average American family, who in turn are called upon to bear the hardship and horror of war, it would take some pretty slick leadership to arouse them to the killing stage."

MRS. PAUL BOYD GLASS, JOLIET, ILL.—"Most of us have still not fully comprehended what starvation means. I have been receiving letters from stricken families over there. Put some of these letters on the sides of the Friendship Train and I know the heart of America will really respond."

EMMET M. KELLY, SAN FERNANDO VALLEY, CALIF.—"The idea of starting a train in Los Angeles, traveling eastward and adding carload after carload of food donations from each city as it passes through is a gigantic and marvelous idea. It would be a pleasure and an honor for us to print the labels and stickers for donations to the Friendship Train."

MRS. LILLIAN M. WOEHRLE, EASTON, PA.—"As a national officer of the Mothers of World War II, I am confident that if and when your train leaves Los Angeles, we mothers all along the route will turn out and assist in any way possible."

DABNEY R. YARBROUGH, SR., COLUMBIA, S. C.—"As a rule the people of European countries where our food is sent hardly know where it comes from, and often they are made to believe it is coming from Russia. It seems to me we should educate the people and tell them about the 'American Train,' and that the food is coming from a democratic country. Is it not possible to have the information printed in their language and have booklets enclosed in the sacks of flour or grain?"

MRS. KARL B. CUESTA, TAMPA, FLA.—"Why can't our embassies see that newsreels of food being collected here are placed in the movie theaters of European cities, towns and hamlets?"

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
